FCC IS ACCUSED BY ADMIRAL OF AIDING JAP RAID

Gag Defied; Secret Testimony Bared.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Defying President Roosevelt's 15 month old gag of army and navy officers in connection with operations of the federal communications commission, Rep. Miller [R., Mo.] today made public the secret testimony of Rear Adm. Stanford C. Hooper, retired, accusing the FCC of partial responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Rep. Louis B. Miller.

With FCC Chairman Fly in the witness chair before the special house committee investigating the agency, Miller read into the record copious extracts from Adm. Hooper's statement taken privately before open hearings were begun in July, 1943, and before the Presidential secrecy edict was issued.

Fly Disputes Testimony.

Fly loudly and bitterly protested the airing of "star chamber testimony" and characterized most of the admiral's accusations as "utterly false." He was challenged by Miller to join the committee in a request to President Roosevelt to lift the army and navy gag completely. He refused altho he said he would be happy to see it done.

Miller began by referring to the testimony he was reading as that of "a high ranking naval official," but Fly brought Hooper's name into the discussion and Miller then confirmed the identification. The committee member later quizzed Fly about testimony of "another high ranking naval official" who was not identified in the record.

Miller remarked that publication of Adm. Hooper's charges could do the admiral no harm as he was "beyond reprisals," but that the second naval official was still in the service.

Fly Blamed for Transfer.

Adm. Hooper was quoted in the secret testimony as expressing the belief that Fly brought about his detachment and transfer from Washington to a minor position as an inspector at the Western Electric company in Chicago. The admiral is now reported ill in California.

"The secretary of the navy [the late Frank Knox] told me Fly had been to see him and stated he couldn't get anything done so long as I was in Washington," Hooper testified. "I was transferred shortly after that to what looked like a job made to put me in."

Hooper's testimony, as read by Miller, told of a memo he gave to Knox which detailed numerous reasons for opposing Fly's appointment as chairman of the defense communications board.

Finger Prints Withheld.

Hooper charged the board with failing to take action on a navy recommendation for the removal of certain subordinates as disloyal to the United States. He cited the refusal of the FCC to turn over the finger prints of merchant ship radio operators to the FBI from the

Truman Reign in County an Epic of Waste

(The only administrative job ever held by Harry S. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States, was presiding judge of the Jackson county, Missouri, court. How he conducted the county's business is described in this article, the second in a series on the career of the man who says that "experience" is the measuring stick for candidates in the November election.)

BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 13.—Jackson county remembers well the eight years when Harry S. Truman served as presiding judge of the County court, from 1926 to 1934. In fact, the county is still trying to recover from the "experience," according to George S. Montgomery, the present presiding judge, who is a Democrat.

In Missouri a county court is a three man administrative body corresponding to the county board of commissioners in other states. It has no judicial functions and Truman is not a lawyer.

Ran County Deeply in Debt.

The fact best remembered about the Truman regime is that it ran the county so deeply in the hole that the Missouri legislature passed a rigid budget law, forbidding counties to spend more money than they receive.

But the budget law only locked the barn door after the horse was stolen. Jackson county had been paying its bills with tax anticipation warrants and these, plus unpaid bills, had reached a total of $2,761,300. The county's credit was so bad that warrants were selling from 25 to 40 cents on the dollar.

Judge Montgomery, a successful business man who has been head of the court since 1939, says the Pendergast machine used the tax warrants to turn a neat profit for its friends. In 1936, when the machine still had 50,000 or more "ghost" voters on Jackson county's registration list, a bond issue was passed to provide funds for paying off the old debts, and the fortunate owners of tax warrants, purchased at 40 cents on the dollar received 100 cents on the dollar. It was all done very quietly and efficiently—the machine's method of doing business, Judge Montgomery says.

No Accounting Made.

For several years during the Truman administration, the county spent $500,000 a year more than its income, according to Judge Montgomery. Since he took office he has been trying to get an accounting of the spending during the Truman regime, but thus far has been unsuccessful.

"The county clerk's office tells me that records prior to 1931 were destroyed by fire or were lost when the new courthouse was built in Independence," Montgomery says. "I believe the records were maliciously destroyed to hide the loose, harum scarum methods of the Pendergast machine. No audits were made in those days, and the Civic Research institute, a nonpartisan, independent body, was denied access to the county's books."

After Truman was elected United States senator in 1934, the machine named David E. Long of Kansas City to the post of presiding judge. Long lasted until 1939, when it was discovered that he had authorized the spending of public funds to repair a building owned by his sons.

Long resigned under the fire of

WIVES OF SOLDIERS, THO OUT OF STATE, CAN VOTE NOV. 7

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13 [Special].—Atty. Gen. Barrett today issued an opinion holding that wives of Illinoisans in military service, altho absent from the state, are entitled to vote in their husbands' home precincts, either by absentee ballot or in person.

Barrett's opinion was considered important in the Nov. 7 election. It was requested by State's Atty. Harry A. Hall of Lake county, which contains the Great Lakes Naval Training station and Fort Sheridan.

Barrett two months ago issued an opinion interpreting liberally the provisions of the Illinois soldier vote law. For one thing, he ruled that federal application cards may be used in requesting Illinois soldier ballots.

HIS FOXHOLE

F.D.R. to Quit Quebec Parley this Week-End

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Quebec, Sept. 13.—Grave concern for President Roosevelt's health was expressed here tonight as a result of announcement that Mr. Roosevelt's part in the Quebec conference would terminate this week-end.

It was believed a decision would be reacned before he leaves on the appointment of an allied commander for all operations against the Japanese. Many were of the opinion that the choice lies between Gen. MacArthur and Adm. King, commander in chief of the American fleet.

Report Cold Returns.

Concern over the President's health increased when the day passed with no indication that Prime Minister Churchill was cutting short his attendance at the conference. Tonight it was frequently reported that the cold which plagued Mr. Roosevelt until recently had returned, and that it was felt best for him to remove from Quebec's uncertain climate. A chilling rain strengthened the belief that Quebec was not conducive to his physical improvement.

Besides MacArthur and King, Adm. Nimitz, central Pacific commander, also was being considered to command against the Japs. There was talk that Gen. Eisenhower might be transferred to the Pacific to give the benefit of his experience as commander in chief, now that the fall of Germany is imminent.

President Roosevelt gave renewed assurance today that Premier Stalin was invited to the conference.

The text of the invitation remained secret. In its stead, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early offered reporters some readable, if trivial, secrets of this and preceding international conferences.

Suggests Economic Talks.

The military nature of the present meeting and its importance to the Japanese war was again emphasized. But the underlying basis of economic necessity was disclosed in a letter from Secretary of State Hull, which Mr. Roosevelt made public. It suggested another international conference on the economic situation in general and the crushing of German cartels in particular.

Stalin's reason for not coming to the conference, that he was too busy, was made known by Early on the opening day. The way in which Mr. Stalin's reply was announced was taken at first to indicate that it had just arrived in answer to an urgent invitation. Some skepticism as to this was expressed, and reporters asked Early for the text of the invitation.

Early explained on behalf of the President today that the Russian dictator's invitation was so "woven into the report on the matters to be discussed" that the invitation could not be extracted from the body of the letter, and that the entire letter could not be published for reasons of security.

Early proceeded, however, to fascinate the reporters with tidbits on conferences, past and present, and few thought to ask any more embarrassing questions.

Early disclosed the Teheran conference would have been in the summer of last year at Fairbanks, Alaska, if Stalin could have gone there then. He couldn't; so the meeting was held at Teheran in November.

No Relation to Parley.

Early insisted that the letter from Hull had no relation to the conference, altho there has long been discussion of the major position of the economic problem in planning the war and peace.

The importance of the economic program was further emphasized by the plans of Treasury Secretary Morganthau to begin participating in the meeting here immediately. He is a member of the cabinet committee on economic problems.

Early read a statement issued by the President in response to inquiries about China's possible part in the meeting. It said:

"This is a conference to get the best we can out of the combined British and United States war efforts in the Pacific and in Europe. We are working in consonance with the situation in China, the Pacific, and in Europe, coördinating our efforts with those of our allies, particularly the Chinese and the Russians."

WPB OFFICIALS SAY THEY'RE READY FOR WAR'S END ANY TIME

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—London reports that planners of the United States war effort had figured Oct. 31 as the "outside date" of German collapse brought from war production board officials tonight the comment they were ready for the end of European hostilities—no matter how early victory occurs.

An Associated Press dispatch from London quoted a responsible non-British source as saying the Oct. 31 date had been pinpointed by the WPB after consultations with military sources in working out plans to make a partial change from war to civilian production.

J. A. Krug, acting WPB chairman, declined to comment on the report but other officials said they were prepared to order promptly the lifting of most governmental controls on industry, in accordance with the general reconversion pattern announced last week.

U.S. Will Pay for Cables of Japs' Captives

N. A. Bell, regional director of the Federated Organizations for Bataan Relief, said yesterday that every American prisoner of war in Japanese custody will be enabled to send a cablegram to his next of kin at the expense of the United States government if the Japs will permit it.

Bell's information came from John F. Cotton, assistant to the director of relief to prisoners of war of the American Red Cross. Cotton attended the national convention of the Bataan relief organization in Washington last week.

$100,000 Is Deposited.

"Mr. Cotton said that the government already has deposited $100,000 in Switzerland to pay the cost of cablegrams," said Bell. "I asked if he meant that the cablegrams could be sent when the boys are liberated, and he said, 'No, now.'

"Under such arrangements, we can hope to hear from Bataan prisoners within the next few weeks."

The Red Cross has asked that each prisoner be allowed to send 10 words, said Bell, who is general accountant for the Chicago Great Western railway. He said he did not know when the messages will begin arriving in this country, and that there will be no assurance that the Japanese actually will permit the cables to be sent until the first is received.

Red Cross to Handle Cables.

Cables will be sent to Red Cross offices in Washington, D. C., which will send them to the prisoner of war information bureau of the war department, where they will be checked against the prisoners' relatives' present addresses to insure final delivery. The cost of the cables will be shared by the war, navy and state departments.

Contact with Bataan prisoners and others in the hands of the Japanese has been only by means of brief and scattered postcards.

CARRIER CRAFT BOMB 3 ISLES OF PHILIPPINES

Attacks Continuing, Says Nimitz.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 13 (AP).—American carrier based aircraft attacked the west central Philippines Monday and destroyed 200 Japanese planes in a continuing action against stiffening opposition.

Three islands—Cebu, Panay, and Negros—all northwest of Mindanao, which carrier planes mauled three days previously, were the targets.

This second attack by carrier planes on the Philippines took American aircraft within about 200 miles of Manila. The northern tip of Panay is only 175 miles south of Manila.

Adm. Nimitz' announcement today of the slashing attack indicated it was still under way. Fragmentary reports failed to give American losses in the action.

Kuriles Hit Again.

In contrast to recent detailed statements today's bulletin said only that several cargo ships and small craft were sunk in the attacks. Fifty Japanese planes were shot down in combat and 150 more were destroyed on the ground.

Single planes attacked four northern Kurile Islands Sunday and Monday. The American planes, presumably based in the Aleutians, hit Paramushiro, Shumushu, Onnekotan, and Araito.

A medium cargo vessel and four smaller ships were sunk in Shumushu harbor. Two others were damaged.

Iwo and Pagan Bombed.

At Paramushiro two cargo ships were hit. Fires were started on the southeast coast and small craft off shore were strafed.

Seventh army air force planes attacked Iwo Island in the Volcano Islands, south of Japan, with 26 tons of bombs Sunday. One enemy fighter was shot down and two American Liberators were damaged.

Jaluit atoll in the Marshalls and Pagan Island in the Marianas also were bombed again.

Halmahera Pounded.

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 14 [Thursday]—(AP).—Allied bombers attacked Galela and hit air fields on Halmahera Island, south of the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

Attack planes simultaneously bombed and strafed another airdrome on the island, stepping-stone to the Philippines. Runways were heavily cratered. The enemy offered no interception.

South of Halmahera the "continuing reduction of the enemy's forward air bases" was advanced with 125 tons of explosives dropped on Ceram and Boeroe. A 1,000 ton freighter and three coastal vessels were sunk or damaged in that vicinity.

Air patrols swept northward to bomb an airdrome at Zamboanga, west of Davao, southern Philippines, and a reconnaissance plane sank a coastal vessel off the east coast of Celebes.

Outposts' Fall Described by Tribune Man

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ACROSS THE GERMAN FRONTIER BELOW AACHEN, Sept. 13.—The American push into the Siegfried line can be described as a penetration of its smaller western branch rather than a break-thru of the line itself.

The main fortifications of Hitler's main defense line are three or four miles farther on. It is there that German resistance from a deeper belt of pillboxes can be expected. And behind it the Rhine river, with its 6 knot current and 600 foot width, is a more formidable barrier than anything designed by man.

Today I crossed into Germany in a forest below Aachen. Farther south strong tank forces were pushing deeper into German territory.

Blast "Dragon's Teeth."

Our engineers were blasting paths thru rows of concrete "dragon's teeth." Roads thru the forest were clogged with felled trees or blocked by craters. Tankers also reported they were running into mine fields and steel cables strung across. They had not run into any extensive belt of interlocking pillboxes.

There are areas such as the Aachen region or the Saar where the line is actually a double row of fortifications and tank obstacles from one and a half miles to three miles apart.

They are overgrown with grass and weeds and thus have become more difficult to detect.

The line as originally designed consists of almost continuous rows of "dragon's teeth," curved steel rails, reënforced concrete ditches, and concrete escarpments. The "dragon's teeth" are pyramids of concrete arranged singly or in pairs in four or five rows.

Pillboxes are concentrated in groups, each protecting the other by its fire from machine guns or anti-tank guns, usually 37 or 57 mm. caliber. The whole line is covered by fire from these concrete forts.

Take Boyish Prisoners.

Yesterday in fighting just short of the "line" the doughboys took prisoners from 26 units. All the prisoners were extremely young. Some were not even old enough to shave.

The Yanks had been meeting little infantry opposition as they flushed the woods in Indian style. But they did run into an amazed German 88 millimeter anti-aircraft battery. Two Germans were killed and the rest surrendered.

"They were surprised to see our tanks up with us," smiled Lt. Col. Edward F. Driscoll of West Hempstead, N. Y.

On their approach to the forest Maj. Albert D. Smith of Baltimore, Md., said they had encountered a couple of Mark V. tanks which were disposed of. They had also drawn 88 and 20 mm. fire from the left flank. Their crossing into Germany had been made yesterday at 3:15 p. m., 24 minutes after the leading armored elements had crossed over farther squth. These two crossings were the first made by any 1st army troops, according to official sources. Two companies crossed almost simultaneously. One was led by Lt. John S. Winters, Manhattan, Kas., and the other by Capt. Victor Briggs, Long Island, N. Y.

Find They're in Germany.

In the hamlet of Hergenrath, Belgium, the American advance had trapped a German soldier who had bicycled across the frontier from Aachen to visit his wife. He was shot before he could see her.

About a mile north, we had been driving along the road until we ran out of American soldiers and began to feel lonesome. Inquiry revealed we were in Germany.

Looking 300 yards ahead we saw a German soldier scamper across the road. Then we knew for sure, turned our jeeps about, and hurried back and off up a side road. It developed that a pocket of 100 Germans had been left along the main road.

Back in the forest Driscoll's men were taking a terrific pounding from German batteries of 88s and 150s. Driscoll said that in two years of fighting in Tunisia, Sicily, France, Belgium, and Germany he had never before encountered such continuous and heavy fire. Shortly before we left him, however, our own guns began firing and the Germans fell silent.

YANKS SMASH CLOSE TO MAIN GERMAN FORTS

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 14 [Thursday]—(AP).—American troops rolling thru surprisingly light resistance yesterday drove into the outskirts of the important German border city of Aachen, one of the northern keystones of the Siegfried line, and struck close to the core of the Nazis' vaunted westwall on at least three other sectors along a 90 mile front.

The Americans captured the border village of Rotgen, 10 miles southwest of Aachen, the first German community to be reported taken in the all-out assault on Hitler's reich, and stood 320 air line miles from Berlin.

[The Paris radio said today that allied columns plunging into Germany had passed Lammersdorf, five miles inside Germany and 12 miles southeast of Aachen, in an advance beyond the Rotgen area.]

Storm Siegfried Forts.

The Yanks won positions in the town forest of Aachen and in outskirts overlooking the city, a rail and highway hub of more than 160,000 population, historically a strong fortress position and in modern times a strategic citadel in the Siegfried line.

To the south of these onrushing forces, which were part of the 1st army of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, two other columns were storming or preparing to storm major fortifications in the Siegfried system.

The first stood within gunshot of Germany east of the village of Clervaux, in the northern tip of Luxemburg, and the other farther to the south was in Germany northwest of the town of Trier, its exact position unreported since an initial penetration of at least five miles two days ago.

320,000 Nazis Captured.

As the allies closed in on Germany all along the western front, supreme headquarters announced early today that the American armies alone—the 1st, 3d, and 7th—had captured 320,000 prisoners since D-day.

Midway along the front, 3d army troops under Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., were on the move again, capturing Neufchateau, 15 miles northwest of Nancy on the west bank of the Moselle, and fighting their way inside Charmes, on the east bank 23 miles south of Nancy.

Above Metz, Patton's men captured heights dominating the strategic town of Thionville and cleared the Germans out of that part of the town on the west bank of the river. In addition a new crossing north of Metz was announced.

Yanks 40 Miles from Cologne.

Gen. Hodges' forces after taking Rotgen, six miles east of the captured Belgian border town of Eupen, were just 40 miles west of the big German Rhineland city of Cologne.

The Germans, who have acknowledged the fall of one Siegfried line fortification, said in a Berlin broadcast this morning that the Americans, "supported by very powerful air forces," were attacking on "a broad front" in the Aachen-Rotgen sector with "very bitter fighting raging at the Siegfried line."

Writing from Rotgen, William Smith White of the Associated Press said American troops "are now assaulting the hulking anti-tank obstacles and pillboxes just beyond this town."

Capture of Rotgen, an historic milestone of this war, occurred at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Drive 35 Miles from Rhine.

"It is too early to draw general conclusions," White said, "but certainly resistance thus far has been far less than might have been expected, and there are many indications that the headlong German retreat begun in Belgium is now continuing back toward the Rhine."

For the first time in almost two weeks Lt. Gen. Patton's powerful 3d army in northern France was rolling in high gear as it poured thru the countryside east of its Moselle

One column raced eight miles in two hours, flushing Germans from the woods into a rain of bombs from American battle planes. More than 200 Nazi vehicles were flushed near Clemery, eight miles from the river, reported Wes Gallagher, Associated Press field correspondent.

The Berlin radio admitted Patton's forces had burst across the Moselle barrier and said they were pounding toward Luneville in a great offensive "aimed at forcing the entire Moselle line on a broad front."

BRITISH PUSH ON

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 14 [Thursday].—Field Marshal Montgomery's troops today had forced the Germans to abandon the entire 45 mile length of the Albert canal line and to fall back beyond the Escaut canal bordering Holland.

The British 2d army still is operating under strict security silence but the Germans claimed yesterday it had advanced 19 miles on the road to Eindhoven, Holland.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German high command spokesman, said last night that Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey had now pushed the bulk of his armies forward into the Beeringen bridgehead to support his armored drive toward Eindhoven.

"The British commander is evidently planning to make a great operational break-thru with Nijmegen on the Waal, 37 miles north of the frontier, as its distant objective," Sertorius added.

The Germans in the Flanders pocket, while still active in the northern suburbs of Gent, are being gradually pushed back by British, Canadian and Polish units toward Zeeland.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the Wednesday German war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"On the western front, severe defensive fighting continues in the old centers of gravity. The tenacious resistance of our troops frustrated enemy attempts to break thru north of Hasselt and from out of the area of Verviers in the direction of Aachen.

"During the last days of fighting north of Luxemburg, 142 enemy tanks and scouting cars were shot up. Forty antitank guns were captured or destroyed.

"American formations are advancing across the upper Moselle toward Luneville. Heavy fighting also in under way for Neufchateau.

"Enemy pressure against our defenses between Vesoul and the Swiss frontier continues.

"Enemy attacks against fortified ports in the west were intensified. The enemy attacked Calais up to seven times, in vain. After heavy shelling and rolling air raids, enemy tanks entered Le Havre. The garrison offered the bravest resistance to the last moment.

"On the main battlefield at Brest, troops of all branches of the armed forces are grimly fighting continuous enemy attacks. Counter-attacks threw the enemy back at several points at Lorient and considerable loss was inflicted upon him.

"Local fighting in the Alpine passes on the French-Italian border continues. Several enemy thrusts were repelled."

R. A. F. HAS NEW SPITFIRE WITH 5 BLADED 'PROP'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—A fast and powerful new Spitfire with a five bladed propeller which gives it fighting strength at 40,000 feet and higher, came off the British air ministry's secret list tonight. It's been cruising enemy territory for months.

"The enemy have been shy and combats have been rare," said the British information service announcement.

The new R. A. F. Spitfire Mark XIV. is powered by a new Rolls-Royce engine developing over 2,000 horse power. The five bladed propeller is to carry the extra engine power.

Nazis Don't Like Us, U.S. Officer Finds

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY TROOPS ACROSS THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Sept. 13.—Here are a few sidelights on the entrance of United States troops into Germany.

After two years of fighting the Germans, a staff officer of a famous American regiment last night concluded his report to headquarters with this remark: "Indications are the Germans are not friendly." He obviously referred to the civilian population.

In Rotgen, where the civilians hung out white flags as soon as the Americans arrived, our soldiers found many civilians who greeted them with impassive silence. Some smiled, pinned flowers on our soldiers and declared we were welcome as deliverers from the Nazis. Americans normally believe the best of every one, but this time our soldiers said they were skeptical of the Germans' reaction.

In Eupen, a German city within Belgium, the citizens had begun to warm up somewhat. They said they had been told we were barbarians who would kill, loot, rape, and pillage, but after conversation had found we were very pleasant. But a large section of the population still looked on us coldly.

Five proclamations, arranged by Gen. Eisenhower and the military government for German occupied territory to abolish all traces of nazism, failed to mention the Hitler salute. Officers of one American unit getting ready to take over German towns wrote into their own proclamation this specific prohibition.

Among many Belgians the opinion was expressed that because King Leopold had surrendered to the Germans his younger brother, Prince Charles, should be proclaimed king. These Belgians say that Prince Charles has worked industriously in the underground resistance movement. For this reason, if Belgium is to remain a constitutional monarchy, they believe the prince will be more acceptable than the king to a majority of Belgians.

CHICAGO YANK'S TANK DESTROYER OPENS BARRAGE

ON THE GERMAN-LUXEMBURG BORDER OVERLOOKING THE SIEGFRIED LINE, Sept. 13 (AP).—An assault on the Siegfried line in this sector was opened today by American forces with a terrific barrage which failed to bring a single shot from the Germans.

While the shelling was going on American tanks crept up but they drew no enemy fire. Two hamlets in the Siegfried fortifications were set aflame. Near one hamlet mortars ripped gaping holes thru big German military barracks.

The first shots of the barrage in this sector—which is northwest of Trier where the Americans have entered Germany—were fired by a tank destroyer crew under Sgt. Thomas Kearney, 7404 S. Emerald av., Chicago. The tank destroyer is named "Beautiful Sharon" after the young daughter of the driver, Corp. James Tyrell of Carroll, Ia.

Helping direct the artillery fire was Sgt. Daniel Cwick, 2832 Woodard st., Chicago.

RADIO STOLEN FROM HOME.

ROME, Sept. 13 (AP).—A three pronged allied 7th army drive was aimed tonight at the Belfort pass—southwestern gateway to Germany—as the 7th and 3d armies completed a junction in force near Chatillon. This junction closed the major enemy retreat routes out of southern and western France.

All three drives toward Belfort were meeting fierce resistance, but one spearhead was near Montbellard, eight miles southwest of Belfort. Sixteen miles south of the gap French troops engaged in bitter fighting at Pone de Roide against strong German fortified positions extending to Villersexel, 20 miles to the northwest.

Hem in 20,000 Nazis.

Americans moving directly east toward the German-French-Swiss border pass from captured Vesoul, 30 miles from Belfort, encountered Nazi tanks and self-propelled guns, but advanced four miles to Dampvalley. The Americans captured Vesoul after a two day fight and successfully hurled off a counter-attack from the northwest. Other units drove six miles north to Flagy.

The junction in force by Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th army and Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d seals a noose around some 20,000 Germans trapped in a bulge to the west, remnants of the 19th German army. An official announcement said the 29 day old southern France campaign already had gathered a bag of 75,000 prisoners. In addition, thousands of Germans have been killed and wounded.

Nazis Attempt Escape.

With the fall of Chatillon, 30 miles southeast of Chamount, headquarters of Gen. John J. Pershing in the first World war, many German garrisons in towns to the east were reported desperately trying to escape toward the border.

Headquarters said there was a noticeable slackening of enemy resistance west of the Saone river. French troops pushed forward in the upper Ource valley, cleaning out pockets southeast of Chatillon.

Twenty minutes after Vesoul had been cleared of the enemy thousands of French and American flags fluttered in the breeze. The streets were jammed with exultant citizens who offered bottles of champagne, cakes, and kisses to every one wearing a khaki uniform.

Pvt. Joseph Liberio, 1136 N. Montecello st., Chicago was among those entering Vesoul.

Capt. Warren M. Stewart of Chicago, and Capt. James W. Cole of Encinitas, Cal., led the Americans into the town.

FIRM'S EQUIPMENT STOLEN.

Theft of a typewriter, an adding machine, a check projector, a radio, and two coats from the office of the Chicago Metals company, 1001 Weed st., was reported to police yesterday by Sam Ruskin, 4750 Winthrop av., a foreman.

U. S. PUTS NEW NINTH ARMY IN FIELD IN FRANCE

Yank Forces Twice Those of British.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 13 (AP).—Four full American armies—two more than Gen. Pershing had in the first World war—are on the western front, it was disclosed today with announcement that the United States 9th army had taken a place beside the 1st, 3d, and 7th.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson.

Altho it was not announced whether the 9th, commanded by Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, was actually in the fight on its sector of operations, it seemed likely that the army already was in the line.

Because of security limitations, and the flexible size of armies, it is impossible to draw a detailed comparison of the present lineup with the maximum American World war strength, but the Americans now have more troops on the western front than they ever before have had on any foreign continent.

May Form New Group.

A total of 2,079,880 American soldiers were transported to Europe during the first war, of which about 1,225,000 saw action.

In addition to the all-American forces, the British 2d army and the Canadian 1st army, forming the 21st army group under Gen. Montgomery, are in France. There also are French divisions and the first allied airborne army, which has not been reported in action.

Creation of a second American army group was regarded as the likely outcome of the linkup of the 7th army from the south with Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d and the creation of the new 9th.

Double British Strength.

Patton's 3d and Hodges' 1st armies form the 12th American army group. Eisenhower put it under the command of Lt. Gen. Bradley and brought him up to equal status with Montgomery. The Americans now have far the heaviest force on the western front.

How much the largest cannot be told, but on a rough basis the Americans have double the combined British and Canadian strength.

If Your Name's George, Better Not Read This

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw says George is an ugly name in English. "It's superfluous; it's useless; and I don't use it." He said this after the Irish Shaw society had decided its title should be "Bernard Shaw Society of Ireland" instead of the "George Bernard Shaw society." Shaw said he's "G. B. S." to his intimate friends.

MADAGASCAR CONTROL PASSES TO DE GAULLISTS

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 13.—French sovereignty of the Island of Madagascar, 250 miles off the east coast of Africa, now automatically has reverted to the French committee of liberation in Paris, inquiries disclosed today. The British who invaded the strategic island on May 15, 1942, and completed the seizure several months later turned over control to the Fighting French in December, 1943, in an agreement signed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

British Retain Bases.

Since then the Fighting French have governed the colony, altho the British have maintained sea bases there by reason of the island's location at the entrance of the Indian ocean. Between the time of the original British invasion and surrender of control there was a provisional English government which was liquidated upon the signing of the De Gaulle-Eden pact.

Later, the British paid out 1,500,000 francs [approximately $30,000] to the native and colonial population in reparations for damage arising out of the occupation.

Blockaded in 1940.

Originally the island had been isolated by a British blockade beginning in 1940. At that time, it was estimated, 80 per cent of the population was De Gaullist and pro-British. Later, however, the Madagascar French swung toward Vichy with the result that when the British invaded stubborn resistance was encountered.

French prisoners of war received a choice of joining the Fighting French or being imprisoned by the provisional British regime. Gradually, it was disclosed today, most of them decided to join the De Gaullist forces.

Illinois Soldier Wins Silver Star for Bravery

WITH THE 5TH ARMY, Italy (AP).—Pvt. Clyde H. Manley of Bingham, Ill., has been awarded the silver star for gallantry in action in the 5th army front in Italy. Manley, member of a rifle company in the 86th infantry division, in the face of heavy machine gun fire single handedly attacked an enemy machine gun nest. He inflicted an unascertained number of casualities and helped take 16 German prisoners.

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS OF DRIVE INTO GERMANY

Meets Many Midwestern Yanks Across Border.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Sept. 13.—American infantrymen streamed across the German border thru at least two points today. The have already occupied two small German towns in which a handful of civilians remained despite a German army warning that the Americans were coming and would kill them if they didn't flee.

We crossed the border this morning for the second time, driving our jeeps thru the shallow Our river east of Bastogne. The first German civilians we saw stood outside a farm house and regarded us with what seemed more like apathy than antipathy. In fact we thought we got a half nod from one man as we drove by.

Our first entry into Germany was made yesterday when we caught up with a double file of infantrymen carrying rifles and bazookas along a little road leading across the border.

This is a veteran outfit which fought its way across France, and there was no more excitement than if the men were on maneuvers. We fell in and followed.

Meets Chicagoans.

The press sign on the front of our jeep drew attention and soon we were finding midwesterners in the marching column. The first man I talked with was Pvt. Eric Carlson, 21, of 8014 Maryland av., Chicago, a former shipping clerk. Then we talked to Staff Sgt. Lamont Berens, Wausau, Wis.; Sgt. Stanley Knutson, Joliet, Ill., both former defense plant workers; Pvt. Dewey Kelley, 4954 Race av., Chicago, former truck driver whom we rode on the hood of our jeep until he regained the ground lost while giving his name. Pvt. Leonard Jaros, 2744 S. Karlov av., Chicago, was the next we met—in fact, the first Chicagoan we talked with in Germany proper.

The column kept moving uphill on the dusty road and we could hear our machine guns and a German "burp" gun ahead.

With quiet efficiency our wire crews were stringing lines along with the column. Soon we saw the first German pillbox. It was covered with grass and its front streaked with green and yellow paint, which made it blend with the terrain.

The order went out for all men to "spread out" and the marching column became an orderly group moving across thru German potato and grain fields on a wide front. Soon a brief break in ranks was ordered and we found we were sitting near Pvt. Edward Sharkey, 1513 W. 19th st., Chicago, who has been recommended for a medal for knocking out a German machine gun nest a few weeks ago in Normandy.

March Out 10 Prisoners.

Word came back that a man ahead had just captured a pillbox and 10 German prisoners in one of the few occupied pillboxes found. These now came marching down the road with hands on their heads, followed by Yanks in a jeep guarding them. The jeep also carried the first American casualty we had seen—a man with slight head injuries incurred when a Nazi threw a grenade at him.

As the prisoners passed we found Pvt. James S. Kelly, 5960 S. Union av., Chicago, former steel worker now a jeep driver for a wire crew. He helped capture a German lieutenant earlier in the day.

There was another break and we took the names of Pvt. Eldon Benson, Batavia, Ill., a Browning automatic rifle man who used to work for Montgomery Ward's; Pvt. Ernest Blaschka, Marshall, Wis., an assistant B. A. R. man; Pvt. Donald Peacock, Zion, Ill., a former worker for Johns Manville, and Pvt. Earl Koss, West Allis, Wis., a former packing house worker.

By now we realized we were passing German pillboxes all over the place. They were scattered on both sides of a little road, all painted in the same fashion, all commanding various approaches. One pillbox we discovered was beneath the road we were walking on after we had passed it. We talked with Pvt. Cleo G. Goode, Des Moines, Ia., and Pvt. William Heimberger, 5221 Windsor av., Chicago, before they had to move on.

Some Pillboxes Padlocked.

Second Lt. William Purdy, Sparks, Neb., said his unit had cleared 19 pillboxes during the day. One prisoner taken said the machine guns had been removed as recently as Aug. 22 for use on another section of German's extended front. Many pillboxes were padlocked and had to be broken into.

Other midwesterners seen yesterday and today were pvt. Walter Domagala, 12211 Wallace st., Chicago; Lt. Joseph Hadary, 4738 Virginia av., Chicago, formerly employed by the Lake Shore bank; Master Sgt. Robert K. Brewer, 530 Diversey av., Chicago, former assistant manager of the Riviera theater; Sgt. Carl Eauschke, 1743 Barry av., Chicago, who supplied me with the typewriter on which this story is being written, and Capt. Robert H. Schultz, 7742 Yates av., Chicago.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Gen. John J. Pershing, suffering from a slight cold but looking fit in the opinion of his few visitors, quietly observed his 84th birthday today at his quarters in the army's Walter Reed hospital.

The Army and Navy union presented the general of the armies with a birthday card signed by 312 veterans who served under Pershing in five campaigns—the Indian wars, the Philippine expedition, Spanish-American war, Mexican occupation, and the World war.

Officials of the Military Order of the Purple Heart and the American Legion also gave Gen. Pershing greetings.

CAPT. ALDRICH, CITY'S TOP ACE, GETS NAVY CROSS

Capt. D. N. Aldrich.

Marine Capt. Donald N. Aldrich, 26, of 6158 Ingleside av., Chicago's foremost ace, yesterday was decorated with the navy cross at San Diego, Cal., for heroism against the enemy.

Aldrich, credited with 20 Japanese and nine probables, was given the award for his conduct as division leader of a marine fighter squadron from Jan. 5 to Feb. 15, 1944. In that period he shot down 15 Jap planes.

Previously, Aldrich had been awarded the distinguished flying cross for his action against the enemy on Aug. 26 and Sept. 2, 1943.

NEW RUSSIAN DRIVE REACHES CZECH FRONTIER

Reds Take Lomza; 15 Mi. from East Prussia.

LONDON, Sept. 14 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Red army reached the Czechoslovak border on a 25 mile front below Krosno in a flaring new offensive in southern Poland yesterday and conquered the stubborn fortress of Lomza in northern Poland in a powerful drive that carried within 15 miles of the East Prussian border on the south.

Simultaneously a ferocious onslaught was opened on Warsaw, with soviet troops and the Russian sponsored 1st Polish army fighting the Germans in the suburban area of Praga on the right bank of the Vistula river.

The drive to recover Hungarian held Transylvania for Romania made progress, Russian and Romanian troops seizing more than 50 settlements, principally the city and railway station of Odorhei, the soviet war bulletin announced in detailing the series of successes in a big day all along the eastern front.

Lomza Falls After 11 Days.

Lomza, last major stronghold guarding the southern approaches to East Prussia, fell to the Russians after 11 days of battle that ranked with the bloodiest of the entire summer.

The Russians then swept on north and northwest, taking more than 30 smaller towns, including Nowgorod, nine miles northwest of Lomza and 15 miles from southern East Prussia. The Red army already is poised along the eastern frontier of East Prussia.

Another soviet push was in progress against Warsaw, making slow headway from the east with the aid of swarms of planes and droves of tanks. The Germans admitted "local breaches" in their lines.

Peril Slovakia Passes.

"The soviet air force is bombing Praga and engaging the luftwaffe over that suburb with marked demonstration of Russian supremacy. There are fires around the Wilno railway station."

In their crushing drive to the Czechoslovakian frontier the Russians announced they had captured more than 100 towns, including Krosno, 47 miles west of Przemysl.

The Russians now were in position for a swift invasion thru the Beskid passes of Slovakia.

In northern Romania Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's mountaineer troops were driving toward the Carpatho-Ukraine, another fragment of dismembered Czecho-Slovakia, having taken the German-Hungarian stronghold of Campulung.

Yugoslavs Contact Reds.

The Yugoslav Partisan Marshal Tito broadcast a special war bulletin today, saying that his troops had captured Negotin, Yugoslavia, six miles from the Romanian and Bulgarian border, and had made contact with the Red army.

The German Transocean news agency reported last night the Russians had crossed the Danube and reached Kladovo in Serbia, five miles southwest of Turnu-Severin, where the Red army first reached the Yugoslav border.

Russian Group Arrives in Canada; Errand Mystery

EDMONTON, Alt., Sept. 13 (AP).—A group of Russian officials, the nature of their mission undisclosed, arrived in Edmonton last night and departed by plane today presumably for the United States. Canadian and United States authorities here said they had no information regarding the identity of the Russians nor could they say if the visit had any connection with the Churchill-Roosevelt conference in Quebec.

REVEAL TERMS OF ARMISTICE WITH ROMANIA

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—Romania has pledged to fight on the allied side until final victory over Germany, to pay $300,000,000 worth of reparations to Russia, to restore all allied nations' property, and to adhere to the 1940 frontier that gave Russia Bessarabia and northern Bucovina, the soviet government announced tonight in broadcasting the terms of the Romanian armistice.

In return, Romania is to get back the Transylvanian territory which the Germans had handed to Hungary in 1940 and is to maintain her own civil government in noncombat zones.

Commenting on the 20 point armistice formally signed today, the chief Romanian negotiator in Moscow, Lucretiu Patrascanu, declared, "We don't have a right to be dissatisfied with the terms."

King Up to People.

Patrascanu also told a press conference that it is up to the people to decide whether King Michael will be retained.

These first published armistice terms of the war were signed by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky on behalf of Russia, Britain, and the United States, with Russia "acting in the interest of all of the united nations," and by the Romanian delegation which has been dealing in Moscow while Romanian troops already were fighting under Red army direction against the Germans and Hungarians.

Italy was accorded the first armistice of this war from the allied nations but its terms never have been made public. Terms for Bulgaria have been drafted by the European advisory commission, but not yet signed.

Romania agreed to fight for the restoration of her own "independence and sovereignty," providing at least 12 infantry divisions and reinforcements to be under soviet supreme command.

She agreed to abolish racial discriminatory laws and to lock up all German and Hungarian nationals on her soil except Jews.

$300,000,000 in Six Years.

Romania also must return all property taken from the soviet union and all property in Romania of the Allied Nations.

The biggest reparation item was the equivalent of $300,000,000, with American dollars specified as the yardstick, to be paid by Romania to Russia in goods, industrial equipment and foodstuffs over a 6-year period.

The armistice specifically declared that this was acknowledged to be only a part payment of the damage done Russia by Romanian troops but was scaled down by virtue of Romania's active participation in the war against Germany and Hungary.

Reparations May Be Model.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Russo-American-British armistice with Romania includes reparations provisions which may serve as a model on payments to be made by other enemy countries, according to the circumstances of their surrender, it was believed here today.

The Russian attitude, already made clear in terms drawn up for Finland several months ago, favors a flat reparation sum to be paid in as brief time as possible.

The basis for computing reparations, which the allies are apparently adopting as a consistent policy, is at least partial compensation for damage done.

PHILLIPS BACK FROM EUROPE; SILENT ON INDIA

New York, Sept. 13 [Special].—Ambassador William Phillips, recently replaced as Gen. Eisenhower's political adviser in Europe, arrived from overseas today, mum on charges and denials of British diplomatic "high pressure" reportedly applied after his unfavorable report on conditions in India.

He refused to discuss reports that the British had declared him persona non grata because of his disclosure of political conditions in India inimical to the allied war program, and his only brief comment indicated that full explanation would not be made public, if at all, until he has conferred with state department officials in Washington, D. C.

HIT BY 4 NAZI BARRAGES, FORT LIMPS TO BASE

Co-Pilot and Berwyn, Ill., Navigator Killed.

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 13 (AP).—The shattered Flying Fortress "Marie Helena" landed at an emergency field in France a few weeks ago after four German flak barrages killed two of its crew, injured four others, and knocked out three of its four motors.

The first barrage came just before the bomber reached the target. One propeller was sheared off and another so badly damaged the engine was useless.

Lt. John Thomsen, Oakland, Cal., the co-pilot, and Lt. Joseph Beauregard, 1436 S. Kenilworth av., Berwyn, Ill., the navigator, were killed.

Hit by Second Burst.

The third barrage of flak knocked out the radio and interphone system and punctured the oxygen lines.

Gets Another Barrage.

The fighter escort dipped and wobbled its wings frantically trying to signal the bomber that it was a German air base.

"I thought some of those acrobatics were by way of landing instructions," said Smith. "But suddenly a barrage of flak, machine gun and small arms fire exploded all around us."

The Fortress pulled away with its tail section uncontrollable from several cables and all the gas tanks punctured and leaking.

Fighter escorts shephereded the bomber to an emergency field in France and Smith sat it down a few minutes after a third engine conked out from lack of fuel.

The ship landed on a short runway with a single motor.

Student at Loyola.

Lt. Beauregard was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Beauregard, of the Berwyn address. He was a student at Loyola university when he enlisted in the army air forces in September, 1942. His parents previously had received word from the war department that he was killed in action July 8. He has two brothers in the navy.

DRAGGED INTO CAB AND ROBBED.

John K. Eilert of 237 E. 51st st., New York City, reported to police yesterday that he awakened in his room in a loop hotel with bruises and with $241 missing from his wallet after he had been dragged into a cab by three men at Adams st and Wabash av.

CHICAGOANS ON 'BIG BUTCH' KEEP JAPS SEWED UP

PT Boat Prevents Aid Reaching Wewak.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH PT BOATS OFF WEWAK, New Guinea, Sept. 13.—The Japs at Wewak are trapped, and tonight Big Butch and a sister PT boat are making sure they stay that way.

Lt. William Hempel.

Watch for Submarines.

The two ships pulled away from their tender during the afternoon and arrived before dark within sight of Wewak, but just outside the range of her guns—one PT got shot up near here a short time ago. The Japs have tried to smuggle supplies in by submarine and evacuate what key personnel remain, and our job is to see that it doesn't happen tonight.

After midnight the lookout thinks he seems a sub along the shore, so Butch brings in his PT close, but it turns out to be a rock. So everybody but the lookouts go back to sleep on the rolling deck.

Guns Pepper Coast.

At dawn we start back. A couple of times we pull close to shore and pepper the coast with all the guns Big Butch mounts, just in case any Japs are there.

The two tiny ships race home. A far away look comes into Butch's eyes.

"Golly, but I'd like to be getting set for those football games just about now," he says.

NAZIS BLASTED BY OVER 5,000 ALLIED PLANES

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—Between 5,000 and 6,000 allied planes ranged ahead of allied ground forces invading Germany in the greatest concentrated air attack in history today, dropping 10,000 tons of bombs between the Siegfried line and Berlin and destroying at least 53 German planes. Thirty-three Nazi planes were knocked out in the air and 20 destroyed on the ground.

The allied bombers peppered the attack area with an average of 10 tons of bombs a minute.

The assault was continued at nightfall by medium bombers which attacked the causeway between Walcheren and South Beveland in Holland and strafed the roads and rail crossings on the south bank of the west Scheldt river. One squadron was a Dutch formation of Mitchells.

Later tonight, R. A. F. Mosquitos bombed Berlin, the fourth night in succession.

The United States 8th air force lost 27 bombers and nine fighters. A force of 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by 300 fighters, attacked three synthetic oil plants, two motor transport factories and other military targets. British heavies blasted the Osnabruck freight yards, and bombed the synthetic oil plant at Nordstern.

More than 500 heavy bombers based in Italy hit two synthetic oil plants along the Silesian border and another near the Polish frontier.

Ninth air force Thunderbolts strafed trucks and trains hauling supplies to enemy forces in the vicinity of Nancy and cut railway tracks in five places near that city as well as destroying many gun emplacements near Metz.

ALLIES 'FREEING' ITALY PRESS, BUT CONTROL NEWS

Run 5 Largest Papers as Propaganda Organs.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 13.—The Italian press and radio, in the part of Italy dominated by the allies, are closely controled today by allied supervisors who have described their all-enveloping system of control as an attempt to give the country a democratic press and radio at some time in the hazy future.

Liberated Italy, Sicily and Sardinia now have 22 daily newspapers and 194 other periodicals serving a total of 20,000,000 persons. These publications exist thru the courtesy of the allied propaganda organization known as the "Psychological Warfare Branch for Italy," which, it is explained, is an offspring of a combination of the United States office of war information and its British counterpart, the political warfare executive. The top executive command of PWB includes United States and British civilians formerly with the OWI, the British psychological warfare services and various newspapers in both nations.

Briton at Top.

PWB control is exercised thru the allied publications board in Rome, of which Lt. Col. Ion Munro, a British officer and press chief for the Italian theater, is executive secretary.

This board has sole authority to grant and revoke licenses for the publication of newspapers, books, magazines, posters, and brochures. It also controls the flow into Italy of the imported newsprint upon which Italian papers are dependent, and directs the distribution of newsprint within the country. Finally, it controls all news and radio services.

Most of the papers presently published are under carefully selected anti-fascist Italian management but the five largest dailies are operated directly by the psychological warfare branch, itself. Classed as No. 1 priority papers in matters of newsprint and other supplies, their circulation far exceeds that of independent papers.

Gives Circulation Data.

The circulation of these papers with those of the next largest in each city follows:

Rome: the PWB controled Corriere di Roma, 180,000; the Socialist controled Avanti, 42,000. Naples: the PWB Risorgimento, 120,000; the Communist controled La Voce, 50,000. Bari: the PWB Gazzetta del Mezzogiorno, 70,000; the Communist weekly, Civilta Proletaria, 35,000. Palermo: the PWB Giornale di Sicilia, 50,000; the Communist weekly, La Voce dei Communisti, 5,000. Catania: the PWB Corriere di Sicilia, 30,000 and an unimportant medical quarterly magazine, 200. In the last three cities there are no daily papers except those of the PWB.

Leaders of the PWB announced that their organization acquired control of the five papers because it "was the only way allied propaganda could be disseminated without asking favors of the independent papers or without giving orders in the Fascist manner."

Get Allied Releases.

Directives issued by the PWB high command to the men actually running the papers state that the five dailies will carry straight news, principally based on United Nations News Service releases. The directives further state that the papers will develop the allied directives in editorials and layout and will publish material from time to time of political protagonists when space allows.

The United Nations News Service, it was explained, was organized in Naples earlier this year. Its principal source of international news is Reuter [British news agency] altho stories are supplied by the OWI and occasionally picked up from American news services.

The question of when such international news networks as the Associated Press, the United Press, and Reuter, itself, will be allowed to enter Italy to resume the dissemination of news to Italian papers is one the PWB is reluctant to discuss. One PWB executive announced that the question is one which "must be settled on the highest military and diplomatic levels."

Propaganda Vital.

The PWB executive explained that propaganda is a vital war weapon, that its control and direction are as important as that of any other weapon, and that news is the largest single element in propaganda. He said that uncensored news [apparently meaning that of the international services] might result in the dissemination of information which would aid and comfort the enemy and which might lead to disorder in the community life of Italy.

PAIR BOOKED AS BURGLARS.

Leroy Harris, 32, and James English, 36, both of 2010 Fulton st. were booked on a charge of burglary yesterday by the police, and will appear in Felony court today. They were arrested Monday night inside the Crown Cleaning shop, 5808 Milwaukee av.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mary Larson, 1351 N. Parkside av.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

La Salle st. station.

THE ANSWERS.

Pvt. Roy P. Fantozzi, 307 W. 63d st.—A sailor was leaning out a train window talking to his sweetheart and his father. His dad lifted the girl up on his shoulders so she could kiss the boy good-by. The rest of the boys on the train wanted to kiss her, too, so he carried her the length of the car and they all kissed her on the forehead.

Harry L. Deising, head gateman, 6956 Yale av.—One young lady accompanied her friend to the train and all the way from the gate to the train she kept kissing him, and in a different spot each time. In all my 42 years on the railroad I've never seen one fellow wearing so much lipstick. It was funny to every one but him.

A. E. Lewis, Pullman conductor, Brookline, Mass.— After a gay party had put a soldier on the train they discovered they'd said their good-bys, wished him a good trip, and sent him off without his baggage. They grabbed the bags and started chasing the train down the track. We stopped the train and picked up the bags.

Tay Connolly, freight router, 4645½ Lake Park av. The man spent quite a long interval kissing his girl before he had to catch his train. He waited until the last minute before leaving her and, as he turned to go one way and she the other, they stumbled over one another's feet and fell flat on their faces.

B. J. Nolan, gateman, 2621 N. Spaulding av.—When a sergeant finished kissing a WAC corporal they said in very military tones, "goodby, corporal" and "goodby, sergeant" then turned and walked away. I guess I looked at the sergeant rather queerly because of his apparent lack of feeling. He said, "O, that's my wife."

Tony Signore, gateman, 2263 Collins st., Blue Island—Two soldiers came thru the gate with their wives and families. One was carrying the baby, a dog, and a box. He was getting on the train when his mother ran thru the gates to kiss him goodby. He put the baby to one side and the dog around his mother's neck and kissed her.

PETAIN MAY WIN VINDICATION IN TIME: DARRAH

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Tribune correspondent formerly in Paris and Vichy, who was arrested by the Germans in 1942 and interned at Baden-Baden until his exchange last February.]

New York, Sept. 13.—Dispatches from Paris since the liberation indicate that whatever public authority has been established in the French capital is encountering great difficulty in unscrambling the collaboration egg.

It is reported that in the ruthless searching out of those who were marked as zealous German sympathizers and collaborationists the French Forces of the Interior and the new provisional government have arrested several thousand persons and that the jails and concentration camps are filled.

But that some of the hatred is cooling and that a more sober view is being taken are indicated by reports that it is forbidden now to shave the heads of women denounced for having been too friendly with the Germans and that the daughter and son-in-law of Pierre Laval have been released from custody.

There is one aspect, however, of the enforced relationship between the German masters and the French during the occupation which is doubtless overlooked in the first flush of liberation. That is that there was no way for the French to avoid a certain amount of cooperation. Mayors had to conform or they would have been replaced by German officers. Railway employes had to haul Germans whether they liked it or not. To get certain raw materials factory managers had to submit to German regulations.

Where Nazis Found Aid.

The type of collaboration which the Germans sought to impose began with German sympathizers such as manufacturers who converted their plants to get German war orders, certain elements of the Vichy government such as Joseph Darnand and his French militia, a small element of French intellectuals who were disgusted with the disorder of the republic, and, finally, the French Popular party. Jacques Doriot, the party's leader, organized a French legion to fight in German uniforms against Russia.

The stronghold of this type of German loving collaborator was in Paris, rather than Vichy. The leaders were Doriot and Marcel Deat, publisher and Vichy labor minister.

On the other hand, the Germans repeatedly threatened Laval and Marshal Henri Petain with replacement by Deat and Doriot and their party when Vichy did not quickly obey German orders.

Wins Wide Support.

It seems certain that Petain in time will be exonerated in the stand he took. Most thinking French people are beginning to hold that he saved the 28,000,000 French people in the unoccupied region for two years from a worse fate than would have been theirs had the government fled and thereby placed the entire country in German hands.

Petain by stalling and pretending to collaborate kept the Germans from the Mediterranean and probably made the task of invading North Africa easier for allied armies.

Laval's case is different. To some, however, it will never be certain whether even Laval was not more inspired by his hatred of the British than his love for the Germans. But he did take a clear-cut stand after he came back to power in April, 1942. At that time he said he hoped for a German victory. From then on he was a German tool.

Nazis Condemn General in Moscow to Death

Gen. Walter von Seidlitz, who was captured by the Russians and subsequently became the spokesman for the Free German national committee in Moscow, has been expelled from the German army and condemned to death in absence, the German Overseas News agency said last night in a broadcast. Another Berlin broadcaster announced that following a German high command order to begin training sharpshooters in the German reserve army, competitive practice shoots have been held in various "defense regions."

BRITAIN REFUSES TO LET A. P. INTERVIEW JAILED TYLER KENT

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—The British government has declined to permit the Associated Press to interview Tyler Kent, former code clerk of the United States embassy in London, now serving a seven year sentence for violation of Britain's official secrets act. He was sentenced in November, 1940.

Home Secretary Morrison, replying to a written request for an interview with Kent, said "it will not be possible. It is not the practice with prisoners in custody."

[The AP had received a telegram from Kent's mother, Mrs. Ann H. P. Kent of Washington, D. C., asserting she had been informed by the British embassy that they knew of no reason why Americans can not visit him at his place of detention.]

ITALY SCHOOLS CHIEF A CHICAGO STORM CENTER

Washburne Charged with Teaching Radicalism.

Maj. Carlton W. Washburne, 54, former superintendent of schools in Winnetka, who has been identified in press dispatches as one of three American educators in charge of reopening Italy's schools, developed a reputation in the United States of possessing unorthodox, if not radical, tendencies.

His companionate marriage in 1912 to Miss Heluiz Chandler, daughter of Mrs. Julia Davis Chandler, Philadelphia author, was denounced by pastors at the time as being based upon an immoral contract. The marriage agreement provided that fidelity was not to be regarded as a moral social duty by either party, and provided for termination of the marriage at any time at the option of either party. The ceremony itself was legally binding, however, for the protection of children.

Methods Criticized.

In 1933, unorthodox educational methods introduced by Washburne into Winnetka schools evoked a storm of protest, accompanied by charges that the schools, under Washburne's direction, were teaching pacifism, communism, and socialism "directly or indirectly," and that the pupils were being used as guinea pigs.

Washburne denied at the time that he was a Communist or Socialist, explaining:

"What I do teach is history in the light of present day events, giving the pupil the international aspects, thus preparing him for a world whose interests are no longer boarded by national boundary lines."

Washburne's own international outlook had been broadened in 1930 by extensive travel abroad under a fellowship of the Julius Rosenwald foundation. The trip took him to Russia, which he praised upon his return as "an inspiring example to the rest of the world."

Finds "Clearer Vision."

"There is no question that in Russia, not only in the field of mental hygiene but in that of education in general, there is a clearer vision as to the aims of education and a more thorogoing effort toward the achievement of these aims than in any other part of the world," he said.

In his travels, Washburne said, he asked educators in the countries he visited "if they wanted to develop a spirit of internationalism to such a point that if conflict comes between one's own country and the world they would put the world first."

In France, he found education "affiliated with the world labor movement, which is international and pacifistic in its outlook."

On his return from Russia, Washburne came to the attention of Lt. Make Mills, then chief of the police industrial bureau charged with investigating the activities of radicals and subversive organizations, but after an investigation Lt. Mills said he found no evidence to indicate that Washburne was a Communist.

In 1934, in a talk before a woman's group, Washburne urged that sex instruction begin in the schools in the fifth grade, describing sex education as "an essential part of school teaching."

AMERICAN CAPTAIN PREVENTS DROWNING OF BRITISH GENERAL

ROME, Sept. 13 (AP).—Swimming 75 yards thru a wind tossed sea against a clutching undertow, Capt. J. W. Timberlake Jr., Mediterranean air force headquarters staff officer from Gastonia, N. C., helped save British Brig. Norman W. Smith from drowning at a beach north of Naples Sept. 3.

Timberlake, Lt. Grover W. Martin, Syracuse, N. Y., and Capt. Marvin F. Lueck, University City, Mo., saw Smith and British Lt. Col. S. E. H. Daw, trying to keep him afloat, struggling in the surf.

They went to the rescue, but Martin and Lueck became winded and returned. Timberlake reached the brigadier and towed him as far as he could toward shore until three British officers were able to swim out and complete the rescue just as the Carolinian was at the point of exhaustion.

WITH THE AMERICAL INFANTRY DIVISION, Somewhere in Southwest Pacific [Delayed]—(AP).—Some one should study the impact of war upon budding artists: The way these talented soldiers carry on under difficulties makes one uniquely proud of G. I.'s overseas.

One such artist is Sgt. James A. Scalese, 24, Oil City, Pa. When a package of oil paints arrived on this jungle island, he decided to paint a portrait of his friend and fellow artist, Sgt. Leon P. Granacki, 29, of 1712 N. Washtenaw av., Chicago.

Granacki proved to be Scalese's most competent critic. In civilian life he was a successful commercial artist and tho his work in the jungles has been largely water color landscapes and wash drawings of natives and G. I's, he knows his oil painting too.

Pictures just received from overseas show two Chicagoans in the battle zones, one in France, the other in Belgium.

Lt. John W. Upchurch, whose latest address was indicated as 4433 Adams st. when he was wounded in action last winter, is shown capturing a German in France. He received the silver star for heroism in Italy.

Corp. Henry Rabung, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rabung, 1508 Diversey pkwy., is pictured reloading a machine gun atop a half track vehicle somewhere in Belgium. Rabung has been in the army three years.

'NEUTRAL' STATE OF SAN MARINO HARBORS NAZIS

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY ON THE ADRIATIC, Sept. 13 (AP).—German guns within the supposedly neutral republic of San Marino have opened fire on allied troops, 8th army gunners said today, and enemy battery positions there have been attacked from the air.

Aerial reconnaissance showed convoys of German transport on San Marino roads and 88 mm. German guns along the frontier of the 32 square mile republic.

This development in the hitherto untroubled existence of the ancient little nation, which is surrounded by Italian territory, came as the 8th army put heavy pressure on the Germans holding to Coriano ridge and made good progress toward eliminating obstacles before Rimini.

Near Two Passes.

ROME, Sept. 13 (AP).—Forces driving for the core of the German Gothic line have reached the threshold of two main passes leading thru the Appennine barrier guarding the approach to northern Italy and the Po river valley.

Pushing forward thru steadily increasing rearguard action Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army troops thrust to a point within a mile of Futa pass after capturing Poggia Della Dogana, while another allied force was within less than a mile of another major pass northeast of Florence.

Nazis Resist Strongly.

British troops engaged for more than a week before Rimini, eastern anchor of the Gothic line, continued to meet fierce enemy resistance. A breakthru at Rimini would enable British armor to sweep into the Po valley behind the Gothic line.

On the west coast Clark's 5th army veterans advanced three miles up the coast to the Berlamacca canal, and 18 miles west of Florence patrols pushed to the vicinity of Saint 'Ippolito.

Fugitive on Draft Charge Also Wanted for Robbery

George W. Sullivan, 28, was held yesterday for removal to New York City by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker after he waived examination on a warrant charging him with failure to report for induction into the army on June 15, 1943. Sullivan was held under $3,000 bond. Shortly after the hearing, Spencer Drayton, FBI head in the Chicago area, revealed Sullivan was wanted in New York City in connection with the robbery of a tavern on Aug. 29, 1943, and theft of an automobile.

TWO YANKS IN JEEP SAY THEY'RE FIRST TO LINK 3D, 7TH ARMIES

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. SEINE L'ABBAYE, Sept. 12 [Delayed].—Two American signal corps photographers from the 3d army swept down the road from Chatillon at 50 miles an hour in a jeep and met a French destroyer unit from the 7th army in this sleepy little village, 12 miles northwest of Dijon just before noon today.

An American sergeant, William E. Teas, 30, of Pasadena, Cal., and Pvt. Howard E. [Jesse] James of Niagara Falls, N. Y., claimed to be the first of their countrymen coming from the north to make contact with 7th army elements.

The two slim, dark haired Yanks who came from the north today were accompanied by two French officers to whom they gave a lift on the road.

At the scene a little later Teas and James told me they had left Paris Sept. 8 attached to a French armored unit. They came thru Troyed and Bar-sur-Aube yesterday and this morning set out from a French reconnaisance post at Chatillon, 40 miles northwest of Dijon.

"We were cheered all along the way," Teas related, "and Maquis [French patriots] waved at us enthusiastically. There were no road blocks and we drove as fast as we could. No Germans were around and there was no resistance of any sort."

Swiss Protest Allied Violation of Air Space

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Swiss government has instructed its legation to protest in Washington, D. C., against violation of Swiss air space and demand indemnity for all damages, a broadcast Swiss announcement said today.

Tearful Reunion

Walter Emery (left) and his brother, Joseph, joined in mutual sorrow yesterday after bearing the body of their brother, George, from Powhatan mine, Bellaire, O. He died with 65 others in July 5 fire. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Bellaire, O., Sept. 13 (AP).—Rescue crews tonight had recovered 35 bodies from the Powhatan mine where 66 miners lost their lives in a fire July 5.

Fifteen more bodies were known to be buried in the same room under the tons of coal which have fallen in the weeks since the men barricaded themselves in No. 7 right entry in a futile effort to keep out the dread black damp.

Rescue crews tonight were showing the strain of digging in the fallen coal, rocks and shale for the bodies. Two rescue crewmen, unidentified, were carried from room No. 2 off No. 7 right entry after they had fainted.

LT. B. V. NOLAN, 24, LEADER IN 35 RAIDS, RETURNS

Lt. Barry V. Nolan, 24, who played tag with anti-aircraft gunfire over Berlin while piloting the Flying Fortress, "Miss Yvonne," is visiting his wife, Effie, of 1840 N. Monitor av., and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nolan, 4923 Ohio st.

Lt. Barry V. Nolan.

Lt. Nolan, whose air base was in England, served as squadron leader in 35 missions over France and Germany. Once, high above Berlin, flak was so dense that it appeared to be dark storm clouds, he said.

One sizeable chunk plowed its way thru the bomb bay, sheared thru his foot pedal, creased his flying trousers, and finally lodged in the seat alongside him. Lt. Nolan has received the distinguished flying cross, air medal, and three oak leaf clusters.

WOMAN FOUND SLAIN IN PARK; GUN NEAR SIDE

A woman identified from papers as Mrs. Audrey MacLaughlin Hooke, about 35, of 231 E. Superior st., was found shot to death early today at the entrance of the Lake Shore park field house, at Lake Shore dr. and Chicago av.

Police found a revolver near by, and said she evidently had killed herself. A wire haired terrier, named Emily, was found tied to a fence near by. In the woman's purse was found a receipt from the law firm of Bennett and Colbach for services in a pending divorce case.

Edward M. Colbach, member of the firm, said that he was handling divorce litigation between Mrs. Hooke and her husband, Robert D. Hooke, a labor relations counselor for a mail order house. They had been married 16 years. Hooke had begun the divorce action last May, charging drunkenness, and she had filed a cross bill, charging cruelty, Colbach said.

CAPT. A. M. PATCH, SON OF GENERAL, AMONG WOUNDED

Capt. Alexander M. Patch III., 24, son of Lt. Gen. A. M. Patch, commanding the 7th army in France, was wounded in action in France on Aug. 28, his wife was informed yesterday. A West Point graduate, Capt. Patch commanded a rifle company in the 1st army. Capt. Patch's wife and son, 17 months old, live with her parents, Col. and Mrs. Basil D. Spalding, 1107 Elmwood av., Wilmette.

Staff Sgt. Edward R. Nathans, 27, was killed in action in France on Aug. 18, the war department has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Nathans, 1640 E. 50th st., and his wife, Caroline, 6701 Cregier av. He was graduated from Onarga Military academy, Onarga, Iroquois county, and attended Knox college.

Sgt. Jack E. Dwyer, son of Frank G. Dwyer, 4101 Austin av., was killed in action over Germany on Jan. 29, it has been reported by the war department. Sgt. Dwyer, who was 20 years old, was a gunner in a Flying Fortress. He was graduated from Foreman High school. He also is survived by a brother, Robert F., and a sister, Mrs. Aileen Page. Memorial services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday in St. Robert Bellarmine church.

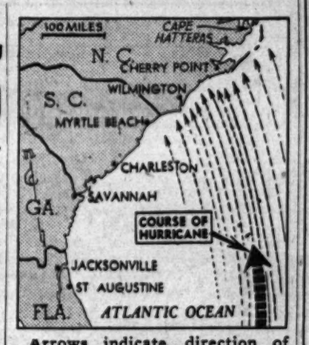
Pvt. Bruno H. Presta of the marines has been killed in action in the Pacific, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Presta, 2308 Potomac av., have been informed by the navy department. He died June 15, five weeks before his 18th birthday. Pvt. Presta also is survived by a sister, Florence. Memorial services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in Sancta Maria Addalorata church.

Pvt. William Jahn Jr., 20, whose father lives at 8421 Peoria st., and who was reported missing over Austria on July 25, is now reported a prisoner of Germany, the father said yesterday. Jahn, tail gunner on a Flying Fortress, attended Calumet High school and enlisted in the air forces in November, 1942.

Lt. Joseph A. Kennedy Jr., 23, a pilot in India, was killed in action on Sept. 6, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kennedy, 4942 Jackson blvd., learned last night in a telegram from the war department. He was a graduate of St. Philip's High school and attended Loyola university. Surviving also are two brothers, Edward and Richard, and a sister, Mrs. Harry Locke. Memorial services will be held at 10 a. m. Oct. 15 in Resurrrection church.

Death of two Elgin soldiers in Europe has been made known by the war department. Tech. Sgt. Victor G. Graff, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Graff, 255 N. Grove av., was killed in action Aug. 26 while a gunner-radio operator on a Flying Fortress. He had received the air medal. Mrs. Bernice Ralston, 137 N. Channing st., was notified that her husband, Pvt. James E., 21, had been killed in France Aug. 25. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ralston of Roodhouse, Ill.

In Storm Path



Arrows indicate direction of hurricane bearing down on Carolina coast.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 13 (AP).—A great Atlantic hurricane fraught with peril for life and property bore down upon the North Carolina coast tonight, the weather bureau reported, and headed for the vicinity of the marine base at Cherry Point.

Only a last minute change of direction apparently could save the coastline from a raking by winds of a force which recalled the destructive New England hurricane of 1938.

Residents of two resort towns near Wilmington, Wrightsville Beach, and Carolina Beach, numbering 1,500, were evacuated late today. Others in exposed areas in North Carolina and to the south were likewise being removed.

A warning said the center "should reach the North Carolina coast in the vicinity of Cherry Point early Thursday forenoon."

G. O. P. APPEARS CERTAIN TO WIN COLORADO NOV. 7

Few Democrats Even Try for State Offices.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13—Colorado, with 6 electoral votes, appears to be heading toward the Republican fold in the Nov. 7 election. At least, that's what neutral observers think and a good many Democratic leaders privately admit.

As evidence that the Democratic organization has no hope of carrying the state for Roosevelt and the Democratic state ticket there is cited the unwillingness of Democrats to seek nominations for state offices in the primary this week.

Democratic nominations for United States senator to oppose the Republican incumbent, Sen. Millikin, and for governor to oppose Republican Gov. Vivian, went begging.

Candidate Pessimistic.

Efforts to induce James Patton, president of the pro-New Deal National Farmers' union, to oppose Millikin proved fruitless and the Democrats finally fell back on their state chairman, Barney L. Whatley, a retired lawyer who before he migrated from Alabama was the partner of Hugo Black, now Supreme court justice. Whatley accepted the draft and was nominated without opposition. He is going thru the motions of running, out of devotion to his party, but admits he has little hope of getting to Washington.

Likewise eligible Democrats took to the woods at the mere suggestion that they run for governor. As a last resort the New Deal high command drafted Roy Best, warden of the state penitentiary. The difficulty in that quarter was that Best is a civil service employe and could run without resigning his job only with the permission of the civil service commission.

Governor Helps Rival.

Inasmuch as neither Best nor the Democratic managers had any illusion that he could be elected [Best would not resign] they were in a quandary until Gov. Vivian himself came to their rescue. The governor, who is one of Best's closest friends, obtained from the commission permission for Best to run against him. Best was nominated this week without opposition and at once embarked upon a "high minded campaign" against his friend Vivian.

In the primary marked by apathy and a light vote there was one one Democratic and one Republican contest for administrative offices. For nominations for 15 state representatives the Democrats put up no candidates at all, while the Republicans had 25 candidates. For four state senatorships the Republicans had eight candidates, the Democrats, none.

Prosperity Is Blamed.

State Chairman Whatley attributed the Democratic apathy to war prosperity which makes the pay of state offices look like chicken feed even to factory workers.

There is abundant evidence that the Republican trend which began in 1938 and gave the state to Willkie in 1940, is still going strong, now accentuated by reaction against the fourth term and the adoption of the Democratic party by Sidney Hillman's Communist dominated CIO political action committee. While the Republicans are united as never before, the Democrats are split, with the anti-New Dealers, all devoted followers of Democratic Sen. Johnson, lining up for Dewey and Bricker or intending to stay from the polls on Nov. 7. Many of the anti-Roosevelt Democrats are joining the Dewey-Bricker clubs being organized by Will Hodges, prominent Denver lawyer, to ring doorbells and get out the vote.

The current Republican ascendancy was completed in the Denver special election last spring to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Lewis, Sen. Johnson's Democratic co-survivor of the Democratic debacle of 1942. The Democrats played what they thought was the shrewdest politics by putting up a young veteran of the war in the South Pacific, Maj. Carl Wuertele.

CIO Fails Dismally.

The CIO, already enlisted in the fight for the fourth term, which Hillman and Earl Browder, chief of the Communists, had launched several months before, went the limit, however, to elect Wuertele. They scored a dismal failure, Wuertele being defeated by the Republican, Dean M. Gillespie. That gain made the Colorado delegation in the house solidly Republican. The indications are that it will remain after the forthcoming election.

ANGELA LANSBURY.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 13 (AP).—Blonde Angela Lansbury was 14 when she came here four years ago from England with a group of other young refugees from the war zone. In the meantime, she became an actress and a court has just approved her a $750 a week movie contract. Moyna Macgill, English stage actress and the girl's mother, was in court when the contract was approved.

Valentine, Neb., Sept. 13.—Gov. Dewey, at a press conference on his campaign train here today, attacked President Roosevelt's neglect of Gen. MacArthur and urged that the hero of Bataan should receive support from the commander in chief in the Pacific unless international politics dictate a different appointment. His statement was in response to a request for comment on reports that Prime Minister Churchill and the President at Quebec were unifying the command for the campaign against Japan.

"Now that Gen. MacArthur is no longer a political threat," said Dewey, "it would seem appropriate that his talents would be given greater scope and recognition. He has performed miracles with inadequate supply, inadequate air power, and inadequate forces numerically.

"Supreme Generalship."

"Any student of his offenses up from Australia can see supreme generalship. Time after time he has made landings on heavy defended and long prepared islands, and almost every time he has managed to land at the exact spot where the Japs were not.

"I am not suggesting that Gen. MacArthur be made over-all commanding officer because there are international political problems as well as military considerations involved in such an appointment. I am suggesting that Gen. MacArthur receive adequate supplies and recognition, both long overdue."

The Republican Presidential candidate, ending two days of conferences with western cattlemen, concluded that "ignorantly conceived" regulations from Washington, D. C., had dammed the flow of beef to the market.

In discussing the nation's present and future beef supply, Dewey commended the performance of the cattle raisers notwithstanding handicaps imposed by the New Deal.

"They have done a tremendous job in the face of the greatest difficulties," he said. "With shortages of help, machinery, and transportation, they also had the operating difficulties from government regulations which contradicted nature and which are changed from day to day.

"We now have 10 million more head of cattle than normal. There's a surplus of beef on the hoof but not in the meat markets. Ignorantly conceived federal regulations have put feeders and small slaughter houses out of business. The regulations are such that there is no profit in buying a carload of range cattle, fattening them, and selling them for finished beef.

"The cattlemen urge most fervently that the government's contact with their industry be thru men who know something about the industry. It seems like a very reasonable request."

Could Do Better Alone.

"Are they opposed to all federal regulation?" he was asked.

"It's my own conclusion," he replied, "that the cattlemen can do a better job of raising meat than the amateur theorists of Washington. If left alone, they could produce a better supply."

"Would they terminate beef rationing?"

"The surplus, as I have said, is not in the meat markets," the candidate replied. "They are most anxious to receive the feeder business. They are most concerned with the surplus on the ranges which will be a critical problem with the approach of the war's end."

PRECINCT WORKERS TO HEAR F. D. R.'S 2D 'POLITICAL' SPEECH

President Roosevelt will make his second campaign address the night of Oct. 5, after arrangements have been made for 125,000 Democratic precinct meetings thruout the country to listen in, National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan announced here yesterday.

Hannegan was asked whether this did not signify abandonment of the New Deal leader's promise to forswear making a campaign "in the usual partisan political sense."

"O, no," Hannegan replied, and immediately changed the subject.

Details for the broadcast have not been completed, but it probably will be made from Washington, D. C., at 9 p. m. Chicago time. Hannegan is trying to get lesser party leaders to make sure that there will be at least 10 persons at every precinct meeting. Illinois alone has 8,728 precincts.

Roosevelt's first admittedly political speech will be delivered in Washington before the International Teamsters' union Sept. 23.

F. D. R. FOES PLAN COURT FIGHT ON TEXAS ELECTORS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 13.—The controversy between anti-fourth term and pro-Roosevelt Democrats over Presidential electors for the November election is expected to be taken soon to the Supreme court. Texas now finds itself with two slates of nominees for electors and the breach within the party is wide open.

The Democratic state convention, under full pro-Roosevelt control, late today put up a slate of 23 electors, and called upon the secretary of state to put them on the ballot as substitutes for the anti-Roosevelt electors named by the regular Democratic convention, under anti-New Deal control, at Austin in May.

The anti-Roosevelt forces say the next move is up to the pro-Roosevelts and are prepared for a legal battle in a mandamus action that is expected to be brought to supersede the May slate with today's.

Legality Is Questioned.

They claim the September meeting cannot undo the work of May.

After gaining control of the convention in a 10 hour struggle yesterday, the pro-Roosevelt men today proceeded to reorganize the state party organization. Harry L. Seay of Dallas, was named state chairman as successor to George A. Butler, anti-New Deal. Mrs. H. H. Weinert, elected at Austin as national committeewoman, was displaced by Mrs. Clara Driscoll.

A purge of county chairmen and others who refuse to pledge support the national ticket was ordered by the convention.

Anti-New Dealers say the capture of the state convention by the pro-Roosevelts is only first round in the battle. On the May slate of 23 electors, 15 have avowed their intention of following instructions at Austin to vote in the electoral college for Democrats other than the national ticket named at Chicago. Eight have come out for President Roosevelt and Sen. Truman, his running mate. The slate put up today contains seven of those eight Austin convention nominees for elector.

16 New Names Added.

So the convention filled the rest of the slate with 16 new names, and declared the 23 are the party's nominees and instructed them for the national ticket.

The 15 anti-Roosevelt nominess for electors were declared to have "forfeited and vacated their office and shall be removed," from the ballot.

Resolutions called for exaction from candidates of pledges that they will vote the Democratic ticket.

Anti-New Dealers contend the September convention has no power to overthrow the proceedings of the May convention, and that their electoral slate has already been certified for the ballot. C. C. Renfro, a lawyer who was an anti-Roosevelt delegate to the Chicago national convention, said: "The next move is up to the faction that has electors to put on the ticket in place of ours."

Plan New Orleans Meeting.

Leaders of anti-New Deal Democrats met and planned to set up a state headquarters in Dallas. A meeting with anti-New Dealers from some other southern states is to be held in New Orleans Friday and another is planned for Washington Sept. 23, according to the local group. A statement issued by the group tonight said:

"This convention is the finest, most accurate test of strength possible and the only two votes taken show that with all the government powers of judicial appointments, jockeying government contracts, egg prices, and burocratic parity payments—all combined with the CIO and other racial elements—the Roosevelt-New Deal crowd were able to muster less than 51 per cent of the convention votes, while our friends of constitutional government registered more than 49 per cent of such votes."

BARE ADMIRAL'S INDICTMENT OF FCC IN JAP RAID

Blame for Pearl Harbor Traced to Bureau.

fall of 1941, several months before Pearl Harbor, until June, 1942, six months after the Japanese attack. He accused Fly of opposing legislation permitting wiretapping of the Japanese consulate in Hawaii and of preventing elimination of Japanese language broadcasts in Hawaii.

Hooper quoted Fly as saying President Roosevelt wanted "labor members" on each of 10 or 15 committees of the defense communications board.

"I often question," Hooper testified, "whether the President knew about these things that they said he wanted done, but what can you do about that?

"In the navy we were very much concerned about the radio operators on merchant marine ships. The operator was in a positon of such trust that he could, in case of disloyalty, give information to enemy vessels, such as submarines, concerning the prospective movement of convoys and even of the fleet. We even considered putting naval operators on all merchant ships but that would have taken a couple thousand of our best operators.

Navy Control Opposed.

"Congress passed a bill, unanimously, giving the secretary of the navy control over merchant ship operators. It was bitterly opposed by the American Communications association headed by Joseph P. Selly of the CIO, and supported by the AFL. Naval intelligence reported Selly and seven out of 10 directors of the ACA were known Communists. Fly and Selly were like that [holding up two fingers together].

"We got rid of the Japs and Fascists and the Germans among the operators and had started on the Communists when the pressure came to stop the elimination of Communists."

As read by Miller into the record, the transcript of Hooper's testimony thus proceeded:

Q.—Where did that pressure come from, the secretary? A.—They always say it comes from the White House. I went to Mr. Bard [Assistant Navy Secretary Bard]. There was some pressure from the White House on him. He said it was up to the secretary to settle it and said, "Admiral, I am with you but I can't settle it. It is up to the secretary to settle it."

Secret Information to Japs.

Hooper's testimony, as read by Miller, continued:

"It is common knowledge now that the Japs were given information via radio telephone from Honolulu to Japan, secret information about the movement of our ships and our preparedness at Pearl Harbor. If that could have been prevented, the Japs might have come on the wrong day, they might have been prevented from knowing weather conditions, perhaps they would not have sunk a ship. So the army recommended authorization of wiretapping but Fly opposed it and it was not passed.

"I received a letter some months before Pearl Harbor, from an ex-navy man in Hawaii, manager of a broadcast station out there, saying the Japanese language broadcasts were dangerous. I sent a letter to the FCC but was told the chairman was opposed to discontinuance of foreign language broadcasts anywhere. Arrangements were being made to eliminate the broadcasts at meetings when Fly issued a statement that the commission would not prohibit foreign language broadcasts even then, during the period of strained relations. The meetings were then called off."

Helped Japs in Attack.

Q.—Is it your opinion that failure to stop these Japanese language broadcasts in Hawaii was a contributing factor to the Pearl Harbor disaster? A.—Certainly. It had a bearing on the success of the Jap attack.

The second high ranking naval officer's testimony, which was quoted by Miller, accused the FCC of giving the navy wrong information which led a force of American light cruisers and destroyers to engage a superior Japanese force in Alaskan waters.

"That is completely false," asserted Fly.

"Would you say this high naval officer was intentionally trying to deceive this committee?" asked Miller.

"It has completely false implications," insisted Fly.

False Warnings Denied.

"Isn't it a fact that on more than one occasion the FCC advised the navy of enemy submarines at sea which turned out to be fixed stations in Japan?" inquired Miller.

"Not at all," said Fly.

"There is a file in the navy department covering this Alaskan incident," said Miller. "If this committee were permitted to take the gag off the navy and the army, we'd be able to show beyond question that the FCC has interfered with the war effort."

"Are you willing to join this committee in a request to the President to inspect certain files in the navy department and interrogate certain officers?"

"It's up to the committee," said Fly. "I would be happy to see you do it."

Miller served notice upon Chairman Lea [D., Cal.] that he wanted committee investigators to examine the income tax returns of Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran, former White House adviser, in connection with the alleged forced sale of New York radio station WMCA to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins. The committee's investigation of the sale was halted several months ago by vote of the Democratic majority after charges had been made that "influence reaching up to the White House" had been involved in the radio deal.

DEMOCRATS BEG FOR TRUCE ON PEARL HARBOR

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—House Democrats, writhing under charges that the New Deal has withheld the truth about the Pearl Harbor disaster to hide its own blundering, pleaded today for a suspension of the controversy until after the November election.

Rep. McCormack.

House Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] told the house he should rely on the judgment of the army and the navy as to what facts should be told the public about the nation's greatest military defeat.

McCormack said he "assumed" the war and navy departments have "for reasons of state" refused to hold court martials of Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commanders at the Hawaiian base Dec. 7, 1941. Both were removed from their commands after the attack.

McCormack Cites Election.

"The army and navy are acting for the good of the country," McCormack said. "It is better to let the matter of these court martials rest with the proper authorities between now and the election."

The majority leader's plea followed new demands by Republicans today for public disclosure of the Pearl Harbor story. Charges have been made repeatedly in congress that negligence in Washington was responsible for the catastrophe and that President Roosevelt as commander in chief must take full responsibility unless the administration proves otherwise by public disclosure of the facts.

The debate was started by Rep. O'Toole [D., N. Y.], who berated his Republican colleagues for making what he termed a "political issue of Pearl Harbor."

Seeks to Blame Commanders.

O'Toole, following the line taken recently by Sen. Truman [D., Mo.], Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, sought to place full blame on Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel. He asserted they failed to take "proper precautions" for defense, but he did not offer any explanation of why they have not been court martialed.

Adm. Kimmel has asked for an immediate trial and has charged the full truth about the defeat has been withheld. Gen. Short reportedly has taken the same stand.

Rep. Michener [R., Mich.] in reply to O'Toole's charge that Republicans were raising the Pearl Harbor issue just before the election, retorted that congress has been seeking the facts on the disaster ever since it happened.

Termed "Simple Justice."

"Simple justice demands that Kimmel and Short be given public trials," said Michener.

"For two years," interjected Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], "the American people have demanded the facts about Pearl Harbor and the administration has kept the lid on."

O'Toole criticized the Republicans for "defending" Kimmel and Short, but being "smooth and soft" on what he charged was carelessness by Gen. MacArthur.

"Has any one told how 95 per cent of MacArthur's air force was destroyed in the Philippines despite the fact that Pearl Harbor was attacked first?" O'Toole asked. "He, too, was guilty of carelessness, but no charges have been made against him."

Cites Curtin Statement.

Earlier Rep. Outland [D., Cal.] took the floor to call attention to a denial by Prime Minister Curtin of Australia of reports that the Australian government warned the American government in Washington 72 hours before Pearl Harbor that a Japanese naval force was steaming toward the Hawaiian base.

This report has been aired on the house floor on several occasions. Outland said the Curtin denial showed the report was made up out of "hole cloth."

OWI KILLS HOPE OF CIVILIAN GAS RATION INCREASE

At Least Not Until End of European War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Average civilian motorists should not look for an increase in their gasoline rations for the next several months, or at least not before the end of the war with Germany, the office of war information said today in a report on the national gasoline supply. The A card holder was placed at the end of the list of those who stand to receive more gasoline, if and when larger supplies become available.

If more gasoline becomes available for civilians, the OWI said, it will be used first to provide larger rations for trucks and buses. Should an increased amount be allotted for passenger automobiles it is planned to equalize in the different sections of the country the B card mileage ceilings of those who use their cars in their work.

Business Uses First.

According to the OWI, such equalization would not increase the rations of B motorists who use their cars only to drive to and from work, or those who ride in car pools. The report made the following observation regarding the rationing outlook for A card holders:

"A's may expect no increases until all B drivers are allowed rations sufficient to permit them to engage in the full amount of essential driving their business warrants, and even then any increase in the A rations might depend on the general state of the automotive system of transportation."

"Premium" Gas Scarce.

The OWI said that federal agencies handling gasoline agree that there is no ground for pessimism as to future restrictions in rationing. The office of price administration does not expect that the pleasure driving ban, which was in effect in the summer of 1943 in the northeastern seaboard states, will be reimposed, it was reported.

The survey disclosed that fewer motorists will be able to buy "premium" gasoline in the future because most of this type of fuel is being distributed to vehicles essential to the war and public safety. The average motorist will be obliged to content himself with "regular" gasoline, said the OWI.

OVERTON VICTOR IN LOUISIANA; MORRISON LEADS

New Orleans, La., Sept. 13 (AP).—Sen. Overton, first elected to the United States senate in 1932 with the aid of the late Huey P. Long, won renomination to a third term in yesterday's Democratic primary in Louisiana by an overwhelming vote over three opponents. Nomination is equivalent to election.

The entire Louisiana house delegation with the exception of Rep. Morrison appeared to have been renominated along with Overton, on the basis of incomplete, unofficial returns.

These returns indicated that Morrison, of the sixth congressional district, would likely be in a runoff against H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge. Morrison had 15,263 votes in 204 of 285 precincts and Brumfield had 14,034. Four others in the race won only light votes.

The latest count gave Overton a majority of around 45,000 votes over the combined vote of his opponents. The vote in 1220 of the state's 1671 precincts gave Overton 116,189; E. A. Stephens, former president of the New Orleans dock board, 53,148; Griffin T. Hawkins, district attorney at Lake Charles, 13,508, and Charles S. Gerth, New Orleans business man, 5,286.

MRS. J. P. WELLING NAMED AS AID IN LUCAS DRIVE

Mrs. John P. Welling, described as an "independent Democrat," will head the women's division of the Businessmen's League for Lucas, Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the league, announced yesterday.

Announcements emphasize the "independence" of the league, altho almost all officials are Democrats of long standing or men who have posed as independents while consistently supporting Democratic candidates.

Mrs. Welling is the daughter of the late Judge Charles M. Walker, who was corporation counsel in Mayor Carter Harrison's administration and later was a Circuit court judge. Sprague insists that heretofore she has taken no active part in politics. Mrs. Welling is on the board of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations, member of the board of Hull House and president and board member of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund for child welfare. She resided at 1520 Astor st.

New A Coupons

New A gasoline coupons, which will become valid Sept. 22, are printed on a new type of safety paper and are "virtually impossible for counterfeiters to duplicate," Marion W. Isbell, acting area price administrator, said yesterday.

Isbell said only 40 per cent of the 790,000 persons who applied for A books last year have sent in their applications for the new rations. Many who have not yet applied may have to wait beyond the effective date because of their tardiness, he said.

GUARD SYNAGOG AFTER VANDALS BREAK WINDOWS

Police last night were guarding the Beth Jacob B'nai Bezalal Anshe Mizrach synagog at 2600 E. 75th st. after it had been damaged by vandals for the sixth time in two years. The church is temporarily located there in a former store, pending construction of a permanent home at 76th st. and Colfax av.

The latest attack occurred around 3:30 a. m. last Saturday when rocks and a milk bottle container were thrown thru the synagog's four plate glass windows. Capt. William A. Byrne soon afterward ordered a 24 hour guard.

Rabbi Nathan Kohler told police that windows had been smashed previously, that missiles had been thrown into congregation meetings, and that doors had been opened and slammed shut during services. The attacks usually occurred just before or on a Jewish holiday.

FORECASTING BALDNESS

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly and he loses a great deal of hair each day. In a few years later it will be too late, and his appearance will be permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you, since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases.

There is no charge or obligation for a scalp examination and consultation. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN — NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

WARNS U.S.: KEEP RIGHT TO DECIDE WHEN TO FIGHT

Ex-Sen. Pepper Calls for Post-War Safeguard.

The United States "should never delegate to any nation or group of nations the power to send the United States into war," George Wharton Pepper, former United States senator from Pennsylvania and a Republican, told the American Bar association last night at the association's annual banquet in the Drake hotel.

"We should coöperate to the utmost in the scheme of post-war cooperation, but retain in our own hands the ultimate decision of whether we should be summoned into war," he said.

While favoring some form of world court or international security organization, he added that he would not want it to become "a house council of any political organization. The American is something of a frontiersman. He is always at his best when you do not cramp his style or interfere with his initiative."

Court Slap Gets Laugh.

A passing reference to capricious court decisions, which was interpreted by his hearers as a slap at recent actions of the United States Supreme court, drew snickers from his audience.

"When a bare majority of judges shows a habit of breaking with the past, we are sick at heart."

Rep. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, was awarded the association's annual medal for "outstanding contribution to the science of jurisprudence during the year." William L. Ransom of New York, former association president, in presenting the medal, said it was the first time the award had been made to a lawyer for "conspicuous service in the legislative branch of the government."

Four Delegates Named.

The association assembly chose four delegates to represent the assembly in the association's house of delegates. They are Willis Smith of Raleigh, N. C.; Charles M. Hay of St. Louis; Guy Richards Crump of Los Angeles, and John Kirkland of New York.

Earlier, a resolution condemning a proposed law which would permit the government to acquire tools, buildings, or real estate by simply filing a notice with the clerk of the federal District court in whose jurisdiction the property is located, was laid before the house of delegates by the association's section on real property law.

The proposed law, known as senate bill 215, is now before the house. Its ostensible purpose is to preserve secrecy in government acquisition of property as a war measure.

The resolution prepared by the realty law section brands the bill as a direct invasion of the rights of states to provide their own procedural rules.

First Lt. Wayne D. Williams, 29, of Denver, Colo., a member of the army judge advocate general's department, received the association's annual Ross prize of $3,000 for an essay on international law in the maintenance of world order.

Opposes "Super State."

Opposition to a post-war superstate was expressed before the association's forum on international organization for peace and justice under law by Judge Orie L. Phillips, senior judge of the 10th federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver.

James Oliver Murdock of Washington, D. C., speaking on post-war organization of international courts, suggested that a world court, if one is formed, "ride the circuit" of some 60 world capitals, as our Supreme court did in the original 13 states. He said, however, that he questioned the wisdom of any world court to continue to render advisory opinions. He said he believed the court should abandon that jurisdiction in favor of rendering only declaratory judgments. His suggestions subsequently were approved by the house of delegates.

Pullman Employes to Work on V-Day

All But 11 Sign

For employes in the Chicago plants of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company V-day will be another day on the production line turning out war materials to hasten the end of the war in the Pacific. The company announced yesterday that all but 11 of its nearly 12,000 employes have signed voluntary pledges to remain on their jobs on V-day in Europe. F. M. Gunn, manager of works in the Chicago plants, commended the employes for their coöperation and said that a special news bulletin service will keep the workers informed of all developments on V-day.

FATHER WINNER IN COURT FIGHT TO RETAIN GIRL

Judge Joseph A. Graber in Superior court yesterday refused to order John A. Floyd of 8227 Prairie av., a war worker, to surrender the custody of his daughter, Elizabeth Ann, 3, to the child's grandmother, Mrs. Selina L. Murray of 7647 Maryland av.

Elizabeth Ann Floyd.

Mrs. Murray, who sought a writ of habeas corpus, testified that when Elizabeth Ann's mother, Ethel, was dying in 1941 she obtained Floyd's promise that he would give the child to Mrs. Murray. Mrs. Murray charged that Floyd was an unfit father. He took Elizabeth Ann from her on June 24.

Floyd denied yesterday that he was unfit. He said his daughter had become nervous and underweight because of quarrels in Mrs. Murray's home, where, he said, she slept in the same bed with the family's pet dog. She has gained six pounds since he took her to his sister's home, he said.

ATTORNEY LEADS IN HOT COLORADO CONGRESS RACE

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Democratic contest for the congressional nomination in the 2d Colorado district developed into a neck-and-neck affair today.

Unofficial tabulations from 407 of the 479 precincts of the district gave David Miller, Greeley attorney, 3,311 votes to 2,978 for Maj. Homer G. Preston, former Adams county judge.

Rep. William S. Hill, Republican incumbent, was unopposed in yesterday's primary. There were no other congressional primary contests.

POSTAL EMPLOYE ROBBED.

Frank Becht of 1947 Cleveland av., a postoffice employe, was robbed of $29 and his gasoline ration coupons, he told police yesterday, by two men he found loitering near his home.

DIRKSEN CALLS BRITAIN A TOOL FOR F. D. R. RACE

'Shadows of Browder, Hillman Over Quebec.'

President Roosevelt, in his Quebec visit, is using the British empire to bolster the failing cause of his fourth term candidacy, Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] charged last night in a radio address broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual network. Dirksen called the Quebec journey Roosevelt's "second campaign trip."

Rep. Dirksen.

"On the first trip," Dirksen said, "the fourth term candidate used the admirals of our fleet and the generals of the army—among them the recently remembered 'dear friend' Gen. MacArthur. That was the first time the navy had ever been used in an American election campaign. For this second campaign trip the fourth term candidate is making use of the British empire and the British prime minister."

Paris Trip "Too Obvious."

Dirksen said the selection of Quebec as the meeting place for Churchill and Roosevelt was a compromise.

"The first idea was to have the fourth term candidate go to Paris and campaign from there—a triumphal tour, tumultuous crowds, and all the pageantry of a liberator," the Illinois congressman said.

"But the idea boys decided that was probably going too far, and tho we are a patient and tolerant people, it might be just a little too obvious.

"So Quebec was the second choice. The New Dealers, of course, knew that his Quebec conference could have been held a month ago—before the political campaign had begun. Or they knew it could have been held a few weeks hence—when the political campaign will be over. The New Dealers know the military professionals do not need Quebec; that they are in daily conference."

"Shadows Across Meeting."

Churchill will see only such men as Adm. King, Gen. Marshall, and Gen. Arnold, Dirksen pointed out and then said:

"He will not see Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman but their shadows will fall across the meeting. He will not see the notorious city bosses but the long arm of their influence will be felt there.

"As Gov. Dewey swings westward, as he travels on a train paid for out of party funds, as he frankly and openly campaigns as a candidate—along comes Quebec.

"The fourth term candidate, of course, travels again on a train paid for by taxpayers. Again he is not seen by the people. Again he calls himself not the candidate but the commander in chief. With the British prime minister and the British Empire as stage setting, the fourth term candidate continues his fourth term.

"Yes, indeed, he was so eternally right when he said he would not campaign in the usual sense."

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 13, 1944.

THE weatherman gave middle western farmers a poor deal when he handed out the midsummer drouth, but he is gradually making restitution by providing excellent fall growing conditions.

The manager of the Fox River farm handed the weatherman some compliments yesterday as another gentle rain soaked his fields, especially benefiting the alfalfa plots and 40 acres of recently sown rye.

Alfalfa Is Cropped.

Sixty acres of alfalfa is being cropped now by the farm's herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle. This acreage in two fields will sustain the animals until the rye is tall enough to be pastured this fall. The rye was planted in the fields from which the men cut ensilage corn.

It will be pastured this fall and early next spring, then be plowed under as a green manure. Thus the September rains fell at just the right time to save the two pasture crops and insure against the necessity of taking new ensilage from the silo to feed the Angus herd and other live stock.

Good Corn Cutting.

The men on the Fox River farm are highly pleased with their corn cutting program. One highly fertilized 10 acre field yielded 130 tons of ensilage, filling 37 feet of the 81 foot silo. The silo was competely filled with the corn from 30 additional acres. There are at least 400 tons of ground corn in the silo. Average yield has been 10 tons to the acre.

All of this ensilage will be fed to the Aberdeen-Angus breeding herd and calves this winter. A second silo, 40 feet tall with an inside diameter of 14 feet, will be filled later this week or early next week with more mature corn to be fed to the steers.

Out of Danger.

An early frost would not damage the Fox River farm's corn crop. The men planted their entire acreage between May 15 and May 25, despite warnings that early planted corn would be more susceptible to corn borer attacks. These early plantings were more heavily damaged by borers than fields planted in June on neighboring farms.

The drouth delayed the maturity of all field corn this summer, but the early plantings now are safe from frost whereas farmers who planted late to avoid the corn borers are wondering if their crop will mature before frosts strike. The farm manager believes his corn yield will be almost as high as last year, but the ears will not be as large or as uniform in size.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE tendency of novice gardeners to produce and save their own seeds from vegetables grown in home plots should be discouraged in most cases, since the production of seed stock requires knowledge and facilities not possessed by most gardeners. The handling and curing of tiny seeds such as lettuce, carrots, and radishes is especially difficult without special tools.

Gardeners can save larger seeds, such as those from cantaloupes and cucumbers, altho this isn't practical unless there is danger that a particular variety may be difficult to buy in stores. The farm gardener on the Wheaton farm is saving seeds from half a dozen cucumbers this season. The fruits were left to reach maximum size on the vines, then picked and stored on dry shelves in the greenhouse.

Gardeners having no hotbed or coldframe can store the fruits in any warm, dry place. After the fruits have reached yellow maturity, they can be dissected and the seeds gathered. These should be allowed to dry thoroly on newspapers, then stored in glass jars in a dry room for the winter.

LADDER BURGLARS GET $593 LOOT.

Burglars entered the second story apartment of Victor De Vorkin at 3512 Polk st. with a ladder and stole $218 and 14 watches, valued at $375. De Vorkin, a salesman, told police yesterday.

ELOPING THIEF GETS 3 YEARS AND WIFE'S KISS

Andrew K. Johnson, 29, credit manager of a woman's apparel shop who admitted taking $11,000 of the store's cash to spend on a cross-country love junket with its cashier, was sentenced to three years in the federal penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Johnson had pleaded guilty to violation of the national stolen property act.

Andrew K. Johnson.

Assistant United States Atty. George Kelley told the court before sentence was passed that the state would drop the embezzlement charge against Johnson if he were sentenced on the federal charge.

Johnson's wife, now of Washington, D. C., and his parents, who live in Brooklyn, N. Y., were in court and as the defendant left he was permitted to give his wife a good-by kiss. Mrs. Mary Wassinger, 32, who was Johnson's companion, pleaded not guilty to the same charge Monday and her case was continued to Sept. 21.

NEW DEAL PUTS UP FALSE FRONT, AVERS LUEDER

Olney, Ill., Sept. 13 [Special].—New Dealers thoroly realize the probablity that they will lose Illinois and hence are extending their efforts to confuse the voters, State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder declared this afternoon before a large audience of Richland county residents. He is a member of the Republican caravan which also includes Lt. Gov. Cross, Atty. Gen. Barrett, and Stephen A. Day, congressman at large.

"The issue is clear," Lueder said. "It is Americanism versus New Dealism. On this issue the election will be won despite the false front organizations being hastily set up to fool the voters. Democrats are joining with us."

Robinson and Lawrenceville also held meetings for the caravan tonight. Tomorrow the candidates will appear at Flora, Centralia, and Effingham. Friday's schedule includes Newton, Toledo, and Shelbyville. Rep. Day came from Washington this week to join the caravan, thus opening his campaign as an unrelenting foe of communism.

TRUMAN COUNTY RULE AN EPIC OF WASTE, BOSSISM

Bitter Memory Lingers After 10 Years.

this investigation and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, a Democrat but a foe of Pendergast, gave the job to Montgomery, who had served as chairman of the Jackson county grand jury that indicted six high officials in 1939. Montgomery quickly brought an end of the Truman-Long system of extravagance and loaded payrolls.

It was no easy task, because the machine still controled the two other judges of the county court, and Montgomery frequently was outvoted. However, Montgomery used the presiding judge's power to certify or not to certify payrolls, and with this whip hand started to get things done. Truman, of course, had held the same power over payrolls when he was presiding judge.

Under Truman and Long, the county had 64 road overseers. Montgomery cut this number to 16. Gasoline purchases from Pendergast's Eureka Petroleum company were reduced from $55,000 to $35,000 a year. A consolidated purchasing system for county institutions saved the taxpayers $100,000 a year.

Expenses Almost Halved.

Operating expenses of the courthouse were cut from $183,000 to $97,827 by the simple expedient of discharging Truman's protege, Fred Canfil, who held the title of "director of buildings," an office not provided for by statute.

Audits of the county's books were made for the first time in years. This practice contrasted sharply with Truman's method of operating. Back in May, 1930, Presiding Judge Truman learned of a petition for a state audit of Jackson county books. He branded the petition as "a political move which would result only in a waste of between $15,000 and $25,000 to the taxpayers."

Truman apparently wanted no scrutiny of his administration. In 1928, when he had been presiding judge for two years, the Civic Research institute made a survey of county welfare activities and reported:

"Appointments are made with little regard to fitness for the work to be done. The personnel engaged in county welfare should be employed on the basis of merit, unaffected by political considerations."

Costs Are 50 Per Cent More.

After the research institute was able to get access to the Jackson county books, it made a survey comparing the county with Hamilton county [Cincinnati], O., which has approximately the same population. The survey showed that Jackson county was paying 50 per cent more than Hamilton county for similar governmental services.

Judge Montgomery and other leaders of the reform movement charge that Truman and his machine pals kept the county finances in a state of confusion to conceal the fact that county institutions were operated as concessions for members of the machine.

Incidents which illustrate the kind of government that Pendergast, Truman & Co., provided for Jackson county are numerous.

"Jackrabbit Justices."

For example, there was the case of the "jackrabbit" justices of the peace. Jackson county has four regularly elected justices who serve districts of the county. Under an old law, the county court could appoint additional justices if citizens petitioned for them. Such appointees came to be known as "jackrabbit justices," because they hopped about, invading the territory of the regular justices.

There were so many abuses under this system that the legislature repealed the law providing for the "jackrabbits" and the courts upheld the repealer. But Truman's county court paid no attention. Soon two jackrabbit justices were operating again, collecting fees. There was a howl of protest, and investigation disclosed that the two illegal operators had been appointed by Presiding Judge Truman and his associates of the county court.

During most of Truman's regime, the prohibition act was in effect. On July 25, 1929, federal agents raided a still on a farm 18 miles southeast of Kansas City, and seized four operators. The raid was not an uncommon event in those days, but the agents thought it was very interesting. They found not only a still, mash, and sugar alcohol, but concrete mixers owned by the county government, which had been used to build the concrete vats. The agents also discovered the road to the still had been built by county workhouse prisoners, using rock from the county quarry.

Strictly a Yes-Man.

A veteran lawyer in Independence, a Democrat and a friend of the Truman family for two generations, sums up Truman's regime in the following language:

"When Truman was county judge he was only a figurehead. He appointed the men he was told to appoint. He approved the contracts he was told to approve. Personally, he's a very nice fellow."

When a 4 million dollar court house was built in Kansas City, Presiding Judge Truman had this inscription cut in stone on the front of the building:

"The strength of the republic is not in its material wealth, but in the loyalty of its citizens who believe their government is just."

[Tomorrow's article in this series will continue the account of Truman's record as presiding judge.]

"Don't let your father sleep! He will be up at six tomorrow morning, jerking up window shades and shouting at us to get out of bed!"

YANKS' BALLOTS TO GO OUT ON DAY OF APPLICATION

Mailing of Illinois soldier ballots will be on a current basis by the end of this week, Carl A. Schroeder, in charge of absentee voting for the Chicago election board, said last night. Then the ballots will go out the same day the applications are received.

By last night 83,000 ballots had been mailed, against a total of 122,000 applications received here. Schroeder estimated that the final figure will be about 200,000. Special postal trucks take the ballots to the airport for shipment by plane.

It is not possible for the election board to answer inquiries of relatives as to whether a soldier has returned his ballot, Schroeder said.

COURTNEY AGAIN CLAIMS GREEN BROKE PLEDGES

BY LEWIS HUNT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 13.—Speaking tonight at the second meeting of his campaign, State's Atty. Courtney, Democratic candidate for governor, charged that Gov. Green had broken a promise by adding taxes on beer and liquor and placing new taxes on cigarets and oil production.

As a result of what he called "excessive taxation," Courtney said the state has accumulated more than 100 million dollars and a problem is presented in disposing of this sum to benefit the people. He suggested the surplus be used to reduce state indebtedness and then an "overall" reduction in taxes.

Only 400 Present.

Courtney spoke to 400 persons in the Fort Armstrong hotel. With him were his caravan companions, Earl Merritt, candidate for state treasurer; Casimir Griglik, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court, and Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, candidate for congress at large. Mrs. Douglas credited the New Deal with solving the problems of war production. She called Gov. Dewey "a Cassandra of despair."

Courtney asserted that in February, 1940, when Green was running for his first term, his Republican opponent said at a meeting in the La Salle hotel:

"Every dollar paid in taxes means a dollar less for expansion of industrial pay rolls. Excessive taxation lowers the standard of living and causes stagnation of private enterprise."

Courtney continued:

"Instead of reducing taxes he has increased taxes and added new taxes. The people of Illinois know this only too well because Gov. Green has hit them hard in the pocketbook every day for more than three years in exacting excessive taxation.

Vows to Cut Sales Tax.

"I pledge immediately upon becoming governor to recommend to the legislature that the sales tax be cut in half and that automobile license fees be reduced commensurate with the need for funds for highway building."

Courtney will skip tomorrow from the itinerary, which calls for a meeting in Galesburg, to go to Chicago to attend installation ceremonies of the state department of the American Legion. Merritt, Griglik, and Mrs. Douglas will go on to Galesburg.

MAINE SERVICE MEN OUTDO CIVILIANS IN PERCENTAGE FOR G.O.P.

New York, Sept. 13 [Special].—Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] said today a separate count of Maine election ballots returned by service men indicated that those in military service were voting more strongly Republican than civilians in several instances.

Brewster, who described the pluralities received in Monday's election by Republican candidates in his state as without precedent, said 10,000 of 33,000 ballots sent to Maine servicemen overseas 30 days in advance of the election were received, voted, and returned in time to be counted.

The senator attributed Republican gains in part to the activities of Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Citizens National Political Action committee and the CIO-PAC.

"Mr. Hillman is an albatross hung about the neck of the Democratic party," Brewster said. "He gave the Democratic party in Maine the kiss of death."

AUTO WORKERS VOTE TO RETAIN WALKOUT BAN

Convention Sharply Split on Keeping War Pledge.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 13.—Revolt against labor's no strike pledge among the rank and file of the CIO United Automobile Workers, the world's largest labor union, was sharply outlined at the UAW convention here tonight when more than one-third of the convention's 11,000 votes were cast for immediate recission of the pledge.

Altho the measure, presented as a "super-minority" report of the resolutions committee, was defeated 6,463 to 3,801, this result came only after international officers of the union had taken the floor against it and George Addes, international secretary-treasurer, had pleaded with the delegates to retain the pledge "so we can go to the polls Nov. 7 and elect a President and congress who will be our friends."

Another Test Awaited.

Advocates of immediate recission of the pledge showed enough strength, observers said, to indicate an extremely close battle on the convention floor tomorrow when delegates will get a chance to vote on an alternative proposal to terminate the no strike pledge after the defeat of Germany, but before the defeat of Japan in plants wholly returned to production of civilian goods.

This proposal, which the resolutions committee called its minority report, was backed in debate today by Walter Reuther, an international vice president of UAW, who termed the matter "not a question of patriotism but of trade union problems."

The majority report of the committee, which will also come to a vote tomorrow and which calls for retention of the no strike pledge until after Germany's defeat, with a meeting then to determine future action to be held by all labor groups parties to the original pledge, was backed by UAW President R. J. Thomas, Addes, and Richard Frankensteen, another UAW vice president.

Vote Takes Three Hours.

The roll call on the proposal for immediate recission, a laborious procedure requiring more than three hours, was forced by the shouted protests of delegates after Addes, presiding as temporary chairman, had attempted to declare the measure defeated on a show of hands.

During debate one delegate warned from the floor, "If we don't rescind the no strike pledge, our members won't vote for Roosevelt in November."

Earlier in the day CIO President Philip Murray sought to halt growing sentiment for recission by predicting that the Little Steel wage formula would be revised upward within a week. Murray, a member of the national war labor board, pleaded for "tolerance and understanding" at least until Monday. The formula limits general wage increases to 15 per cent above Jan. 1, 1941, levels.

The vote of UAW locals from the Chicago area on immediate recission was announced as follows:

For revocation of the no-strike pledge:

Local 992, North Chicago Oakes Products Manufacturing company; Local 932, General Spring and Bumper company; Local 913, C. F. Pease company; Local 834, Forest Park Wire Products company; Local 719, Brookfield Electro-Motive corporation; Local 278, Dole Valve company; Local 274, Dodge Chicago plant; Local 166, Pressed Steel Car company, and Local 6, Buick Aviation Engine plant.

Against revocation:

Local 183, Kensington Steel company; Local 201, Douglas Aircraft plant; Local 281, Link-Belt corporation; Local 330, Bendix Aviation corporation; Local 484, Borg & Beck division of Borg-Warner corporation; Local 551, Hegewisch Ford plant; Local 800, Sivyer Steel Castings company, and Local 998, Studebaker Aviation corporation.

Evanston Engineer Wins Ordnance District Award

Oscar C. Blomgren, 308 Keeney st., Evanston, a war department engineer since 1940 and a member of the Chicago ordnance district staff for two years, has received the department's emblem for meritorious civilian service. One of his principal contributions to the war was special machinery and dies for the production of metallic belt links for 22 mm. aircraft cannon. He also redesigned several hundred parts for electrical directors for anti-aircraft guns and established procedures for production of them.

LEWIS HINTS STRIKE TO CUT MINE 'BUTCHERY'

'Stern Action' After War Indicated.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 13 (AP).—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, hinted today that coal miners may be forced into a post-war strike to gain improvements in mine safety conditions.

Speaking to miners in their biennial convention, Lewis referred to the record of casualties as "butchery" and "a crying national shame."

"Stern Action" Called Need.

"The record is appalling," the UMW chieftain declared. "The time is coming when this union will have to take stern action to abate this slaughter of our people. Were this war not on, I would be prone to recommend that the coal miners of the country stop coal mining for a time until we receive assurances from the operators of a greater degree of safety."

The convention cheered the statement.

Lewis particularly stressed the point that the federal government while in possession of the mines, as a result of strikes and threatened walkouts during the last 18 months, should have taken greater safety precautions. He said he told Secretary Ickes, federal custodian, that he "ought to take time off and make coal mining safe at least in the coal mines operated by the United States government."

Roosevelt Attacked, Defended.

John Mascaro of Canonsburg, Pa., spoke for the administration after Percy Tetlow, a West Virginia district president and Frank Hefferly, Colorado district president, had assailed wage controls and the president's indorsement of national service legislation.

"We love President Lewis for his courageous leadership," said Mascaro, "but we will not turn down the savior of humanity."

Ray Edmundson, leader of autonomy forces in the UMW demanded, meanwhile, that Lewis substantiate his statement that supporters of the Roosevelt administration were financing the autonomy movement.

DORSEYS POST $1,000 BAIL ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP).—Band Leader Tommy Dorsey and his wife, Pat Dane, and Allen Smiley, Hollywood, surrendered today in Superior court on an indictment charging them with felonious assault on actors Jon Hall and Eddie Norris.

On motion of their attorney, their bail was reduced from $5,000 each to $1,000. Formal booking, fingerprinting and photographing for the county jail record were waived.

Sept. 26 was set for hearing arguments on any demurrers and pleas to the indictment, based on a fight in the Dorsey apartment the morning of Aug. 5. Hall, husband of singer Frances Langford, and Norris, former husband of actress Ann Sheridan, said they were badly injured in the fight.

Salesman Gets 3 Years for Violating Draft Law

Charged with failure to keep his draft board informed of his address and failure to fill in a questionnaire, Dale Ronald Anderson, 34, of Lanark, Carroll county, a salesman, pleaded guilty in federal court yesterday and was sentenced by Judge Walter J. La Buy to serve three years in the penitentiary. Anderson told the court that he was afraid to report to the draft board for fear his wife, from whom he was separated, would find him.

OUR PART IN VICTORY AND THE PEACE.

The Dumbarton Oaks conference is drafting a plan for a post-war international organization that is supposed to keep the peace. There is no doubt that Russia, Britain, China, and France want us to throw all our strength into the projected league. There is also no doubt about why they want us in.

The reason is the obvious one that without us they cannot beat either the Germans or the Japanese, to say nothing of a combination of these powers. That was demonstrated in the last war and the proof in this one has been even clearer. Our allies need us to preserve the victory now being won.

The Germans were on top in Europe until we got into the war. The question whether they could have invaded England successfully is debatable, but there can be no slightest doubt that Britain could never have succeeded without our help in driving the Germans out of western Europe, nor could Russia have recovered her western territories. The war was started in 1939 to prevent Germany from overrunning the continent and today, except for our participation, she would control it all.

Today there are four American armies attacking Germany from the west. The British have thrown only one army into the fighting and the Canadians part of another. There is the story in brief. The Americans have done the major part of the fighting and the major part of the winning. The same conclusion is inescapable from a comparison of the number of prisoners taken by the various forces or from a study of the reports of air activities.

Likewise the Russians would have got nowhere without us. Eric Johnston, in the current issue of Life, says he asked the soviet commissar of foreign trade how the Russians were able to follow so closely on the retreating Germans. The answer, Mr. Mikoyan said, was "the efficiency of American trucks." In truth, American materials have saved Russia from defeat, but even more important has been the diversion of German man power from Russia to France. If Germany had faced in the west no greater threat than Britain could have presented there would have been many fewer German divisions in France and enough more in Russia to achieve a German victory.

As for Japan, the evidence is so plain as to need no elaboration. Everybody knows that the Japanese were not stopped until American forces stopped them. The Japs ran over the British, the Dutch, the Chinese, and the French at will. Gen. MacArthur, with his Americans and Filipinos, gave the enemy the first real battle he had had, and in New Guinea administered to him his first defeat. Except for American men and arms, Australia would have been overrun. The subsequent victories over Japan on land, on sea, and in the air are American victories achieved, it must be remembered, at the same time that we have been playing the major role in winning the war in Europe.

Americans are glad to acknowledge the gallantry of our allies, but in so doing there is no need to overlook the plain fact that until we got into the fight they didn't have what it takes to win and could never have won.

That being the fact, and their dependence upon us for their future welfare and security being altogether obvious, there is no slightest reason for America to participate in the Dumbarton Oaks conference as just another ally. We are not a minor power, the Mr. Roosevelt and his crowd behave as if we were. We ought not to be asking humbly to be told the terms on which our participation in an international organization would be acceptable to these great and good people overseas. If there is any wooing to be done they ought to be doing it. If there are any concessions to be made they ought to be making them. We are in the happy position of not having to conciliate anybody or fear anybody, but to hear the New Dealers talk you'd think that the United States was, of all nations, the least able to get along in the world.

NEW YORK'S GIANT AIRPORT.

New York City is constructing what promises to be the world's largest airport at Jamaica bay, on the south shore of Long Island. It will have 12 runways ranging upward to 10,000 feet in length and will cover 4,057 acres. The site already has been dredged and filled with 41 million cubic yards of sand, and great earth moving machines now are leveling it. New York is financing the project and expects to make it self-liquidating. New York does not intend to let inland cities get ahead of her in providing an adequate terminal for the big planes which will fly trade routes all over the world after the war. New York is going all-out on this airport project which, coupled with her port facilities, ought to give the city a dominant place in world commerce, especially if no other American city meets the challenge.

Chicago meanwhile is asleep on its feet, lulled by an inept Democratic city administration which is too busy trying to win a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt to be bothered with post-war airport expansion. The only public officials who seem to be disturbed by the threat to move the center of American air commerce from Chicago to New York are Gov. Green and his Republican state administration.

"We have the resources to make Illinois the world center of air transport and are determined that we shall not miss that goal by any want of energy, planning, and funds," Gov. Green said the other day. "New York looks ahead, while Chicago continues to stick with the little city airport, one that air experts know will be outmoded completely in five years. The people need and must have something better."

While Chicago's Municipal airport is cramped, out of date, and difficult to expand because of the highly settled character of adjacent territory, the city has several good alternate sites, one or more of which should be building right now to meet New York's competition. Among them are the Douglas airport near Park Ridge and the site on the downtown lake front which, by the same kind of filling and construction now being undertaken at Jamaica bay, could be made into an airport unequaled anywhere in the world for size and accessibility.

The aviation committee of the Illinois post-war planning commission already is considering Chicago's airport problems, and Gov. Green says he will meet with this committee in Chicago. Mayor Kelly and his Democrats have shown that they intend to do nothing to advance Chicago's interests. If the people of Chicago are going to get any leadership in post-war progress apparently it will come from the Republican state administration.

SECURING OUR AIR RIGHTS.

The conference called for Nov. 1 in Washington between our government and 50 allied and neutral nations to decide the problems of world aviation after the war is a belated action. If Mr. Roosevelt is going to establish our right to fly commercial airplanes into foreign countries, it is because he has been forced into that action by indignant public opinion and by patriotic Americans in the house and senate.

If a world conference is the best way to secure our commercial air rights, it should have been held two years ago, when every allied, neutral, and emigre government was clamoring for our airplanes, guns, munitions, men, food, and money to protect their lands from invasion or rescue them from conquest. Mr. Roosevelt could then have obtained post-war air rights, air treaties, or anything else of value, for the asking. Now it will not be so easy.

While we were pouring billions of dollars in lend-lease aid into Britain, the English negotiated an air treaty with Ethiopia providing that no commercial airplanes other than British could land there without the United Kingdom's approval, thereby shutting American commerce out except by Britain's consent. Our course was quite the opposite. We financed and built a 90 million dollar system of trans-oceanic airports and flight routes thruout Canada, and sold the entire system back to the dominion at a 13 million dollar loss, retaining no rights of transit or commercial entry whatever.

The result of this has been to place the key to our commercial air future in Canada's hands, for the dominion must be crossed by any land planes traveling the short route from America to Europe or Asia. A Canadian official told THE TRIBUNE, in an interview last February, that the dominion government does not intend to make any commitments until it is satisfied of the intentions of both the United States and Great Britain, because "our greatest fear in international aviation is that we will be smothered in the capacious bosoms of our two greatest friends—England and the United States."

If America now succeeds in obtaining our legitimate rights from Canada, the British empire, and the European and Asiatic allies and neutrals, it will be because of the service of men like Brooks, Mead, Brewster, Bushfield, and Chandler in the senate, and Church and Sumner of Illinois, Hoffman of Michigan, and Harness of Indiana in the house. Time after time these patriotic senators and representatives have called public attention to the way the New Dealers have neglected American interests abroad. It was from American spokesmen in congress that the people learned of the deal for Canadian bases, Great Britain's Ethiopian air treaty, and other evidences of neglect, misfeasance, and malfeasance on the part of the Roosevelt administration.

A world agreement on air rights, arrived at by the New Deal state department and initialed by delegates from other powers, is not sufficient protection for Americans, altho it may be a worthy, if tardy, stopgap. The people's representatives who have done such admirable work for America in calling attention to our critical position in world air commerce should not rest until we have air treaties with all the necessary foreign countries confirmed by the United States senate. The treaties will secure our air rights legally and permanently, as provided in the Constitution.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN 1944.

In a coup more characteristic of central European dictatorships than of representative American government, a Democratic faction on the board of the village of Lyons deposed the village police chief and reinstated the man of its choice, a Democrat who had served as police chief until last June, when he was fired on discovery that he had served a term in prison for burglary. The Lyons police force of five men turned in their stars and resigned, leaving the city without protection. They said they wouldn't work with the former burglar.

This incident illustrates what has happened to the Democratic party everywhere since Mr. Roosevelt absorbed it and converted it to his personal ends. The principles it may have had before then, which entitled it to use the Democratic label, have been wiped out by the New Deal commissars—Browder, Hillman, Ickes, Tugwell, and the rest who preceded them. It is the party of slot machine politicians and the party of totalitarianism, completely untrustworthy in Lyons as in Washington.

The six labor leaders who dined with Gen. Eisenhower on the battlefronts of France report that the soldiers have learned that talk about strikes is just propaganda. Those idle men lined up around war plants weren't pickets, they were just waiting for a street car.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A limited service Yank wins the congressional medal for an exploit before Cassino that would have been good going for a battalion of Rangers. Too bad the G. I. wasn't able bodied, for he would doubtless have ended the war right there.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of these words is most suggestive of the weather bureau?
Acidity Stupidity Humidity Longevity.
2. A precocious child would have an I. Q., or intelligence quotient, of 69 94 101 126.
3. Tularemia should be associated with the occupant of a Hive Hutch Stall Coop.
4. Migraine is associated with which one of these? Feet Liver Heart Head.
5. Which one of these terms suggests an electric iron? Caliber Gauge Watt Millimeter.
6. Place an empty bottle at the edge of a table and lay a marshmallow or small wad of paper on top of it. Then walk past the bottle with your arm extended and try to flick the marshmallow off the bottle by means of your middle finger. Keep moving steadily thruout the process. Don't stop when you approach the bottle. You deserve five points if you snap the marshmallow off at your first attempt and three points if you miss the first time but hit it on the second shot. This experiment tests your eye-finger coördination. But don't grow discouraged if you miss the marshmallow half a dozen times, for it isn't easy to get the range. Try it in your office or at home.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

There are so many literary men with the armies along the Siegfried line that we would not be surprised to hear that some American general has been nicknamed the Wild Boar of the Ardennes. If such a sobriquet appears in the dispatches, it will have come straight out of the fiction of Sir Walter Scott. Read "Quentin Durward" if you are curious about the exploits of the original Wild Boar, who was a terrific robber baron known among his family as William de la Marck.

The city of Trier, on the German border, no doubt inspired the naming of New Trier township, of Chicago's north shore suburbs. Place names of Rhenish origin are in good supply on our northwestern prairies. Examples: Mannheim, Palatine. They were brought by pioneer farmers.

* * *

Trier, by the way, is richer in the remains of old Roman architecture than any other city in Germany. They include an elaborate gateway called the Porta Nigra; a basilica, which has been converted into a church; a palace, an amphitheater in excellent preservation, and a bath establishment.

From Trier to Koblenz, where the Moselle joins the Rhine, is a boat ride of 140 miles, altho as the crow flies the distance is about 40 miles. Between wars there was excursion steamer service, occasionally interrupted by low water. The scenery is more intimate than that of the Rhine journey, but some travelers, just to be different, have said they liked it more.

Yanks writing home from France may mention a drink called "marc." It's an inferior brandy made from grape skins and the lees of the wine industry, and to our palate it tastes like warm brickbats—sort of flat and limey. From Luxemburg may come word of a regional brandy called "quetsch," which is a good throat-burner. Both of these drinks could be found here and there in Chicago between the World wars.

FADED SERVICE FLAG.

Framed by our window since he went away,
His service flag has gradually paled;
Tho friendly trees have guarded it each day,
The bleaching sun has finally prevailed.
Perhaps a newer star of brighter hue
Might show that we at home yet wait and yearn,
But there is comfort in the fading blue,
Proving the time is near for his return.
So let it fade; good friends will understand
The candle of our tenderness shines clear;
Only a little while, and his own hand
Shall take it from its place, a souvenir
Thru all the years together that we face;

Sawbuck in the Back Yard.

From habit, we still buy bacon by the slab. Years ago the rind was used to lubricate our bucksaw. Early in autumn we started sawing kindling. The morning wore a heavy veil of haze, making the sun appear a weak, lemon yellow. Chilling winds forced us to forsake our summer garb of tattered overalls and bare feet. Hearty breakfasts of oatmeal and scrambled eggs with crisp bacon strips awaited those who were to furnish the winter fuel.

From the kitchen window you could see small mounds of driftwood already dried by the summer sun. Sawing this was our annual autumn chore, and the bacon rinds accumulated since spring were used to make the saw glide easier. The sawbuck was loaded with a giant timber. Two kids handled the saw, while the third one sat on the timber to add weight and balance as the pieces were cut off.

The chilly, early morning air was filled with the rhythmic ring of the saw singing its way thru each piece. As the saw grew hotter, the number three man swabbed it generously with a piece of bacon rind. Little hills of sawdust gathered at our feet, and then sudden gusts of wind would churn them with the fallen leaves and sail them away together across the open prairies. The smell of fresh sawed timber and resin added to the zest of the brisk autumn morning.

Later these two-and-a-half foot timber lengths were split into convenient kitchen stove sizes. The cellar fuel storage space soon was piled solidly from floor to ceiling. Soon this very fuel that last season's bacon rind made easier sawing was again frying this season's bacon and eggs.

THREE STRIKES!

My sweetie Ruth said I was cruel,
I called her charges truthless.
She threw me down, the little fool,
And proved it—I was Ruthless.

Then I met Faith, a trustful chit,
And felt that I was scatheless.
She thought me fickle, so she quit.
I found that I was Faithless.

I fell for Hope, it proved a mess;
Her words of blame were scopeless
For all the faults man can possess.
I know it now, I'm Hopeless.

O. P. R. asks: "My son is a prisoner of war in Germany and has earned a citation. Will he be notified?"

He will be notified thru diplomatic channels and the prisoner of war information bureau of the holding power.

W. S. P. writes: "I and several others in this hospital have been returned from France after being wounded in the Normandy invasion. We would like to know why men who have been wounded several times are offered a certificate of disability discharge instead of a medical discharge? With a C. D. D. is the veteran able to press a claim for pension or compensation? Is the government absolved of responsibility if a C. D. D. is accepted?"

Every one discharged for physical disability receives a C. D. D. no matter how the disability came about. Men discharged for physical disability can file a claim for compensation, provided the disability arose from or was aggravated by reason of service. The government's responsibility is more or less determined by the "boards" at the hospital before which the case is reviewed prior to discharge.

GOOD HYGIENE MAY REMEDY INDIGESTION.

SOME of these days physicians will pay more attention to the patient who complains that he experiences distress following every meal. As a rule, a casual investigation will reveal that the sufferer's eating habits are bad. For years he has gulped his food, consuming everything that is set before him without the slightest discrimination.

There are few animals who bolt their nutriment as voraciously as man. They have too much respect for their alimentary tracts. We may fail to realize that the teeth and jaws are provided for chewing. Thoro mastication is the prime requisite for good digestion. It is upon this principle that Fletcher made his reputation, advising that every morsel be pulverized until it will travel down the gullet of its own accord—practically in liquid form.

The common symptoms of dyspepsia include pain, belching, and heartburn. If the signs persist after the individual has learned how to eat, we must look for the possible presence of ulcer or some other type of irritation within the gastric pouch. Now and then, the organ will be lazy. On the other hand, it may be just as fidgety as its owner.

The first condition calls for edibles that will pass into the bowel rather quickly. The second will require sedatives. The ideal program, therefore, is to calculate the exact quantity ingested at each session and insist that enough time shall be permitted so that it will enter the first part of the bowel fully "conditioned."

We can well understand that constipation is a deterrent to good assimilation. When the lower portion of the canal is overfilled with used up material [which should be discharged], bloating, nausea, and nervousness may appear. Many a one so situated will exhibit a dull headache for an hour or two every day and a constant tired feeling.

According to every natural rule, the terminal segment of the intestine should empty itself shortly after the early morning meal. If the urge does not occur, one aid may be adopted—namely, drinking two or three glasses of warm water one-half hour before breakfast. More often than not, this will suffice. If not, a low enema of plain water or dilute salt solution will bring about the desired result. Strong purgatives are likely to make a bad matter worse. There is no justification for hurrying the interval at stool. Relax and do not become impatient. It is just as important to allow the colon time to get rid of its contents as it is to see that the proper viands are consumed in the first place.

Among the numerous accompaniments of disturbed bowel performance, mention may be made of gaseous rumblings. As one goes about his business, the disappointed, half-emptied structure makes an effort to quiet down. It wants to behave and yet it cannot because it is still engorged with débris that should have been eliminated. What happens? Bubbles of gas play hide and seek along this overdistended tube. A fair amount of darting pain may be encountered.

Now, this is not functional indigestion. If it continues, the reflex will be directed to the stomach itself. In consequence the gastric juice will fail to prepare the contents for solution. A sense of nausea is not unusual. We can't remedy the matter by cleaning out the colon periodically. Nature will come to the rescue if we will take the trouble to attend to her demands.

Which Shall It Be?

These manufacturers who conduct contests for slogans for crunchy breakfast foods will appreciate just what this department looks like today. An innocent essay on the lack of slogans in the current Presidential campaign brought about a deluge of mail, most of it saying "Dewey? We do!"

It is to be hoped that Mr. Herbert Brownell of the Republican national committee also will appreciate our efforts to give his campaign a name. We tried to do the same thing for the Democrats, but they apparently feel [1] they need no slogan this time, or [2] they need more than a slogan, for only two came in for their side. They were "Take the dew off Dewey!" and one of the rhyming, or try-to-remember-it school:

"The U. S. A. is O. K.
Let's keep it that way—
With Roosevelt."

The latter was sent by Mr. John McHugh, with whom our other 167 sloganeers [as of Sept. 13] disagreed, some violently. To dispose of the determined rhymsters first, Guy B. Bass suggested "Enough of hooey—give us Dewey," Mrs. Ruth Tracy suggested "End hooey with Dewey," and a Mrs. Lawler offered "No hooey with Dewey." Many used Bricker to achieve a rhyme, as E. H. F. with "Dewey and Bricker, what could be slicker?", C. Flint with "Headway quicker with Dewey and Bricker," and M. A. S. with "Dewey and Bricker, the sooner the quicker," and C. F. W. with "Hope's last flicker, Dewey and Bricker," and a campaign yell:

"Can Dewey, Dewey, Dewey do?
You bet your life—with Bricker, too."

An attorney, Jacob M. Sherbahn, sent six varieties, which he defined variously as [1] the negative fait accompli, "He got us into war"; [2] the handicap, "'Blocked' by Flynn, he cannot win"; [3] the impudent query, "Have you gotten your bust yet?"; [4] the slug, a neat square pin labeled "Not for sale"; [5] the declension, as "New deal, mis-deal, raw deal, rotten deal," and [6] the bulldozer:

"Gone almost are the nine old men,
But the tenth hangs on till heaven knows when."

Others are more serious and less violent. H. L. M. offers "Change or cancel—democracy" and "Deal in with Dewey." Minor E. Botts offers "Restore the Republic," and another suggests "Restore the home front." Mrs. Marion Morene suggests "Peace and prosperity."

M. T. McCarthy offers "He broke up gangs before—Dewey"; Mabel L. Ruehe, "Jobs for G. I. Joes"; J. L. Grigsby, "Business is your Dewety!" [ugh!]; Glen R. Casebeer, "Off the dole with Dewey"; R. T. Breitenkamp, "Do you want debt or Dewey?" and W. K. Currie, "Dare with Dewey and flunk with Franklin," "Our homes? Or Hillman?" and "Drive on with Dewey."

Anna Axman offers "Not with dollars but good sense." Evans sends "Dewey the bluster buster." A man who doesn't want his name used [a Democrat, perhaps?] suggests "Buster! Scat, the burocrats!" Feeling that this requires an explanation, a thought in which we concur, he says that Buster implies a tenacious fighter and such a slogan would be sic-ing Dewey, the racket buster, on the burocrats.

Innumerable persons sent in "Do it with Dewey." Many also sent "We'll do it with Dewey," "Dewey will do it," and an imperative "Dewey, do it!" Kenneth Deibee suggests the use of two in singsong style, "Dewey can do it, Dewey will do it," which after Nov. 7 can be amended to a triumphant "Dewey dood it!" Our favorite along the alliterative line is J. J. F.'s "Dewey do? He do!" Mr. J. J. F. explains that this, when spoken, should sound like "dooledooledoo."

One writer suggested "Let's get back on shore," this being the final line in an unwritten ditty called "We've been in the middle of the stream long enough." O, yes, and one man believes in using the rubber stamp rather than the vocal cords. The stamp is to be used on the back of envelopes. The result, in purple ink, will be "Tom and John" in block letters. The uninitiated may think it a nutmeggy, intoxicating drink to be swilled down, hot, during the Christmas season, but it is not.

NEGLECT OR WAR DAMAGE?

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 1.—In a recent edition of an afternoon newspaper a writer described conditions in Leningrad, Russia, after three years of war. He said Leningrad is a "city of disrepair—the scarred facades of tenements, the broken windows, the people, all of whom are in dire need of a new wardrobe." One paragraph is headed "U. S. has a big role" and goes on to say that the rehabilitation will to a great extent depend upon what they get from the United States.

Having been in Leningrad in 1939, before the war broke out, I wish to say that that city was in just that sad and unsightly condition at that time. Perhaps the streets were not then "strewn with rubble," but I have never seen any place that approached it for unsightliness. Every building needed repairs and paint, every window needed glass, and the people were all poorly clad. Old women dressed in gunny sacks for skirts worked in the streets. No shops were open, and there were no churches in which to worship. The people were a sad looking lot and everything was in rundown, dilapidated condition.

If the United States is going to put the Russian cities back into a state of decent repair, clothe the people, etc., one wonders just who is going to pay for it. Is this to be more so-called lend-lease? Are we Americans to pay for the years of neglect and poor living conditions in European cities? What is America? A Santa Claus? Or just lacking in good sense? In the end we shall again be dubbed "Uncle Shylock" as we were before. M. M.

EPITAPH FOR DEMOCRACY.

Statesville, N. C., Sept. 6.—All liberty loving Republicans would rather be governed by Jeffersonian democracy than by Marxian socialism. Why shouldn't Jeffersonian Democrats, who love freedom, rather trust Lincoln republicanism than Marxian socialism dressed up in the hide of a peaceful donkey and called the New Deal?

Four more years of the New Deal will put the Democratic party in its grave and, probably along with it, the Republican party and American freedom. If southern Democrats wish to bury their own party to perpetuate the New Deal, I suggest this as an epitaph: Here lies the party that Jefferson built, and also the one that Roosevelt "kilt."

OLDER SOLDIERS FORGOTTEN AGAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—When a plan for releasing men from the army was announced, again the overaged men were forgotten.

My husband is 39 and has been in the army for a year. He was inducted just before he was 38. Naturally he was unable to keep up with the youngsters. Why aren't these men released?

B. S.

AN AMERICAN VOICE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Those Americans who have heard Gov. Dewey on the radio must have instantly recognized the fact that they were listening to a genuine American voice, strong, clear, and unmistakably speaking the American language. Gov. Dewey's voice utterly lacks the characteristic whine and foreign accent of the self-styled commander in chief. H. D. Bennett.

OUR EXPERIENCE WITH DEMOCRATS.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 9.—As a child is raised, so it will be in adult life. That is the explanation for the Democratic Presidential nominee wanting a cradle to grave dole for the American people. He never had to work for his living, so he feels that the rest of us are not capable of making a living. Where would this country be if all the people had used that kind of reasoning? It never would have been discovered. There would be no U. S. A. It took sweat to build America!

When the New Deal killed off the pigs and plowed under the crops, they simply took the line of least resistance and, due to their blunder, had to replenish the supply by importing same from foreign countries. Most people who really understand the problems of the poor, if they have anything they don't need, would rather give it to the poor than destroy it.

Speaking of experience, the Democrats have had only three men as President since Abraham Lincoln. There never has been a World war under a Republican President, but there have been two World wars under Democratic Presidents. Had the Democrats really been experienced, there shouldn't have been any World wars.

George O. Bettis.

PAYING FOR NEW DEAL FREEDOMS.

Wichita, Kas., Sept. 5.—Perhaps the most unfortunate act of the New Deal administration has been establishment of the idea that it is the function of government to guarantee freedom from fear and want. The citizen has been educated to believe that it is a function of the government to provide for him adequate wages and low living costs by the regulation of prices and rentals.

In order to accomplish this short cut to desirable ends, directors have been appointed in Washington to nullify the natural law of supply and demand, thereby arrogating to themselves the highest of authority. The citizen is told how much he must pay for a cup of coffee, and in many cases is told that he must pay $25 for $50 rentals, $50 for $25 rentals, and no more than $1.15 a barrel of crude oil, when the market price is $1.50.

In line with the above, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey advocates retention of our sons in the army long after they are needed for military purposes for the reason that this would be cheaper than to set up another WPA! After the Civil war, it was nearly 20 years before a pension was provided. Our fathers were self-reliant. Are we more socialistic? Henry Ware Allen.

Can a driver's license card be used as a bond?

Yes. Illinois Revised Statutes, Chap. 95½, Sec. 36 f, says an arrested person "shall have the option of depositing his chauffeur's or operator's license with the officer demanding bail, in lieu of any other security required for his appearance . . . but death, intoxication, and reckless driving are excepted."

Authorities Are Branded as 'Incompetent.'

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 13.—A bitter controversy over the phantom gas prowler split Mattoon wide open today as police officials tried to discount the entire scare as a "hoax" and businessmen branded the police as "incompetent."

On one side of the fence stood Police Chief C. Eugene Cole who said that the whole scare was a product of nerves. The gas fumes, reported by 35 persons to have been sprayed into their bedrooms at night, came from a war plant on the edge of town and were nothing more dangerous than carbon tetrachloride, a common cleaning agent, he said.

Opposing Chief Cole were several businessmen and State's Atty. William E. Kidwell, who called this theory of the mysterious case "ridiculous."

Blames Police.

Kidwell said he believed there were real cases of gassings, altho a great many reported attacks were only hysteria, and that the police failed to act quickly enough at the start of the whole affair.

W. J Webster, manager of the war plant which police blamed for the gas odors, attacked Chief Cole's statement as a product of incompetent police work.

"There are less than five gallons of carbon tetrachloride, mentioned by Chief Cole, in the entire plant. All of that is used in sealed fire extinguishers," Webster declared. "There is some trichlorenthylene in the plant but the concentration is so small that the fumes wouldn't travel more than 10 feet."

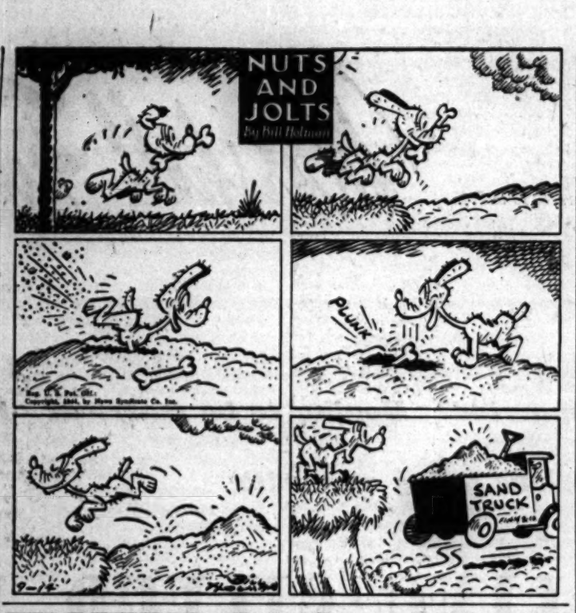
State Police to Stay.

Meanwhile, the eight squads of state police will remain in Mattoon to guard against further hysteria. State Police Capt. Harry Curtis has said that, while he believed a prowler may have been involved in some of the earlier attacks, he had been unable to find evidence to prove that such a prowler actually did spray gas thru open bedroom windows. He said he believed hysteria was responsible for most of the reports of attacks.

Mattoon's prowler began terrorizing the people on Sept. 2, when four residents reported a sickening "sweet" gas had been sprayed into their windows. All victims have claimed to have felt the same effects from the gas.

'OPA Stupidity' Blamed for Shortage of Butter

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Rep. Andresen [R., Minn.] today blamed "stupidity in the OPA" for butter shortages. He said in a house speech that OPA had set fluid milk ceiling prices so that farmers made more by selling milk in this manner than by selling the cream for butter use. "It also appears that certain officials and interests might not be adverse to encouraging the butter shortage in order to increase the use of oleomargarine," Andresen asserted.



HAGUE'S VOTING 'ADVICE' ANGERS MARINE, SAILOR

Assail Machine for Election Letters.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 13 [Special]—A marine corporal's reaction to a letter from a Hague machine functionary telling him how to vote Nov. 7 was the comment that "if I want any fan letters from politicians I'll start a correspondence with Eleanor Roosevelt," it was revealed here today.

The marine's denunciation of electioneering by mail among service men was contained in a letter to his family which was turned over to the Republican campaign committee today along with a letter containing a similar complaint from a chief petty officer in the navy stationed in New Guinea.

Both letters, the committee said, will be forwarded to Gov. Edge for investigation in support of charges the Hague machine is using official lists of absentee ballots sent service men in order to follow up ballots with campaign literature, a direct violation of war department regulations.

Probe 2 Other Complaints.

Two previous instances of complaints by service men that they received Hague machine literature in the mail are already under investigation.

As in the previous cases, the letters made public today stated the vote soliciting literature bore the letterhead of Philip McGovern, city clerk of Jersey City and Democratic leader of the city's 9th ward. Names of the service men were withheld at the request of the men's families lest they suffer political reprisals.

"Who gave my name to P. McGovern or some other politician?" the marine indignantly inquired of his family in his letter. He said the literature asked him to vote for Roosevelt and to vote against "a certain referendum on the top of the ballot," and to solicit other fellows from New Jersey also to vote against the referendum.

Machine Fights Referendum.

[The referendum is on revision of the New Jersey constitution, which would transfer control of certain municipal affairs to the governor, and which the Hague machine has been battling furiously.]

"All I got to say is, they got some nerve," the marine said, "and if I was home, I'd say a few words to him or both of them." [He explained the letter was signed by "some ward heeler named Walter G. Walsh," and came from P. McGovern's office.]

"I was going to vote for Roosevelt, but I won't vote for anyone. When they insult your intelligence by mail, it's too much."

Navy Man Disgusted.

The letter from the navy man in New Guinea, written to his wife, said he was so disgusted with this evidence of corrupt politics in Jersey City that he does not want to live there after the war. He is 28 and was born and brought up in Jersey City.

"Received my ballot and also a note, or letter, rather, from McGovern, telling me just how to vote my ballot," he wrote. "How do you like that? Mayor Hague will never change, that's why I'll be damned if I'll live there when I come back."

Officials of Mayor Hague's machine denied they had authorized the sending of any letters to service men soliciting votes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The ministry of war transport announced today that the government's producer gas plan has been discontinued as a result of the improvement in the war situation. Consumers were advised they could revert to the use of liquid fuel if they desired. The ministry expressed appreciation to bus companies, business men, and other vehicle owners who coöperated in the producer gas experiment. Despite difficulties of importing gasoline in war time, the ministry added, large scale conversion of vehicles to producer gas has proved unnecessary.

32 PCT. OF VETS FILE CLAIMS FOR DISABILITY PAY

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, chief of the veterans administration, said today 32 of every 100 veterans discharged from the present war have filed claims for disability pension and two-thirds of the claims adjudicated have been allowed.

He said in an address before the national convention of disabled American veterans that neuropsychiatric disabilities comprised 40 per cent of the claims approved. He said there were 229,336 veterans of the present war on pension rolls at the end of July and dependents of 30,737 deceased veterans were receiving pension payments.

Hines said hospital admissions have more than doubled in the last year, with veterans of this conflict comprising 20 per cent of the 15,288 hospitalized by the veterans administration.

MISSING PHYSICIAN, FOUND DAZED IN NURSERY PIT, DIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP).—Dr. Walter Hughson, 53 year old authority on deafness, who was found dazed and drenched in a pit at a tree nursery today, near Abington memorial hospital from which he disappeared Monday night, died tonight in the hospital. The hospital announced his death was caused by spinal meningitis.

Dr. Walter Hughson.

Physicians at the hospital would offer no opinion as to whether he contracted the disease while lying exposed to the elements for hours before he was found today. Neither would they speculate as to whether it was the cause of his disappearance.

The nursery where he was found, coatless and with one shoe missing, is about three miles from the hospital and about eight from the doctor's home.

A Postwar Export Market for YOUR Products

WOULD you like to add to your postwar sales a part of the half billion dollars' worth of goods that will be imported annually by the Caribbean Islands and nearby South America?

For years the ships of the Alcoa fleet have served this convenient export market. While war continues, their first aim is to serve America's military establishments around the world. But when the war is won, the Alcoa fleet will again resume full shipping to this close-by area—helping American producers and workers expand markets there, and bringing back materials needed here.

In our years of service to the Caribbean and South American area shown on the map at the right we have learned the needs and wants and preferences there . . . the potential volume for products of every type. We know the experienced agents who can be helpful in each community. All of this information is available as an Alcoa service to American business executives . . . to help them prepare plans ahead for greater postwar production and employment.

CAR AND TRUCK CRASH FATAL TO SURGEON, WIFE

Dr. D. D. Van Voorhis, 70, of Beecher, Will county, surgeon for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad for the last 35 years, was killed and Mrs. Voorhis was fatally injured Tuesday when their automobile collided with a semi-trailer truck west of Sycamore in De Kalb county. Dr. Voorhis was killed instantly and his wife died of a skull fracture yesterday in the Sycamore hospital.

State highway police said that Dr. Voorhis failed to stop at the intersection of route 64 and Glidden road, where his automobile was struck by a truck driven by Clarence Cramer, 35, of Dubuque, Ia.

Dr. Voorhis was graduated from Bennett Medical college [now Loyola university] in 1893 and served alternate internships in the Cook county hospital.

PROTEST ARMY PLAN ON USE OF PERSHING HOTEL

Charges that an unidentified army colonel proclaimed that "the niggers can sleep in tents," were made last night at a meeting of 600 Negroes protesting the army plan to convert the Pershing hotel, 6400 Cottage Grove av., into a redistribution center for Negroes.

The remark allegedly was made when the colonel and a group of other officers, inspecting the hotel Tuesday, were asked where the hotel's 400 Negro tenants would live. The charge was made part of the meeting record.

O. T. Shelton, who presided at the meeting, held in the hotel, said that the remark was heard by several Negroes. The meeting condemned the statement and also the army takeover plan, asserting it would increase the housing shortage in the Negro district.

Chicagoan in Olsen Band Killed in Truck Accident

Jasper, Tex., Sept. 13 (AP).—Louis Augustine, 35, of Chicago, violinist with the George Olsen orchestra touring army and navy camps, died in a hospital of injuries received in a truck accident early today 20 miles from here. The truck, occupied by Augustine and a driver, was loaded with musical instruments and en route to Vinton, La.

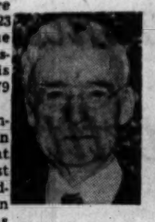
G. A. CARPENTER, U. S. JUDGE HERE 23 YEARS, DIES

Retired from District Bench in 1933.

George A. Carpenter, 76, who resigned as a judge in the federal District court here in 1933 after 23 years on the bench, died yesterday in his apartment at 179 Lake Shore dr.



George A. Carpenter.

Judge Carpenter was born in Chicago in what is now the 21st ward. His grandfather, Benjamin Carpenter, was one of the city's first packers and a member of the city's first board of public works. His father was head of the firm of George B. Carpenter & Co., ship chandlers.

Joined Chicago Law Firm.

He was graduated from Harvard university in 1888 and from Harvard law school in 1891. Returning to Chicago, he became a member of the law firm of Pence & Carpenter, which continued until the death of Abram M. Pence in 1905.

In 1906 he was elected a judge of the Circuit court and was reëlected in 1909. In the same year he was appointed to the federal bench by former President Taft and was confirmed by the senate in January, 1910.

In 1894 he married Miss Harriet Isham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Isham, in the Isham family home at 945 N. Dearborn st., where the Carpenters later lived for 45 years.

Wed 50 Years Last May.

Since his resignation from the bench, Judge Carpenter had been associated with the law firm of Tenney, Sherman, Rogers & Guthrie, with offices at 120 S. La Salle st.

In addition to his widow he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham; a son, George B. Carpenter, and two brothers, John Alden Carpenter, the composer, and Hubbard Carpenter.

MRS. DEVRIES, WIFE OF MUSIC CRITIC, IS DEAD

Mrs. Hattie A. Devries, 72, wife of Herman Devries, music critic of the Chicago Herald-American, died last night in her apartment in the St. Clair hotel.

A native of New Orleans, she studied violin and voice in Paris, and for many years was widely known in Chicago as a vocal teacher, having developed several concert and operatic singers. She was married to Mr. Devries in 1904.

FRED L. MILLS' ESTATE VALUE SET AT $300,000

Fred L. Mills, 49, president of Mills Industries, Inc., Chicago, who died July 5 in a hospital in St. Charles, left an estate of $300,000 it was disclosed yesterday when the will was filed in Kane county Probate court in Geneva. Mr. Mills lived near St. Charles. His widow, Isabell, and the First National Bank of Chicago were named executors of the estate in trust. Mrs. Mills, a son, Lt. Fred L. Mills, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Blower of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Marcia Isabell Mills of St. Charles, were named beneficiaries.

REPORT DOCTOR INDICTED IN ABORTION CASE

Dr. Ellis G. Klinger, 67, of 149 W. 14th st., Chicago Heights, was reported named in a true bill charging abortion, which was voted yesterday by the grand jury. Leo Johnson, 25, of 673 W. 63d pl., was reported named for statutory rape after investigation of a story told by a 14 year old Thornton girl that Klinger operated on her after she was taken to him by Johnson. Johnson, a bus driver, said he paid the physician $10 to perform the abortion.

600 PAIRS OF HOSE STOLEN.

BOMB SHORTAGE REVEALED HERE BY WMC CHIEF

The army and navy, short of many munitions, are rationing bombs "because there are not enough to go around on all the fronts," Charles M. Hay, deputy administrator of the war man power commission, told war man power commission, said in an interview in Chicago yesterday.

"If the war against Germany does not end in 30 days, we may find that certain other items, including radar, truck parts and tires, and heavy ammunition, may be so scarce they also will have to be doled out in inadequate quantities to our soldiers and sailors," he said.

He disclosed that the WMC has perfected plans to remove all job controls except the 48 hour week in war production areas "very quickly" after the end of the war in Europe, and that Chicago "has a very good chance" of being among the first to escape labor curbs.

Illinois, with 10 No. 1 critical areas, is the most severely crippled war production state in the nation, Charles P. Casey, state man power director, said. There are 58 No. 1 areas in the 47 other states. A total of 127,825 new workers must be obtained in the next six months to meet current schedules, Casey said.

TODAY IS 130TH ANNIVERSARY OF NATIONAL SONG

Poem Was Published on Handbills.

Inspired by the sight of the United States flag still flying over Fort McHenry in Baltimore harbor after a night of shelling by British naval guns, Francis Scott Key, a Maryland lawyer, wrote a poem 130 years ago today that was at once popular, but not recognized officially for 117 years—88 years after his death.

Francis Scott Key.

Key was aboard a small English vessel when he wrote the poem. He had tramped the small deck of the craft thruout the night, watching the shelling of Fort McHenry, unable to reach shore because he was under detention by British marines.

Today the song is the anthem of the nation—"The Star-Spangled Banner." It became official March 4, 1931, with the signing of a congressional bill by President Hoover.

"To Anacreon in Heaven," the official song of the Anacreontic society of London, was the tune to which the poem soon was sung. The society was named in honor of Anacreon, Greek poet of love, pleasure, and wine, and withal a sober association of intellectuals.

REV. F. G. DINNEEN DIES; 20 YEARS AT ST. IGNATIUS

The Rev. F. George Dinneen, S. J., 78, pastor of St. Ignatius Catholic church, 6559 Glenwood av., since 1924, died yesterday in St. Francis hospital in Evanston. Father Dinneen, a member of the Jesuit order for 53 years, was one of the founders of the Legion of Decency, organized to combat indecent motion pictures.

He was born in New York state and was graduated from St. Mary's college, St. Mary's, Kas., where he later taught. He also taught in Creighton university, Omaha, Neb., from 1898 to 1902, and in St. Ignatius High school in Chicago from 1906 to 1919. He founded the Loyola Community theater, in his parish, in 1927.

The office of the dead will be read at 10 a. m. Saturday in St. Ignatius church, and requiem mass will be said at 10:30 a. m.

TWO MORE POLIO CASES LISTED; TOTAL NOW AT 95

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said two new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Chicago yesterday, bringing the total for the year to 95, with four deaths. Fifty-nine deaths and 602 cases had been reported last year to Sept. 13. One new case, the 52d this year, was reported yesterday in Cook county outside of Chicago. The patient was the mother of a 13 day old baby in Evanston. There were 165 cases in the county last year at this time, with 16 deaths, compared with two this year.

SEEK 100 TONS OF SCRAP PAPER IN COUNTY FILES

More than 100 tons of waste paper will be gathered from offices in the county building within the next few days, according to plans completed yesterday by judges of the Circuit court under the direction of Chief Justice Julius H. Miner. Judges Philip Finnegan and Stanley Klarkowski, who are on the executive committee with Chief Justice Miner, have ordered that all county offices immediately start clearing files.

3,112,965 NOW ON U.S. PAY ROLL, BYRD REVEALS

96,046 Added in Three Months, He Says.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Despite statements of the United States civil service commission that reductions are being made in government personnel, there was a net increase of 96,046 federal civilian pay rollers between May 1 and July 31, 1944, Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] told the senate today.

Reporting for the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, Byrd said that on July 31 there were 3,112,965 paid civilian employes of the federal government, exclusive of 252,978 war department employes outside the United States.

To Press Economy Campaign.

Byrd said in an interview he would demand action, when the senate returns from its election recess, on a resolution he introduced last June which would direct War Man Power Commissioner McNutt to reduce federal employes by 300,000.

"If in the meantime Germany has been defeated, the cut should be considerably greater," Byrd said. "There is no excuse for this continual increase in federal employes."

Byrd told the senate that following the last report of his committee, June 23, 1944, the civil service commission, in a report to the President and a release to the press, indicated there had been a reduction in the number of civil service employes and an increase in man power utilization.

"Reports received by the committee show quite the contrary," Byrd commented. "The figures received [by the Byrd committee] show that the number of federal civilian employes is still on the increase."

An Army of New Employes.

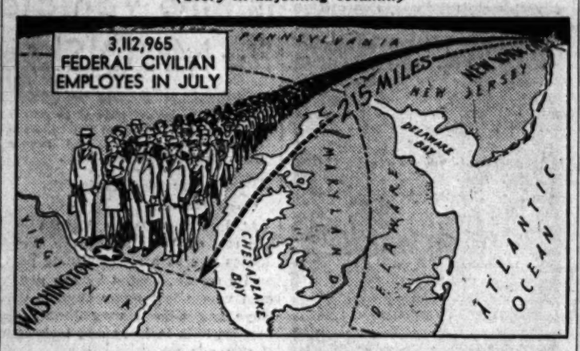
Byrd reported that 37 departments and agencies increased their personnel by 101,749 between May 1 and July 31, while 26 departments and agencies eliminated only 5,703 employes, making a net increase of 96,046 for the period. For the first seven months of 1944 the net increase was 134,736, he said.

"When we realize," said Byrd in his report, "that the ratio of federal civilian employes to state civilian employes is now about 7 to 1, it is evident that the federal government is considerably overstaffed. About 5 per cent of the working population of the United States now works for the executive branch of the federal government.

"If this army of federal employes was lined up four abreast in military formation the line would reach from Washington, D. C., to New York City."

Federal Pay Rollers Increase

(Story in adjoining column.)



How federal civilian employes, lined up four abreast, would reach 215 miles from New York to Washington, D. C., according to report yesterday of Sen. Byrd (D., Va.).

COUNTY TO TEST TAX EXEMPTION ON WAR PLANTS

Whether the federal government must pay taxes on its property holdings in Cook county will be given a test in court, it was announced yesterday by County Assessor Clark. Clark has assessed federal housing projects and war plants on the ground they are in competition with private enterprise. Among the plants are those of the Douglas Aircraft corporation, Amertorp corporation, and the Brad Foote Gear works.

Complaints against assessment of these plants were heard yesterday by county board of tax appeals. Clarence W. Beatty Jr., special assistant United States attorney, asserted that the mere ownership by the federal government made it impossible for a state or municipality to tax property, regardless of use.

Hearing was continued to Oct. 20. Meanwhile the federal government is expected to file in federal District court a suit to enjoin Clark from assessing the Douglas plant. He put on it a full valuation of about 4 million dollars, which would produce more than $100,000 in taxes.

Gangster Humphreys Foils Loop Arrest with Writ

Murray [the Camel] Humphreys, 44, former Capone gangster, was freed on a writ of habeas corpus by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of Criminal court late yesterday after detectives had seized the gambler at Clark and Lake sts. Assistant State's Atty. George McMahon sought to link Humphrey's arrest with "some unsolved crimes," but admitted there was no evidence. Defense Atty. Emmet Moynihan said Humphreys' only offense was walking in the loop "without a permit from the chief of detectives.

DON'T "HOARD" THAT WASTE PAPER!

It's a critical war material. Dig it out and turn it in!

You can help to get out the millions of tons of obsolete paper accumulated right now in office files and household store-rooms across the country. Scrap paper makes pulp and pulp makes desperately needed containers and wrappings for war material. Get all your waste paper into salvage headquarters — and get your neighbors to do the same.

WHISKEY HOARDING is out of order these days, too. The tremendous demand for Old Sunny Brook still exceeds the supply. We therefore urge you to buy only your fair share and let everybody get a chance to enjoy this popular whiskey. Remember, we have been cooperating fully with the government war alcohol program and are continuing to do so.

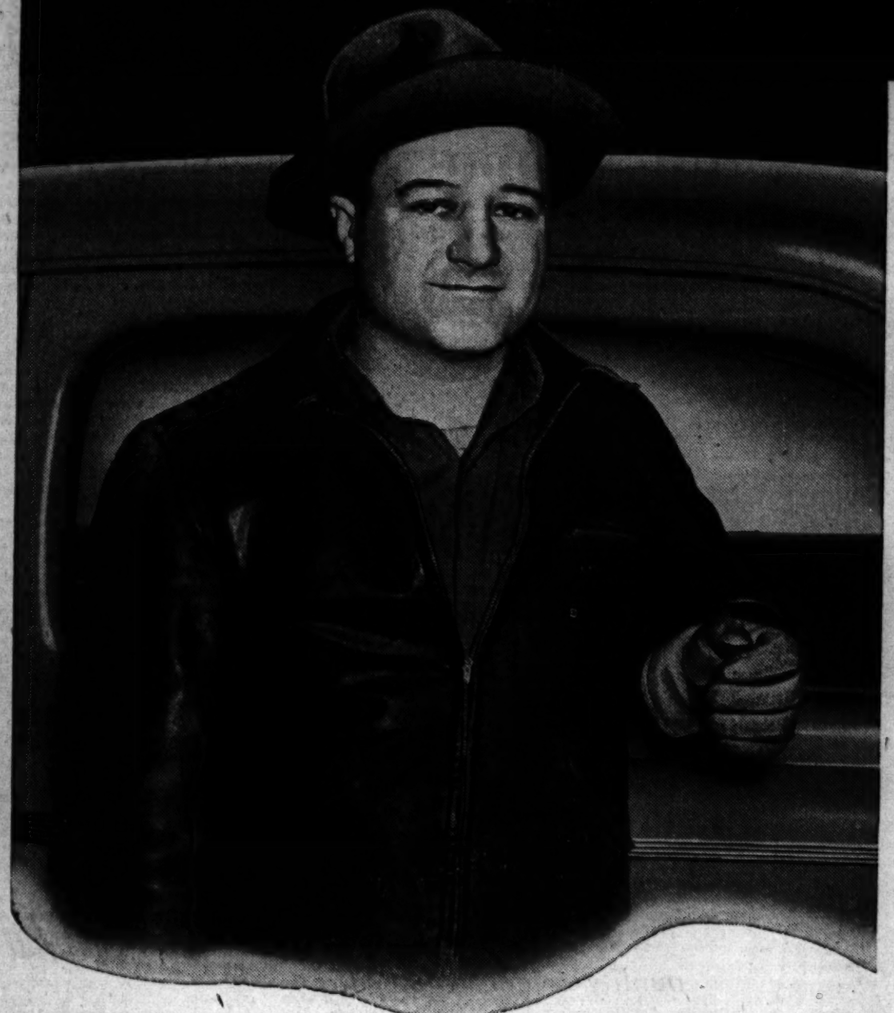
Gary Bank Janitress Held in Gasoline Ration Theft

Mrs. Walter Smith, 31, of 1627 Broadway, Gary, Ind., a Negro accused by office of price administration agents of attempting to steal coupons for 5,300 gallons of gasoline from the Gary Trust and Savings bank, where she is a janitress, was held by United States Commissioner Forrest Gantenbein yesterday. He ordered her to appear before the federal grand jury in Crown Point on Sept. 18 and set bond at $2,500.

"IT'S THE BUSIEST CAR IN POLK COUNTY..."



"IF IT ISN'T A FARM ERRAND, IT'S WAR WORK! Our 1941 Ford is kept on the go about 1800 miles a month. A.A.A. Committee, Board of Education, Farm Bureau, U. S. O. and War Bond activities take me out on all kinds of roads, the year 'round."

"THE WHOLE FAMILY DEPENDS ON OUR FORD. My wife uses it for household trips and volunteer service work and my boy for his 4-H Club and scrap-drive activities. It's given us 64,000 miles of the most reliable transportation anyone could ask for."

"Sure glad I've got a FORD!"

says WILBUR T. HILDRETH, Farmer
Elkhart, Iowa

Forty years of reliability, stamina and low-cost operation have made Ford cars the choice of millions. Letters from Ford owners in cities and towns and in the country, tell how well their cars are standing up. And almost always, the owner gives a big share of credit to his friendly Ford dealer, whose careful Protective Service contributes so much to maintaining America's transportation.

"OPERATING AND SERVICE COSTS ARE MIGHTY LOW—in fact, I don't believe any other car can touch a Ford in these respects. It delivers good gas and tire mileage and needs very few repairs, and the good looks and comfort certainly last, too!"

NEWS NOTES—In the Ford main powerhouse at the Rouge plant, the largest of its kind, coal is the principal fuel. But there is only one scoop-shovel in the entire building and it is chrome-plated and kept as a relic. Nowadays the coal is pulverized, blown into the boilers like gas.

Thru the Looking Glass

From the time you were a little girl you heard that plenty of sleep was good for good looks. It put the glint in your eye, the bloom on your cheeks, the sheen in your hair. You thought, privately, that that was just more of the bunk parents hand their children—and you've nursed that idea ever since to some degree.

But you're wrong. Maybe rest alone won't transform the ugly duckling into a swan, or put curl into hair that is straight as a string. What it will do, however, is help wonderfully to preserve what good looks the generous Lord gave you.

Fatigue is slow poison that leaves its mark dreadfully on your appearance. Even your carriage will slump if you develop the bad habit of never, never getting quite enough rest. Your skin will reflect accumulated weariness as inevitably as it will reflect some insidious ailment. It grays and coarsens. We needn't tell you what lack of sufficient sleep does to your eyes. And we needn't remind you that you won't have beautiful hair unless you're a soundly healthy person—and your health simply isn't up to par when you are the victim of fatigue.

Burning the candle at both ends will ravage your good looks. Maybe not today, but in a tomorrow that always comes too soon for any woman to accept with fortitude. Your eight hours of rest every night is, actually, more important to the preservation of your appearance than any cosmetic commodity you could buy. It's important in youth, and in maturity. The woman who underestimates the value of rest and relaxation is, quite definitely, short changing herself. She'll be sorry, but regret won't help her. ELEANOR NANGLE.

'Jewish Hospital's Style Show Benefit Witnessed by 700

Seven hundred persons attended the third autumn fashion show of the Chicago Women's Division of the National Jewish hospital of Denver, held yesterday in the Standard club. Fifteen department and specialty stores were represented in the presentation of 68 mannequins wearing the season's latest creations.

Among the costumes was a black wool street length dress, with a black velvet bow at the neckline. Topping the dress was a shocking pink wool jacket, lined with lapin. A black coachman's hat, with a face veil, complemented the ensemble. A two piece cinnamon colored dress, the blouse of which has a swathed neckline, was highlighted by a black fox shako and stole.

Evening dresses were simple and practical. Typical was a brown crepe with a satin fishtail as ornamentation. The skirt was the split-front style. The dress was brightened with a gold brooch at the base of the V-neck and matching earrings.

Sally Requests Furniture for a Large Family

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Mrs. T. is the recently widowed mother of eight children. Their furniture is completely worn out. Because living conditions were so bad an assisting agency is now moving them into better quarters, and they will need furniture for six rooms, including beds, table and chairs, living room furniture, curtains, silver, utensils, bedding, etc. The agency will arrange transportation but offers from the south side could be most conveniently handled.

A case worker has requested a baby bed, 2 to 4 year size, for the young wife of a service man who is expecting a child next month. If any reader can provide a medium size crib the worker will be glad to arrange transportation.

Mrs. S. is an elderly woman who has neither relatives nor friends to help her. She has been an invalid for a long period and spends most of her time in a wheel chair. Due to her condition it may be necessary for her to go to a hospital in a short time, and she will need a lightweight coat, size 36. During the coming winter months she would appreciate a warm robe, since her small quarters are inadequately heated. Because of her illness she is unable to leave her home, and any items which are donated will have to be mailed to her. Further information may be obtained thru this department.

"THE MAN FROM FRISCO."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

At last the Danny Kaye record has run down and now the Woods invites you to a ship building party on its screen, hosted by the gentleman whose last name rhymes with Kaye and who is very Jimmy-Cagney-ish, both in looks and technique, if you ask me.

Once I didn't care for Michael, but in this number he's really rather special, handling a role that calls upon him to be a lot tough and a little tender with naturalness and intuition.

Thru the mediums of pre-fabrication and the principles of mass production, the Liberty ships were launched in 41 days from the laying of the keel as against the six to eight months once considered fast building time. The story of "The Man From Frisco" was suggested by this fact. "The Man" is Matt Braddock [Mr. Shea], a construction engineer who is sent to the Point Pleasant ship yards, which have operated efficiently but slowly, to handle construction of pre-fabricated ships.

He's as welcome as the smallpox. The action reveals how he overcomes all difficulties, wins friends, influences people, and causes the heart of the superintendent's daughter to go bumpety bump. Her father had resigned because of him. . . . Her progressive minded young brother, who had worked for Braddock, had lost his life in an accident at the yards. . . . But the story ends with the launching of a ship named after the last—the Russell Kennedy—with Kennedy [Gene Lockhart] back on the job and Mrs. Kennedy [Anne Shoemaker] breaking the champagne bottle. . . .

Tommy Bond, as the far-sighted idealistic Russell, is splendid. Anne Shirley mixes a little steel with the saccharine and is quite pleasing as Diana. Other players are adequate.

"The Man From Frisco" is rather patly dialoged and you'll approve of the direction [I think].

Boswell Club Awards Londoner a 'Degree'; Gets Thanked by Air

A group of Chicagoans, members of the Boswell institute, smiled happily last night as they heard A. Lloyd-Jones, head of the Johnson Society of London, thank them for the degree of doctor of frustration [frustrationis doctor] on a short wave program beamed to them by the British Broadcasting corporation. The broadcast recalled the birthday, five days away, of Dr. Samuel Johnson, 18th century figure of English literature, whose companion and biographer was the Scottish James Boswell.

It was an especially big night for Rousseau van Voorhies, Chicago representative of a publishing house, who is proud of his role as founder of the Boswell Club of Chicago and the Boswell institute [Institutio Boswelliana]. Van Voorhies plays Boswell in the club, an organization of 40 in which each member has the role of a Boswellian character. Head of the club is Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent of schools, whose counterpart is Joshua Reynolds, noted English painter.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 13.—Harry Cohn, the sly fox, certainly is going to cash in on Shirley Temple. I'm told he's got her signed for "Kiss and Tell." . . . It's not true that "Lost Week-end" has been canceled, altho the distillers of America are mighty upset over it. They believe it could be the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of prohibition. . . . Gloria de Haven is creeping up on Betty Grable mighty fast in G. I. polls. They're almost neck-and-neck now, and at the rate Gloria's going she's due to pass "Legs" any minute. . . . Mary Phillips, wife of Maj. Kenneth McKenna, is leaving the play "Chicken Every Sunday" in New York for "Valley of Decision" and Greer Garson at Metro. . . . Twentieth Century will not grant Laird Cregar his release. Laird is mighty unhappy because he can't play "Henry VIII." for Billy Rose. I hear Rose will cancel the play. To date he can't round up a cast.

Leads the Way Back Home.

McKinlay Kantor, writer, is putting "Home Again" into script form for Sam Goldwyn. He'll also do it as a serial for a magazine before it hits the screen. It's the post-war home front, and Sam hopes David Niven will be here in time to do it. Teresa Wright, Dana Andrews, and Virginia Mayo are practically set, even tho picture's a long way off. . . . Well, well, another movie man gets into diplomacy after a three weeks' course at the state department. Richard C. Patterson Jr., who followed "Deke" Aylesworth as vice chairman of the board of R. K. O., will be appointed minister to Yugoslavia. . . . Ann Warner's beautiful daughter, Joy, may become a soldier's bride by next edition. . . . Conrad Nagel's daughter, Ruth, had experience on a New York newspaper before signing to write for Metro. . . . When Joe Schenck phoned his brother, Nick, about Louis Mayer's broken pelvis, Nick said, "I'll fly right out!" "Why, Nick," said Joe, "I didn't know you were a bone specialist."

From Gable to Cradle.

Yearly the Ziegfeld girls take a poll of their favorite stars. This year it wasn't Gable, but Margaret O'Brien. She got a memento inscribed "To Maggie—most glamorous girl of us all." . . . Kay Kyser will not be permanently disabled by arthritis. . . . Joe Hazen, Hal Wallis' business associate, not only foots the bills but pays for his dinner at Larue. . . . After seeing "Wilson," Joe Cotten sent Alexander Knox a cracked plate with Wilson's face embedded in it, and a note: "My award to the man who gave the best performance of Wilson in 1944." . . . Ben Sonnenberg is wearing the only upswept straw hat in town—in fact, it's the only straw hat.

Why Our Men Are Heroes.

Lt. Phil Reed, back from Saipan, told a story so typical of our boys. There were dozens of wounded lying along the beach, waiting for medical attention. When it came they all yelled in unison, "Take care of that little girl first." It was a seven year old Jap who'd got caught in the cross-fire and had an arm shot off, but she was a human being and a girl, and she was taken care of first. . . . Bob Maltensen, 17 year old high school boy, won the $500 prize for recognizing Spencer Tracy's double in Denver, Colo. The money goes toward his college education. He didn't think he was going to be able to have one. . . . Caught Carl Brisson at the Blackstone in Chicago. If Hollywood doesn't page him soon, it's passing by a great bet. He's better than ever, looks younger than his own son, puts over his songs with great originality, and wears the only top hat in the Windy City.

This Fellow Should Be Twins.

Charles La Torre, New York actor, flew out to confer with Henry King about "A Bell for Adano." Day he arrived here, he got a call from Leland Hayward to get himself right back to New York for the same role in the play, "A Bell for Adano." Now he doesn't know which way to jump. . . . Mike Todd is hoping he can do for Jeanette MacDonald on Broadway what "Philadelphia Story" did for Katharine Hepburn. . . . After "Life of Chopin" it wouldn't surprise me if Metro sent out "Maytime" and "Naughty Marietta" again. Fans are about due for some good music. . . . Jack Northworth has been added to "Hold Autumn in Your Hand" cast with Zachary Scott and Betty Field.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead, king of clubs.

The lead of the king from ace, king, and another has from time immemorial been touted as the best in the land. But the experience of this reporter as well as that of other contemporary scribes has shown that it ranks somewhat farther down the list.

West's bidding strategy was sound. His pass on the first round was intended as a trap for his vulnerable opponent, but when South bid three spades, he was quite convinced that that was as far as matters would go, inasmuch as it was highly improbable that North would be able to dig up any further bids. Consequently he inserted the double then and there.

His choice of opening leads, however, was not as sound as his bidding tactics. He led the king, ace, and another club. Declarer was in and led a low spade toward dummy. West was obliged to win and continued with a diamond. South disposed of his two hearts and fulfilled contract, losing only two clubs and two spades.

The possession of the 10 of clubs with the ace and king, made the lead of that suit especially uninviting. With a suit that short there is too much danger of setting up some intermediate cards for the declarer. The opening lead of a diamond should have been selected as the least apt to sacrifice a trick. This will defeat the contract despite the fact that declarer obtains two discards immediately. If he sheds the two hearts, he will lose two tricks in trumps and three in clubs. If he lets go two clubs he will lose two clubs, two trumps, and a heart trick, provided he plays well.

Had the club suit been five cards long there would be no question as to the propriety of the lead.

Noise a Good Safety Valve for Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Our children aren't unusual, I guess, but they certainly are noisy," writes a mother. "It seems to me I'm constantly saying, 'Don't make so much noise, please,' or 'Walk, don't run,' or 'Don't thump down the stairs two at a time,' or 'Don't yell—I'm not hard of hearing.' And they are so careless and thoughtless at times. They complain that they are always being scolded, but what else am I to do?"

And my reply is that it's all right for children to be expected:

To shut a door without slamming it.

Not to yell and shout in the house.

To say "Thank you" and "If you please."

Not to talk in a loud voice.

To hang up their coats and hats when they come in.

Not to bring the new puppy or kitten to the table.

Not to skate down the hall or always jump down the stairs.

Not to always race thru the house.

But sometimes it's good for them to cut loose and they should be given the opportunity whenever possible. It doesn't make them wild to let off steam. It's just a good wholesome safety valve. Let them slam the door occasionally, without noticing it.

Let them get out of doors and tumble and roll.

Put them in clothes they can forget completely as much of the time as you can.

Let them have lots of time in the wind and sunshine where they can shout as loud as they please.

As long as they're not bothering anybody by it, let them be frisky and frolicsome, rambunctious and rackety, whenever you can.

Let them be out of doors as much as possible, because that usually means freedom. In the very nature of the scheme of things when they come indoors most of the bars go up, as far as physical freedom is concerned. It has to be so. But that's why the outdoors is so good for them.

Even adults often feel the irksomeness of the restraint that civilized life engenders—even adults long to throw over the traces and now again. And in our own way we do manage release and freedom at times. Recognizing this in ourselves, we should sympathize with it in our children and be as understanding as possible.

Jean Armstrong's Wedding to Author Set for Sept. 23

BY JUDITH CASS.

A RANCH somewhere between Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal., will be the post-war home of Miss Jean Armstrong and Edwin Corle of the army air forces, who are to be married quietly in Winnetka Sept. 23. Until Mr. Corle is released from the army and can continue his writing career he and his bride will be in Santa Monica, Cal., where he was transferred recently from Florida.

Author of seven books, the most recent of them "Coarse Gold," Mr. Corle also is well known on the radio and as a Hollywood writer. He received a Guggenheim fellowship two years ago, but the work he was doing on a book about Mexico after that grant was interrupted by his army service. While he completes that book and one on the Grand Canyon, Miss Armstrong intends to raise horses on the ranch.

Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong II. will be her sister-in-law's only attendant, and serving as best man will be Lt. Col. Merle Armitage, well known impresario who, with Gaetano Meroli, founded the Los Angeles Opera association in 1924. He also is the author of "Accent on America," just published, and which is scheduled for review by Claudia Cassidy in one of her columns Sunday.

Mr. Corle is arriving Monday, and his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Corle of Los Angeles, will arrive Tuesday. The wedding will be a small one at 4:30 p. m. in the tiny chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church. A few close friends will gather afterward in the Winnetka home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Armstrong, to drink a toast to Mr. Corle and his bride.

Other Wedding News.

South America is to be the new home of Miss Gina Safford, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Rehm Schmidt, who will be married at 4:30 p. m. today to Hugo Adams Terrazas of LaPaz, Bolivia. The wedding will take place in the E. Pearson st. apartment of Dr. and Mrs. Schmidt, with a reception following. The Rev. Emmett Regan of Holy Name cathedral will read the service.

Carola Teegen, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Otto Teegen [Dorothy Schmidt] of New York, will be the bride's flower girl and only attendant. The best man will be Harold Nicholas of Oak Park. Mrs. Teegen, sister of Dr. Schmidt, is here for the wedding, but Mrs. Schmidt's sister, Lt. [j. g.] Mary Wood Hylan of the WAVES, was unable to obtain reservations to come from her post in New Orleans.

After a month's wedding trip, Mr. Terrazas and his bride will return to Chicago to be here for a month before going to Bolivia.

Engagement News.

At a tea last Sunday in their home in Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schilling announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Virginia, to Sgt. James Allen Cheney of the marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cheney of Hinsdale. Miss Schilling was graduated from the Walnut Hill school in Natick, Mass., and attended Gulf Park college in Gulfport, Miss. Her fiance recently returned from 20 months of duty in the South Pacific and temporarily is stationed in San Diego, Cal. The wedding is planned for the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Bell of New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alberta, to Lt. Karl G. Porges of the army, son of Dr. and Mrs. Otto Porges of Chicago and Kenosha, Wis. Miss Bell attended Barnard college and received her degree last year from Hunter college. She now is stationed in Washington, D. C., as an ensign in the WAVES. Her fiance, who is serving overseas, was graduated in 1941 from Harvard university.

Here and There.

Miss Nancy McClelland of New York is arriving today to visit Mrs. Irene Sidley for two weeks in the latter's summer home in Highland Park. Mrs. William P. Sidley will give a dinner party next Wednesday in Winnetka for Miss McClelland, who is an author and interior decorator. The following day Mrs. William C. Jackson will entertain at luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club.

Mrs. E. Dale Shaffer arrived in Kenilworth Tuesday for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Harrison. While Ensign Shaffer is at sea, Mrs. Shaffer and their 2 year old son, Charles Benjamin Shaffer II., are living in Lexington, Ky.

News of Births.

Mr. and Mrs. James Norris were in Jacksonville, Fla., to help welcome their first grandchild, the baby daughter born there Monday to Lt. and Mrs. Arthur K. Kneibler Jr. [Eleanor Norris]. Lt. Kneibler is stationed at the naval base in Jacksonville. On her mother's side the baby has two uncles, Bruce Norris of the navy V-12 program and Lt. James D. Norris, who also is stationed in Florida, and a debutante aunt, Miss Marguerite Norris, who has entered Smith college.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cavanaugh [Jane Stude] have not decided on a name yet for their new daughter, born Tuesday in St. Luke's hospital. The baby and her sister, Anna, are grandchildren of the Henry Studes and of Edward Cavanaugh. The children's father recently was released from the army after service as a captain for a year and a half.

Little Toppers Finally Are on the Way—Out

BY REA SEEGER.

Silly little hats, whiffs of feathers and bows, and all the cluttering small stuff that masqueraded as fashionable millinery is fast vanishing. Thanks to enterprising hat makers, something far headier than a ruffle or ruch now makes the smartest headlines. You may balk, but if you try on these new complicated and bigger hats you'll not only feel like a different woman but look like one.

Sleek Victorian elegance has been revived with toques, turbans [yes, there's a difference], gigantic berets all looking much heavier than those to which you've been accustomed the last few years. This additional thickness is flattering as such hats make your face look smaller and more feminine. The hats this winter will work for you, not you for them.

Wearing a hat will require added care from now on. You will not slap a small whiff of virtually nothing on your curls and dash for the train. Even if it is a turban, it must be fitted to your head to be secure and becoming. Veils help keep that sleek appearance. Many hats have the veils securely sewed in position as part of the trim.

The most exciting hats are those fashioned of feathers, ostrich, curled or uncurled, coq feathers, dashing wings of color or shiny black, and bands of feathers in street shades and pastels. Feathers are massed to achieve fashionable thickness or else in aureole or halo effects with extravagant abandon. The results are positively breath taking.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

At the first session yesterday of its annual fall meeting, the board of directors of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, 30 W. Washington st., was informed by Mrs. Charles W. Stigman, war service chairman, that her committee expects to raise $25,000 by Christmas for the construction of a greenhouse on the grounds of Vaughan General hospital, Hines. The greenhouse not only will provide fresh flowers for the institution's wards but also will be used in connection with occupational therapy classes to be conducted for convalescent army men.

Arrangements have been made thru Miss Dena Sudow, Red Cross field director at Vaughan, and the Red Cross camp and hospital committee, which acts as liaison between donors and military installations.

Altho plans have been formulated for limited army demobilization after Germany's surrender, the army service forces have announced a growing need for women to enlist in the WAC for assignment as medical and surgical technicians.

Among the 38 WAC recruits who left Chicago yesterday for basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia., are several who will enter the ranks of the medical department: Frances Hale, 7521 Dorchester av., a physical education specialist; Teresa O'Neil, 2407 W. 86th st., a practical nurse; Margaret A. Sedivy, Du Page; Ruth Murnane, 2210 W. 120th st.; Mary Kessler, 7027 Clyde av., and Florine Record, Peoria.

Some of the vacancies now existing in army hospitals require previous experience, but schools have been established to train women with special aptitudes for hospital jobs in the WAC.

General admission requirements do not differ substantially from those imposed for regular WAC enlistment. Women eligible for medical jobs must be between 20 and 50, must have had four years of high school education, and must pass aptitude tests. Six weeks of basic training will precede hospital instruction.

Medical jobs for WACs include those of X-ray technician, occupational therapist, pharmacist, optometrist, psychiatric social worker and psychiatric assistant, orthopedic technician, lip-reading teacher, and Braille and typing teacher for the blind.

Women interested in enlisting in the WAC to do these specialized jobs with post-war civilian occupational opportunities are invited to seek an interview at the WAC procurement center, room A-333, 166 W. Van Buren st.

Yeoman 2d Class Sonja M. Johnson of the SPARS is home in Chicago on leave, visiting her mother, Mrs. Esther Johnson, 839 W. 68th st. SPAR Johnson is stationed in the St. Louis, Mo., district Coast Guard office, where she keeps important papers and service records. She is one of 250 SPARS in the St. Louis district. The women work in downtown offices and live in a seven story barracks in the central part of the city.

Independence of Mexico Will Be Celebrated Here

Bailey Stanton's penthouse terrace atop the Burnham building will provide the setting for an 8 o'clock program and musical tonight with which the Pan-American council will celebrate Mexico's Independence day. Dr. Lazaro Benavides Vazques of Mexico City, here for special study at a city hospital, will give the Independence day address, and among the special guests will be the Mexican consul general and his staff and representatives of Mexican organizations. There will be dancing following the musical, which will bring as program participants Chief Specialist John Carter of the navy, tenor, Luis Mendez of Mexico City, pianist and singer of comic songs, and Nena and Quico Barbosa.

Women of the Moose to Hear Tribune Writer

Chapter No. 43 of the Women of the Moose will have a publicity meeting at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at 1016 N. Dearborn st. Mrs. Dorothy Johnson will be the speaker on "Women in War Work," the title under which she conducts a daily column in THE TRIBUNE.

Vote All-City Mass Meeting on School Issue

A city-wide mass meeting of parents whose children have been denied the privilege of attending schools outside their home districts by a new order of the board of education, was called last night by 150 parents in a protest meeting at the Morgan Park Methodist church, 111th st. and Longwood dr.

The meeting will be held Sunday. The hour and place probably will be designated today at a committee meeting of parents at 185 N. Wabash av. The committee will meet at 11 a. m.

The call for a city-wide protest meeting was the latest step in the general parental dispute with the board of education. As a result of the board's new order, several thousand youngsters have been barred from attending accustomed or preferred schools. Earlier in the day 150 irate mothers jammed the foyer outside the board offices at 228 N. La Salle st., vainly attempting to attend a once-scheduled meeting that had been postponed, obviously because of the fight.

Also, earlier in the day, 300 members of the Parent-Teacher association in District 1, met in the First Presbyterian church, 64th st. and Kimbark av., and passed a resolution asking the board to reconsider its transfer ban. The action was taken in defiance of the recommendations of Mrs. Theodore Gleichman of Moline, state PTA president, who urged a more softly worded resolution. Her position was that national PTA rules prohibit opposition to school administration policies. She also protested against mass meetings.

Last night's meeting at the Morgan Park church was an answer, altho it was not a PTA affair. It was sponsored by the Ridge Citizens' school committee. This committee, during the night, voted to appropriate $100 to begin an injunction suit against the board. The whole meeting, in a later action, voted to petition Gov. Green to reorganize the Chicago school system to provide for elective officers.

In an independent move, Ald. Bohling [7th] wrote a letter to Ald. Grealis [44th] to take steps as soon as possible to bring about state legislation providing for the election of a board of education. At present, board members are appointed. Ald. Grealis is chairman of a city council subcommittee on school matters.

N. U. to Give Degrees to 340 Medical and Dental Seniors Today

Northwestern university will award degrees to 340 medical and dental graduates at exercises at 4 p. m. today in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus. President Franklyn B. Snyder will preside and the graduates will be addressed by Maj. Gen. George Lull, deputy surgeon of the army.

Many of the graduates will be called into immediate service in the army or navy. The medical group includes 123 candidates for the degree of doctor of medicine, 137 for bachelor of medicine, and 12 for bachelor of science. The dental school will award degrees to 65 candidates and all except one, Gerardo N. Aste of Lima, Peru, will enter service. Several graduates of the Wesley Memorial Hospital nurses' school will receive diplomas at the exercises.

The medical division of the Northwestern Alumni association will give a reception from 5 until 7 p. m. at Thorne hall for the graduates and faculty members and their families.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Girls with a Hoe.

Maybe you'd like to hear about the Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co. white collar girls who won awards in the employes' annual war garden show. One of the girls, Ruth Jaffke, a medical technician, won a first prize for each of three exhibits—carrots, squash, and turnips. And to add to her trophies, which in this case were war stamps, she won six second awards and a third prize. But she is no rookie when it comes to war gardening, because she manages a farm in Michigan, where she goes week-ends.

Another girl, Alice Roots, in the accounting department, won first prize for her home grown tomatoes and red peppers; another, Elaine Jacobson, who works in the treasury receiving department [where your bill payments are handled], took a first prize with green beans; Ethel Seiler, a statistician, took a first prize for green peppers.

Eavesdropping.

Overheard by Bruen Blarney in a loop restaurant: "If he handles the complaint like a real boss he'll blame it on his secretary."

Don'ts for the Roommate.

Won't you print a few "Don'ts" for the vast number of WCG's who are sharing a room or an apartment with another career girl these war crowded days? To name a few:

1. A roommate should not feel she is entitled to the use of personal gadgets without permission.

2. A roommate should make a point of neatness, emptying ashtrays, picking up newspapers, rinsing out glasses, etc.

3. A roommate should not feel that she should be included when there is a guest for dinner unless invited to remain.

4. A roommate should not expect to share friends, amusements, mail [or males!] without long-standing friendship and understanding.

5. A roommate should regard the furnishings of the place in which she lives as furnishings of a home and treat them with care.

6. A roommate should remember the importance of silence. On the Byrd expedition there were periods of enforced silence to keep the men from fretting one another with incessant talk.

7. A roommate should be as careful with another's telephone messages, telegrams, and special delivery letters as she would want some one to be with hers.

8. A roommate should consider loyalty as part of the renting contract. As long as she and her roommate share living quarters she should speak loyally of her and guard her secrets as they are guarded in any loyal home. A WCG.

Opposites.

I've been waiting for some one to suggest the opposites slow up and slow down, used frequently in this mechanical age.

R. L. SCHNEIDER.

How about opposite meanings in the word priceless?

CAROLINE GIESLER.

IDENTITY ADMITTED.

There is a moment when the strongest person can be caught off guard, and for a split second Carol saw recognition of her in Janner's eyes. If it had not been for this she might have doubted her own senses.

Janner was dead. She had seen him murdered and witnessed the carrying away of his limp body. She had seen the arrest of dozens of innocent persons as the result of his assassination and suffered herself from its aftermath. Only yesterday he had been buried in state. And now he was standing beside her.

In her excitement she knocked over her glass of sherry and that gave him a reprieve from embarrassment. The recognition faded out of his eyes and they were amused now.

"How charming a version of dropping one's handkerchief!" he said smilingly. Let me have the pleasure of ordering you another drink to replace it!"

By now Carol herself was beginning to feel a little more assurance. What was the man's game, what line would he take? She decided to force his hand.

"Thank you, Marshal Janner," she said, watching him closely. His expression did not change, fer he was prepared now.

"My name is de Gresser," he said. "Do you want to give yours, or shall I just call you Becky? That is a name I am fond of—Becky."

"You know whom I am," she said steadily, "so it doesn't much matter what you call me. There are some things I am curious to know—very curious, and this is not a good place to talk. Could we sit at that little table in the corner over there?"

"Certainly! That would be charming!"

He ordered their drinks sent to the table and escorting her to it, helped her to be seated with the smart politeness of a man who wants to make a good impression. The waiter brought the drinks and he raised his glass.

"To an evening's end as charming as its beginning!" he said. Carol stared at him fascinated by his composure, his incredible self-assurance. What was behind it? Was he actually what he appeared to be—an officer of the allied forces? Could he have been that all along, doing the same sort of thing in France which she herself had been doing? He was Janner, all right. And he knew perfectly well who she was. That is to say who he believed she was: Lita.

"How long have you been stationed here, mademoiselle? It cannot have been for any great length of time or I would surely have met you sooner!"

"How long are you going to keep up this pretense with me?"

"My dear lady! But I haven't the faintest idea what you are talking about!"

"Stop playing the Liebestraum at me and talk sense. I know perfectly well who you are.

"If there is some good reason why you were Janner with the German forces of occupation in France and are Capt. de Gresser in North Africa, you'd better talk fast."

"My dear girl, that sounds unpleasantly like a threat. I meet an attractive woman and expect to have a pleasant evening. I suppose you must have been drinking. You will excuse me, please!" Carol spoke sharply.

"Do you wish me to make a scene? To scream that you have insulted me? There are a lot of American soldiers in here. I am an American army nurse and there would be a riot in a split second! Sit down and talk and I won't start it!"

He saw that she meant what she said and he resumed his seat. But his manner changed. This was the same Janner who had questioned her during those long, awful hours at the castle.

"Very well, I will talk. But not here. You come to my quarters."

"I'm not a fool!" she said. "We will talk right where we are!"

Would Bright never come?

"You will regret it," Janner was saying. "But I suppose no woman can resist an impulse of curiosity. Now what do you want to know?"

"Who are you? I mean, who are you, really?"

"Look here, madame," he said, addressing her properly for the first time. "You say I am Janner. But all the world knows Janner is dead."

"And I know that you are he. I know you were not—purged."

"Very well, madame. Suppose I am the man you think. How are you going to prove it? I am well known to be a famous flyer: an allied flyer. I was a Belgian ace in World War I., altho I was a mere boy then. All this is easily established."

"That still doesn't explain why you are wearing a Fighting French uniform now when last week it was a coat of another color."

"Janner is dead, I tell you!"

"Unless the assassination was a fake. Unless the German high command knew that Janner was their most valuable spy and wanted to save him from exposure."

"And who could have exposed him?"

"Well, there were two people who might have done that—a certain woman and her husband who were at large in France: who had escaped from Janner's clutches."

"I take it that only you escaped to Algiers. Otherwise your husband would be with you tonight?" He took up her glass and drained it. "Incidentally, I might add that it is peculiar that you suddenly wear a uniform. You did not previously."

"Now we're getting somewhere!" Carol exclaimed. "Never mind about the uniform. Let's get on with clearing up a few things about you! I'll admit that was a very clever move, that fake assassination."

"I never thought you were without perception!" he said mockingly. "Since you are so astute it will give me a great deal of satisfaction to admit to you that what you say is so. I am Janner. I have been flying information to my own forces, information which has been entrusted to me as de Gresser. Occasionally I made a public appearance in Germany or the occupied countries for obvious reasons."

"How dare you admit all this?"

"Because the statement is of no value to you. I am an artist in my line, madame. I plan skillfully and well in advance and take no chances. My 'assassination' had been planned a year ago and could have taken place at an hour's notice wherever I happened to be when threatened with exposure. When I say you can prove nothing against me, I mean it."

"I can start an investigation."

"And when that investigation is over, even if it is made by the highest authorities, you will be regarded as quite mad. Go ahead!"

"And suppose I happened to be successful?"

"Then you would most certainly meet with some unfortunate accident! Which I would sincerely regret having occur to a lady whose hospitality I have enjoyed and whom I have greatly—admired!"

The man was so full of self-confidence, he had flung the most dangerous sort of challenge at her and done it with a complete contempt for her ability to take it up.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

FOOD FOR FAMILY FUN

It's a wise mother who plans frequent home entertainment for her teen-aged children and their friends these days. Provision for pleasant evenings at home will do much to keep restless young people away from the undesirable places that are giving our country much cause for concern. And home entertainment goes straight to the heart of youth when there's food somewhere in the picture—good, home-cooked food!

Coke Crowd's Delight—Barbecued Hamburgers

4 tsp. Wilson's B-V
4 tbsp. hot water
1½ lb. hamburger
¾ cup soft bread crumbs
4 tbsp. fat

Dissolve the B-V in the hot water and mix thoroughly with all ingredients except fat. Divide into six equal amounts, shape into patties, place on sheet of waxed paper, allowing plenty of space between, and cover with another sheet of waxed paper. Flatten each patty until it is about an inch larger in diameter than the buns to be used. Cook slowly in the hot fat (drippings from Wilson's Certified Bacon are delicious), turning once to brown both sides. Serve, as is, on a buttered bun (toasted, if desired), topping each hamburger with barbecue sauce . . . or place browned hamburgers in a baking pan, cover with barbecue sauce and let bake 10 to 15 min. at 325° F. Serve extra sauce separately as pictured. Serves 6.

B-V BARBECUE SAUCE

1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup ketchup
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. Wilson's B-V
½ cup water

"ON THE SOLID SIDE"

After the football game or an evening of fun at home, what better spread for the smooth high school crowd than this? "Super!" they'll call it, for hamburger to them is strictly "on the solid side." Serve the hamburgers with potato chips, crisp chilled cole slaw (made gay with bits of red and green pepper) and milk, cocoa or cokes and—it's quite a party.

Favor the Family

And remember please, the family likes hamburgers too. For a family dinner, you might wish to make the potatoes French or American fried and add broccoli and a dessert . . . say, iced watermelon or an assorted fruit bowl.

Unless your meat dealer has already done so, add about 3 tbsp. finely chopped suet or Wilson's Certified Margarine to each pound of hamburger mixture if it is grass-fed or Grade C meat. This will make it more juicy when cooked.

FLAVOR'S the Thing

Hamburger is improved by adding a small amount of Wilson's B-V. It adds a rich tempting flavor to many foods. The joy of eating is in flavor. Yes, flavor's the thing.

Sincerely,
George Rector

More of our brothers, sons, and husbands are overseas now, and more of us are wanting to send them food. But army authorities and the postoffice wish to discourage us from sending food, because little of it reaches the boys in edible condition.

The postoffice informs me that 8 ounce packages may still be sent to army men overseas without a written request, but that these packages no longer can contain any food or candy.

If you have a written request from your man in service, you may send him a package containing food, if the food is not perishable. Cookies and candy usually are perishable. Food sealed in an air tight can, such as fruit or chicken, is permissible—or commercially packed delicacies which stores suggest for overseas packages.

Many of the downtown stores have prepared food combinations suitable for overseas mailing. These often are a safer guide than our own ideas.

Milk and cream are going to be scarcer this fall and winter. Much more of these dairy products is following our men overseas, in the form of powdered and evaporated milk, cheese, and butter. A little less cream in the coffee, creamless puddings, and fewer milk soups and creamed foods will help ease the situation at home. We don't want to cut down on the children's milk drinking, and there are few adults who drink more than the recommended three glasses a day. The savings will have to be in cooking.

Remember when we had the onion shortage and your grocer kept his onions in the back room and rationed them to his best customers? This fall there's an onion surplus, so we can smother utility beef in all the onions we want.

Are you in the mood for sending a package to some boy stationed here in the states? Tuck a few fruit balls into the corners, wrapping them well in waxed paper first. These sugarless sweets are awfully good for snacking. Steam 1 cup dried prunes and pit them. Rinse 1 cup white figs and clip stems. Put prunes, figs, and 1 cup raisins thru food chopper, using fine blade. Mix well, shape into balls and roll in ground unblanched almonds.

Lutheran Body Approves 5 Million Post-War Fund

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—A $5,000,000 appropriation for post-war reconstruction plans was authorized today by presidents of the 38 districts of the Lutheran church, Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states, F. J. E. Nickelburg of the synod's press committee announced. The appropriation, authorized at a meeting of the presidents in St. Louis, will be used to supply aid to missing stations in China, India, South America, Africa, and European countries, Mr. Nickelsburg said.

Quaint Mittens

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Bright yellow, crocheted mittens trimmed with quaint embroidered flowers will be an almost unanimous choice for cold weather. These warm mitts are created of a simple stitch and may be made in a short time. Flowers are easy to embroider and bright bits of wool from the scrap bag combine to give a perfect finishing touch.

For instructions in crocheting the mittens, No. 1256, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Theater of Air to Tell Birth of Constitution

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With a capacity audience expected in Medinah temple Saturday evening when the Chicago Theater of the Air broadcasts "D day—1787" on the eve of Constitution day, W-G-N will install loud speakers outside the temple to carry the program to the possible overflow crowd.

The hour's presentation of "D day—1787," portraying circumstances attending the framing and signing of the Constitution, will be broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network. This program will be followed by a half hour broadcast on W-G-N only, with Republican leaders of Illinois as speakers. The latter broadcast will be given under auspices of the Cook County Republican central committee. The audience will be composed of committee members and their friends.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, at the presentation of "D day—1787," will review events leading up to the framing of the Constitution and discuss some of its most significant parts. Music will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Henry Weber. Jack La Frandre has written and will produce the Constitution day drama with a cast of outstanding Chicago actors.

The cast will include John Barclay as George Washington, Jack Petruzzi as Patrick Henry, Sidney Ellstrom as James Madison, and Hope Summers as Martha Washington.

For the half hour broadcast after the network program Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] will serve as master of ceremonies. The speakers will be Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, the Republican nominee for senator, and John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney.

George M. Fisher, chairman of the Cook County Republican central committee, is in charge of ticket distribution for the Constitution day observance.

Peplum Frock

Fashion is sponsoring the peplum again this autumn. In crepe or satin, as well as in very sheer woolen, this frock with either plaited or shirred peplum is a smart one for the informal, war time social scene. The neckline may be U-shaped and collarless, or V-shaped with a rolled collar. Sleeve length also is optional. Style No. 2502 is for sizes 12 to 40. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Scientists Foresee Instant Cooking by Use of Electronics

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The day may come soon when cooking a roast will be a matter of seconds instead of hours and when potatoes may be popped into an oven and baked instantaneously.

High speed cooking, a war born electronic process known as "megatherm heating," is still in its experimental phase, but proponents of the idea today predicted it will be the next step in the evolution of the culinary art.

Using high frequency energy as its heating medium, electronic cooking penetrates uniformly and simultaneously all parts of food subjected to it, rather than cooking thru application of heat from the outside.

"We may logically expect to introduce cooking with megatherm heat to the lunch counter, the restaurant, the hotel, and even the home kitchen in the post-war era," Vernon W. Sherman, manager of the industrial electronics division of Federal Telephone and Radio corporation, said.

DOBBS TO PLAY IN ALL-AMERICA CONFERENCE

CUBS TRIUMPH OVER REDS, 3-2, AFTER 4-1 LOSS

Frank Secory Slams 3-Run Homer.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's Cubs were forced to move briefly into the second division yesterday but, after looking around, decided they were too good for the place and moved back among the National league's elite.

Frank Secory.

They stepped down one flight when the Reds slipped them a 4 to 1 eviction notice in the first game of a double header, after which they returned upstairs to fourth place as the result of an expert moving job by Frank Secory. He smashed a homer with two on bases and the Cubs won, 3 to 2.

Appreciating that they would have to join the common folks of the league if they didn't win, the Cubs held on in the first game thru eight innings which featured Japhet Lynn, the pitching railroader, and Harry Gumbert in a 1 to 1 duel.

Reds Win Opener in 9th.

But the Cubs' Japhet got into a traffic snarl in the ninth and before he could restore order three Red runs had rushed past, the fuel being supplied by four hits and a pass.

Claude Passeau, who turned out his twelfth victory in the second game, encountered difficulties only in one spot—the fourth, when the Reds helped themselves to a two run lead by bunching four hits.

At the time this handicap looked serious because Clyde Shoun, the Cub alumnus, was southpawing in fine style. The best the Cubs could do to him in five innings was a meager three hits, two by Andy Pafko. But with two on in the sixth, Secory, incidentally a Red alumnus, did his moving job, the nonstop blow being his first since he was brought in from Milwaukee a few weeks ago.

Passeau Finishes Strong.

Passeau progressed at a one-hit pace in the second game until he encountered Dain Clay at the start of the fourth. He singled and promptly stole second. A harmless popup took care of Gerry Walker but Frank McCormick singled and Clay scored. Ray Mueller and Jo-Jo White also singled, McCormick scoring. Then Passeau stopped the next two batters. Thereafter the only real disturbance created by the Reds arose in the sixth when Mueller and White singled again with one out. A double play put a stop to this.

One was out in the sixth before the Cubs began to make the motions that terminated with the neat batch of three runs. Don Johnson poked a single into center and with two out Bill Nicholson was given a more or less intentional pass by Shoun. Then Secory thumped his homer into the right field seats.

Gumbert Starts a Rally.

Four Reds arrived safely at base in the third inning of the first game and Lynn had reason to feel relieved that only one enemy got home. Gumbert started it by singling with one out. W. Williams followed with a single and Clay with a double, Gumbert scoring. Walker was thrown out, McCormick was passed and the pressure was removed when Lynn fanned Mueller. Cavarretta's single and Nicholson's double tied it in the fourth, but there should have been more because Nick's blow came before anybody was retired.

The finishing touch in the ninth started with singles by Walker and McCormick. Mueller drove a double into center and Walker ran across the plate. Crabtree was purposely passed, but the plan failed when Mesner whistled a single past Hack, sending in McCormick and Mueller.

TEMPORARY CBA SECRETARY TO BE NAMED TONIGHT

The executive committee of the Chicago Bowling association will meet tonight in the C. B. A. offices, 32 W. Randolph st., to determine a temporary successor to Al Sindelar, late secretary of the organization. Jules Sowa, secretary of the Classic league, is among the principal candidates to be considered. Others include Bill Wernecke, Roy Davis, Clarence Jackson, Jerry Peck, and Jules Lellinger. The appointment is expected to be only until the regular annual convention of the C. B. A. in December.

Sox Ready to Resume Play with Browns

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox soon will resume their drive for permanent undisputed possession of sixth place in the American league standings, an eminence in which they have been alternating with the Philadelphia Athletics for several weeks.

Tomorrow night in St. Louis the Sox and the Browns, the latter back on their home lot to stay the remainder of the season, will resume their nine-game home and home series. The teams will play four games.

Hope for Impressive Final.

The Sox are hoping their final appearance in St. Louis will be more impressive than their first series there, April 21-23. The Browns won 5 to 3, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3.

The Chicagoans accomplished their first victory in St. Louis on June 20 when the Sox took a 4 to 3 decision in the 10th inning of the front end of a twilight night double header. In the night phase, however, the Browns won, 5 to 0. The Browns won the night of June 21, 11 to 2, but the Sox evened the series, taking a 10 to 3 decision the last time they were in St. Louis, June 22. Thus in seven games in St. Louis this year, the Sox have won 2 and have lost only 5. In Chicago, the Sox beat the Browns this season, 5 out of 11.

Browns Finish at Home.

St. Louis is the only team among the four contenders which has completed all its road games. Detroit still has a series in Cleveland, and New York and Boston will finish in the west. The Sox will drop out of the pennant show for a week, after their return from St. Louis. They will be entertaining fellow also-rans, the A's and the Senators, before the Yanks and Red Sox come to town.

Giants Score 13-0 Triumph Over Sampson

Sampson, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Jim Crowley's Sampson Bluejackets could do nothing against the New York Giants' stout forward wall and dropped a 13 to 0 decision in an exhibition football game here this afternoon.

The Giants took advantage of a first quarter Sampson fumble for their initial score. Jordan Ettinger dropped the ball while attempting a pass and Len Younce, scooping it up on the run, sped 27 yards for a touchdown. Younce's place kick for the extra point failed. The second Giant score came in the third quarter when Arnie Herber connected on a long pass to Frank Liebel in the end zone.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

"WALTER JOHNSON was the greatest pitcher I ever saw and he would have been even better if he could have worked today," says Harry Heilmann, the former Detroit batting star. . . . "Christy Mathewson was a curve ball expert and had the advantage of freak deliveries and scuffed baseballs," Heilmann continues, "whereas a fast ball pitcher like Johnson gets his best effects with a ball that has a perfectly smooth cover." . . . Auburn, Tulsa, and the Texas Aggies, the three newcomers on the University of Miami [Fla.] football schedule, are the last three foes of the Hurricanes' season. . . . Only two players in the University of Pennsylvania's history have captained gridiron teams for three seasons. . . . A. J. Gray was elected in 1882, 1883, and 1884, and Edgar M. Church in 1889, 1890, and 1891. . . . The Detroit Lions and the Brooklyn Tigers of the National Football league are scheduled for an exhibition game in Detroit's Briggs stadium on Oct. 8. . . . If the Detroit Tigers win the American league pennant that also would be the date of the first world series game in that city. . . . Woody Williams of the Cincinnati Reds, who hasn't missed an inning of play this summer, has an excellent chance of setting a club record for times at bat. . . . The mark of 641 was established by another second baseman, Hughie Critz, in 1928. . . . Pvt. Jackie Gibson N. C. A. A. bantamweight boxing champion during his University of Wisconsin days and a semi-finalist last winter in the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament, is a handy man with a racket, too. . . . He paired with Sgt. Bob Kaethner, radio mechanics instructor at Truax field, to win the Madison senior tennis doubles championship.

Three Smiths are potential starters for the Iowa Seahawks football team. . . . They are Tackle Warren Smith from Southern Methodist and Half Backs John of Marquette and Bob of Tulsa. . . . Lt. Comdr. The teacher asked a boy in Sunday school
Just why his church would not allow cremation;
The only time, she said, it breaks the rule
Is when a plague or pest spreads devastation;
When any person dies from normal cause
His nearest earthly relatives are bound
To follow out the church's funeral laws
And have his body buried in the ground.

The only answer that the boy could give
Was that cremation didn't get results,
The three youths in the furnace seemed to live
Tho they were not so tough as most adults;
"We get burned up when things go wrong," said he,
"But why keep at it for eternity?"

ONLY NEED OF FIGHTING IRISH IS EXPERIENCE

No Foe Will Find Notre Dame Easy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 13.—The Notre Dame football squad, which begins its difficult 10 game schedule Sept. 30 at Pittsburgh, has the spirit for which the university is nationally renowned. But the varsity squad, with only five letter men from last year's national championship team, lacks experience, so that it will indeed be a miracle if the Irish can continue to dominate collegiate football.

The schedule is as comprehensive as any Notre Dame has played despite omission of Southern California, dropped last year for the duration on account of war transportation. Wisconsin, Illinois, and Northwestern are Western conference rivals. Four teams—Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Army and Navy—are met in the series of eastern invasions. Tulane and Georgia Tech, leading southern elevens, are on the schedule. And the season will end at Notre Dame on Dec. 2 when Great Lakes, only team to beat Notre Dame last season, invades the Irish stadium.

Army and Navy Powerful.

Inexperience may not be too severe a handicap against most college teams since all must depend on civilians supported, in some instances, by navy trainees. The service teams at West Point and Annapolis, however, do have experienced men, some of them like Fred Earley, Notre Dame half back last season, who now is a student at the Naval academy. Here are Notre Dame's most serious rivals, altho no one on the campus discounts any opponent and, least of all, Pittsburgh, which, so rumor has it, is prepared to take the opening contest two weeks from Saturday.

Head Coach Ed McKeever, the genial Texan who is carrying on for Lt. Frank Leahy, on leave with the navy, adheres to the fundamental that each opponent is played in succession. He worries now over Pittsburgh and leaves the Navy game Nov. 4 and the Army game in New York the following week to their proper position.

Filley's Status Uncertain.

"This is the critical week in our preparations," McKeever said after last night's scrimmage, a rugged battle on a muddy gridiron which matched any we ever have watched on Cartier field. "We must swing some of the reserves into shape now if they are to support the first eleven."

The five letter men constitute a formidable nucleus to leaven the freshman recruits. There's a question mark on Capt. Pat Filley, however, who leads the squad for a second season. Pat has a medical discharge from the marines and he has not reported since an operation was performed on his knee. Consequently this 178 pound veteran from South Bend is currently listed behind Fred Roval of Hammond, Ind., at left guard. Roval, incidentally, weighing 191 pounds, is highly regarded.

Tackles Are Experienced.

Notre Dame, fortunately, will have experience at the all important tackle positions. George Sullivan, a 200 pound navy V-12 student from East Walpole, Mass., is on the left side and John Adams, 6 feet 7 inches, 226 pounds, protects the right. Bob Kelly from Leo High school, Chicago, hero of the 1943 Army game, now is stationed at right half back. Frank Dancewicz, holdover monogram winner at quarter back, completes the list of experienced players.

Dancewicz, overshadowed a year ago by Angello Bertelli and John Lujack, possibly is the hardest worker on the squad. He is fastest of the group, has experience, and already has taken some of the attention from Joe Gasparella, the forward passing freshman star from Vandergrift, Pa. Gasparella, altho only 17 years of age, is 6 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 202 pounds, and has great possibilities in the T formation of attack Notre Dame continues to employ. He literally throws down to his receivers, but he hits the target with the skill of Bertelli. Naturally, he is untested under game conditions.

QUARTER BACK JINX HITS THIRD WILDCAT PLAYER

Coach Lynn Waldorf began a hasty search for quarter back talent for Northwestern's football team yesterday when he learned that Jack Doyle, husky freshman signal caller from Milwaukee, will be out of action for several weeks with a broken rib. Doyle is the third quarter back to be sidelined by injuries, the others being Frank Clawson, who is nursing a disclocated elbow, and Ben Schadler, who has a knee injury.

Doyle suffered a partial rib fracture in last Saturday's scrimmage. Yesterday at lunch a piece of French fried potato stuck in his throat and, while coughing violently to dislodge it, he fractured the rib completely. Doyle's loss moved Win Fisher, a civilian, up to the first team.

Waldorf took steps to bolster the depleted quarter back ranks by moving Jim Powers, rugged freshman end from St. Mel High school, to the back field.

OHIO STATE LINEUP SET.

Columbus, O., Sept. 13 [Special].—The starting lineup for Ohio State's first game, with Missouri here Sept. 30, is about set. Only a tackle and guard assignment appear to be in doubt.

It is almost certain that Jack Dugger and Cy Souders will start at end, Captain Gordon Appleby at center, Bill Willis at one tackle, and Bill Hackett at one guard. The back field will see Bob Brugge and Dick Flanagan at the halves; Ollie Cline at full back, and Tom Keane at quarter back, with Les Horvath available at either half or quarter.

SEAHAWKS SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 13 [Special].—The Iowa Seahawks got another look at Michigan plays this afternoon in a stiff scrimmage session against the third string. Some time also was spent in developing the cadet offensive, with Full Back Bus Mertes doing some good line plunging.

MICHIGAN ENDS SCRIMMAGE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 13 [Special].—Michigan ended its contact work here today for its opener Saturday against the Iowa Seahawks with a blocking session followed by a short scrimmage.

SIGNS TWO YEAR CONTRACT WITH NEW YORK CLUB

Tulsa Star First to Join New Group.

New York, Sept. 13 [Special].—Lt. Glenn Dobbs of the army air forces, the great passer from the southwest, will launch his post-war professional football career with the New York eleven in the newly formed All-America Football conference. This announcement was made tonight by the club's owners, Mrs. Lou Gehrig and Ray J. Ryan.

Dobbs, they said, has signed a two year contract. The salary was not disclosed. The 6 foot 4 inch triple threat star from the University of Tulsa was selected in 1943 by the Chicago Cardinals in the National Football league's annual draft of graduating collegians.

Compared with Baugh.

At the time Dobbs was in military service and he did not sign a contract with the Chicago team. He is believed to be the first player signed by the rival organization, which was formed in Chicago early this month. At that time, spokesmen for the All-America conference declared that no team would be allowed to employ a coach or a player who is under contract to any eleven in the National league.

Dobbs' passing and kicking in two Chicago Tribune College All-Star games and in post-season bowl spectacles have led football experts to compare him with Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins.

All Stars' Most Valuable.

Despite a bruised right arm, the result of a blow in scrimmage, Dobbs' passing gained a 14 to 0 lead for the College All-Stars in their game last month with the Chicago Bears in Evanston. In this contest, his 85 yard quick kick set a record for the All-Star series. He was voted the All-Stars' most valuable player. In the 1943 All-Star game, Glenn was a key figure in the 27 to 7 triumph over Baugh and the Redskins. He hurled one touchdown pass to Pat Harder, completing nine of 13 pitches for 116 yards.

Dobbs, a native of Frederick, Okla., first attracted national attention in the 1942 Sun Bowl game in El Paso, Tex., between Tulsa and Texas Tech. That season, Tech had led the nation's college teams in pass defense. Against the Red Raiders, Dobbs completed 21 of 29 passes, one for a touchdown in the final minutes which netted a 6 to 0 victory.

Stationed in Colorado.

In the Sugar bowl game of 1943 against Tennessee he electrified the crowd with eight consecutive successful passes, the last one for a touchdown. His punt of 85 yards in this contest broke the previous Sugar bowl record of 75 yards established by Baugh when Sam was with Texas Christian university.

In his three varsity years, Tulsa won the Missouri Valley conference championship. Last season, Dobbs played with Randolph field's eleven in Texas. He threw 20 touchdown passes for the Ramblers and his punts averaged 40 yards. Then he appeared in a third post-season attraction, the Cotton bowl at Dallas against the University of Texas, in the rain. The teams tied.

Lt. Dobbs, who is married, is stationed with the 2d army air force at Colorado Springs and plans to play with that base's football team this season.

Fort Sheridan Ends Football Play Saturday

All football games scheduled for the Fort Sheridan squad after Sept. 16 were canceled in telegrams sent last night to opponents, it was announced by Col. George H. Cushman, commanding officer of the army post. The fort's small original squad suffered four major and several minor injuries against Western Michigan last Saturday, and the transfer of seven players to other army assignments is scheduled for early next week, he said.

To Play Great Lakes.

The game with Great Lakes Saturday will be played, athletic officers at the naval training station having been notified of the conditions and having expressed their willingness to accept the situation for the sake of the entertainment of the men at the station.

Teams with which games were canceled are Northwestern, Sept. 22; Iowa Seahawks, Sept. 30; Lawrence college, Oct. 7; Bunker Hill Naval training station, Oct. 14; Marquette, Oct. 21; Lincoln Army air base, Nov. 5.

Lt. John R. Phipps, athletic officer, explained that the schedule was arranged in midsummer, when conditions indicated that there would be sufficient football material at the post to make a worthy team. "We do not have the material for a team," he said. "If we attempted to carry out this schedule, it would only result in great disappointment to people who might attend the games. The men who are available are not experienced enough for this kind of football, and they would actually be in danger of serious physical injury."

Cushman Voices Regrets.

Col. Cushman said, "I am convinced that it would be foolhardy and actually dangerous for us to send the present squad of men into the field against these opponents. We regret the necessity for this action, but feel that it would be better for our opponents to attempt to secure other games."

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS IN GAMES TODAY

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—Probable pitchers for tomorrow's major league games with won and lost records:

Boston at Brooklyn [2]—Javery [7-18] and Barrett [7-15] vs. Herring [2-3] and Davis [9-10] or Melton [8-11].
Only games scheduled.

Purdue Full Back Gets Annapolis Appointment

Goshen, Ind., Sept. 13 [Special].—The appointment of Robert S. Pfohl of Goshen to the United States Naval academy was announced today by Rep. Robert A. Grant, South Bend. Pfohl, now a freshman at Purdue university and a full back candidate on the football squad there, last year was voted the most valuable player in the Northern Indiana Scholastic conference's eastern division.

EQUIFOX DRAWS TOP WEIGHT FOR RACE SATURDAY

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Howard Wells' Equifox, whose last start was a two length victory over his stablemate, David Straus' Daily Trouble, in the $50,000 added Washington Park handicap, has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds for the $10,000 added Hawthorne autumn handicap Saturday.

The 7 year old son of Equipoise will find plenty of first class competition in the 17 other nominees announced by Racing Secretary Larry Bogenschutz. Among the stake winners listed are Coward and Du Puy's Appleknocker, John Marsch's Valdina Foe, Mrs. E. V. Miller's Traffic Court, Herbert Woolf's Signator, and D. V. McClure's Gold Princess.

To Carry 116 Pounds.

Appleknocker, which won the $10,000 added Dick Welles handicap at Washington Park, will carry 116 pounds in the ninth renewal of the mile and one-sixteenth affair. Daily Trouble, Gold Princess, and Valdina Foe will carry 114 while Signator has been allotted 112. Signator will be coupled with Silvestra as the Woolford farm entry.

Other nominated are Happy Issue, Night Shadow, Son of Peace, Dog-gone, Bushwhacker, Harriet Sue, Quizzle, Take Wing, Signal's Bloke, and Paragram.

Yesterday's daily double was worth $167.80 when Tony Skoronski brought in C. A. Creahan's Wildebeest at $8 in the first and Willie Garner guided Mrs. J. C. Alexander's Alar over at $38 in the second.

Woolford Farm's Cactus Foot, a 4 to 5 favorite, won the featured $2,000 Outer Drive purse by three and one half lengths over Brolite farm's Latent in a field of five. Circle W stable's Devalue was third. The winner, ridden by Art Fisher, paid $3.60.

A crowd of 11,616 was present for the fifth day of the 34 day meeting and wagered $835,684.

TRIBUNE EXPERT PICKS WINNER PAYING $104.60

The Tribune race selections yesterday carried the longest priced winner of the day at any of the major tracks. The horse was Free Transit, which won the sixth race at Narragansett Park. The prices across the board were $104.60, $40.60, and $17.60.

The 51 to 1 shot, a 3 year old colt, had won previously at Rockingham Park. The victory yesterday was his fourth this season.

ELDORADO WINS, 13 TO 7.

Eldorado, Ill., Sept. 13 [AP].—The Eldorado Eagles opened an 11 game football schedule here last night with a 13 to 7 victory over Fairfield.

War Plant Cut-backs

Throughout America, while production is being speeded up for certain critical war materials, cut-backs are taking place in plants producing less essential materials. This condition is generally reflected in the manpower market.

War mechanics, for example, are not available for hire; whereas a few weeks ago mechanics of top rank were spoken of as jewels out of Tiffany's window. Journeyman electricians have occupied such a category for many months. But all this is changing, only imperceptibly perhaps in some instances, but no less certainly.

To the men of America who find themselves released from war work after many months of unremitting toil, Tennessee Eastman Corporation, in the Knoxville area, still offers splendid opportunities. Chemists (inorganic and physical), skilled craftsmen, particularly mechanics and electricians, are those chiefly sought.

Company representative will interview and hire applicants

ONLY NEED OF FIGHTING IRISH IS EXPERIENCE

Notre Dame Will Prove Easy for No Foe.

tack, is manned by George Terlep, Elkhart, Ind., navy student, and Chick Maggioli, a marine from nearby Mishawka, Ind. They have drive and spirit and it is likely each will improve game by game. Elmer Angsman, 1943 squadman from Mt. Carmel High school, Chicago, and Rudy Krall, V-12 189 pounder from Lew Wallace High school, Gary, Ind., are the full backs. Krall is one of the best of the newcomers.

Bill O'Connor, tall, pleasant youngster from St. Michael's, New York, is the left end. A good pass catcher, O'Connor distinctly has possibilities. He is supported by Mike Devlin, a 16 year old from Creighton Preparatory, Omaha, Neb. Devlin will be 17 in November. If age always is a handicap, consider Maj. Eddie Anderson, who played varsity football for Notre Dame at the same age.

Basis for Excellent Eleven.

This squad is short of the ability of last year's champions. It has average speed, average weight, and its attack depends on inexperienced players. But there is the basis for an excellent eleven judged by war standards. The players are aggressive, they are being given intensive lessons, and no opponent will find them easy to defeat.

Cards Drop 2 More; Pirates Win, 7-3, 10-5

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13 (AP).—Pounding St. Louis pitching for 19 hits, the rampaging second place Pittsburgh Pirates won their second double header in two nights from the league leading Cardinals, 7 to 3 and 10 to 5.

The double victory ran the Pirates' record to nine consecutive conquests over St. Louis and cut the Cardinals' lead to 13½ games.

PRIMAS TAKE 3 FROM SUNKIST, LEAD CLASSIC

The fast stepping Prima Beers took the undisputed lead in the Classic league after last night's rolldown at Faetz's recreation, when they swept their series against the Sunkist Pies. This makes six straight for the Prima boys, who also scored high team total of the second night's play of the season with a nice 2,976. They also won high single game honors with their middle 1062, which was accomplished thru Joe Traubenik's 278 game.

Hold Services on Saturday for Gus Sonnenberg

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Gustave [Gus] Sonnenberg, 44, whose unorthodox style brought new popularity to professional wrestling in the early 1930s, will be buried Saturday in Marquette, Mich.

The navy chief specialist died last night in Naval hospital, Bethesda, Mo. He had been ill with leukemia eight months. Sonnenberg had served in the navy at Great Lakes [Ill.] Naval Training station and at Bainbridge, Md.

Credited with introducing the flying tackle to wrestling, Sonnenberg became a national flure when he defeated Ed [Strangler] Lewis in Boston when Lewis was recognized as world heavyweight champion. He once was married to Movie Actress Judith Allen.

CHICAGOANS TO ENTER DOGS IN WISCONSIN TRIAL

Chicago sportsmen who own trained retrievers will assemble at Burlington, Wis., Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 23 and 24, to run their dogs in the first retriever field trial of the season. The trial is sponsored by the Wisconsin Amateur Field Trial club, with the Burlington Conservation club as the host.

Ferdinand A. Bunte, former president of the local Midwest Field Trial club, will help judge the stakes, with another Chicagoan, Allan M. Cameron, as his associate. The open Derby and nonwinner stakes will be run Saturday. The open all age stake is scheduled for Sunday.

National Dog week will be observed in Chicago from Sept. 17 to 23, inclusive, according to a proclamation recently issued by Mayor Kelly. Dr. W. A. Young, chairman of the committee sponsoring National Dog week activities in this city, said yesterday that a special puppy match, children's handling classes, and obedience training demonstrations will be held in Grant park, north of the bandstand, Sunday afternoon, Sept. 24, at 2 p. m.

Illini Backs Are Promised Chance to Run

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 13 [Special].—Illinois Normal, opening foe of the Illini football team here Saturday, has agreed to use the Western conference gentlemen's agreement not to kick out of bounds, it was revealed today.

This was taken as good news by Illinois' pack of fleet backs, headed by the N. C. A. A. and N. A. A. U. dash champion, Buddy Young. Last year, every opponent on the Illinois schedule kicked out of bounds to prevent Eddie Bray and Eddie McGovern from advancing the ball.

McGovern no longer is at Illinois, but the Illini present other speedy backs such as Young, Bray, Paul Patterson, Don Johnson, Ed Jacobs, John Martin, and Bill Dickinson.

Marigold Show Carded Monday Is Postponed

For the second time in three weeks a holiday has caused postponement of a scheduled boxing show in Marigold Gardens. Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun, who didn't offer a show in the Marigold arena Sept. 4 because of Labor day, have deferred next Monday's card in the north side club until Sept. 25 because of a Jewish holiday.

An eight round return bout between Charley Parham, Milwaukee junior welterweight, and Robert Earl, former city Golden Gloves lightweight champion, will head the next program.

MARKET FOR FEED GRAIN DECLINES; WHEAT IS HIGHER

Resume Trade in Corn Futures Today.

Feed grains were weak yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The dip was attributed to favorable war news and scattered liquidation.

Barley led the decline, all deliveries selling at new seasonal lows, and the close was 1 to 1¾ cents a bushel lower. Rye lost ¾ to 1¾ cents. Active deliveries of oats were off ¼ to 1 cent, tho the September future was ¾ cent higher. After the close 110,000 bushels of cash oats were tendered on September contracts.

Further purchases of wheat by the Commodity Credit corporation and reports that it had started to buy wheat for deferred shipment from the country firmed wheat futures, which closed ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher, July leading.

Expect Rye Trade to Shrink.

Brokers reported substantial selling in oats, rye, and barley by speculators who were said to be evening their positions in the three grains on the belief there would be a large trade in corn futures when that market reopens today. It was closed June 25, 1943, at the request of the government.

Market observers expected much of the recent activity in rye to be transferred into corn, that crop being of near record size.

Trading in rye was moderate, with commission houses on both sides of the market. Brokers commented on the failure of outside buying to develop despite the strength in wheat.

A poll of cash corn brokers indicated that trading in the December corn future may start at about $1.12 to $1.14 a bushel. The ceiling price is $1.18¼.

Kansas City Corn Declines.

The recently reopened Kansas City corn futures market was down ⅝ to ⅞ cent at a new low. The December contracts closed at $1.04⅜, or 10⅛ cents under the ceiling price in that market.

New corn for October and November shipment from the country sold at $1.10½ to 1.12¼, net track Chicago, for No. 2 yellow. Purchases totaled 135,000 bushels.

Grain sorghum prices have declined sharply in the southwest since the department of agriculture forecast Monday indicated a record crop of 150 million bushels, 47 million above the 1933-'42 average. Milo maize and kaffir corn which sold late last week in Kansas City at $2.22 were traded yesterday at $1.92, and a price of $1.80 per 100 pounds was quoted for November shipment from the country.

HOG SUPPLY UP, BUT RUNS FAR BELOW DEMAND

A slight rise in hog receipts at the stock yards yesterday brought the total to the largest for a Wednesday in five weeks, but the gain in numbers was so small it had no effect on the trade. Offerings continued far below requirements, with all buyers giving ceiling prices for almost all stock they obtained.

Total hog arrivals were 14,000, including direct shipments to packers, compared with 12,133 a week earlier, which was the 1944 low for a Wednesday.

Many classes of cattle declined, some as much as $1 below last week's close. Top grades escaped the price cutting and again sold up to $18.35 per 100 pounds.

The trade for sheep and lambs dragged at about steady prices.

OIL PRODUCTION CLIMBS TO NEW WEEKLY RECORD

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—United States wells produced more crude oil last week than ever before, averaging 4,689,400 barrels daily, the American Petroleum institute reported today. The average was up 31,750 barrels from the preceding week and compared with an average of 4,353,950 barrels daily a year ago.

Stocks of light and heavy fuel oils increased, as in previous weeks, and the downtrend in gasoline supplies slackened. Gasoline stocks aggregated 79,576,000 barrels on Sept. 9.

Report 125 Acre Purchase Near La Grange for Plant

Purchase of a 125 acre adjoining tract east of the Electro-Motive corporation plant near La Grange for $100,000 was reported made yesterday as the site for a large manufacturing plant. Charles R. Sprowl of the law firm of Taylor, Miller, Busch & Boyden, took title and would not disclose for whom he was purchasing the property. The land fronts 1,000 feet on the Joliet rd., extending west half a mile on 55th st., North a little over half a mile, and fronts a mile on the west side of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad.

F. D. R. TO HIKE PAY CEILING IN BID FOR VOTES

Plans Little Steel Formula Change.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—In an open bid for labor votes, President Roosevelt soon will announce an upward revision of the Little Steel formula providing for wage ceilings, it was learned tonight.

The formula, which limits general wage increases to 15 per cent from Jan. 1, 1941, levels, is under attack on two fronts—by the CIO United Steel Workers and the American Federation of Labor.

Two special war labor board panels hearing the pleas, which are based on increased living costs, are to deliver their reports Friday. The panel hearing the CIO case reportedly is divided in a three way split of labor, industry, and public members, disagreeing on specific findings of fact. The second panel reportedly is divided on fact findings, with the labor member opposed to the industry and public representatives.

Move for "Stretch" Reported.

Neither of the panels is empowered to make recommendations, but their fact findings are expected to point to definite conclusions. The board will consider both reports simultaneously. It is reported reliably that the board will recommend stretching of the Little Steel formula in both appeals.

The recommendation will be sent to the White House, where the ultimate decision will be made by Mr. Roosevelt, because the President adopted the formula as a national wage policy and the WLB has decided it does not have authority to junk the formula.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., today CIO President Philip Murray assured delegates to the United Automblie Workers' convention the formula will be revised within a week. It had been whispered in Washington that the revision was under way, but no date was forecast.

Revision Termed Certain.

"As sure as I am living the Little Steel formula will be revised," Murray told the convention. "It has to be revised in the interests of our country and people."

Murray's prediction was regarded as significant here in view of his visit to the White House last week with Robert J. Watt, American Federation of Labor international representative and WLB member. The two spent an hour with the President in a conference which reportedly embraced revision of the wage stabilization program.

In revising upward the little steel formula Mr. Roosevelt will sacrifice a campaign argument to try for votes, observers here said. For months Democratic orators have been boasting that Mr. Roosevelt prevented inflation by holding to the formula.

Many Increases Expected.

Granting of the wage increase to the CIO union will bring a host of other wage increases, which will swamp the formula, it was said. At the same time the pay increase will make it difficult for the chief executive to appeal to the people to hold the line against inflation.

The CIO union is asking a wage increase of 17 cents an hour. The New Deal may not grant the full amount to the union, which is working with the CIO political action committee for the fourth term, but is expected to grant a substantial portion of the request.

The union made a bid for the increase last April, arguing that while the formula permitted wage increases of only 15 per cent, the cost of living had risen 45 per cent. Delay of action on the request until the Presidential campaign got under way convinced observers here the move is political.

The AFL plea is a general request for modification of the formula and does not emanate from any specific affiliate.

Egg Futures Prices Dip in More Active Trading

In the heaviest activity in egg futures since early August, prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange dropped 0.6 to 0.7 cents a dozen in the more active contracts yesterday and November contracts fell a full cent. Selling was based on weakness in the cash egg market and report of the recent sale of 2½ million pounds of frozen whole eggs to dryers.

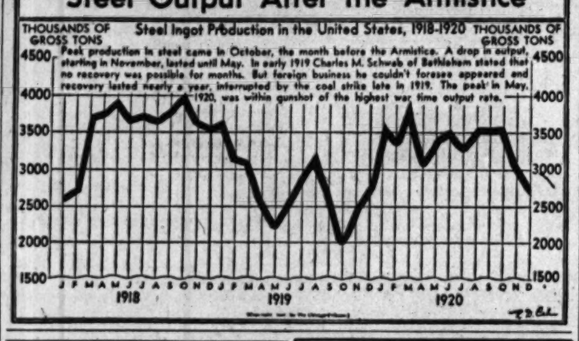
Steel Output After the Armistice



THOUSANDS OF GROSS TONS
Steel Ingot Production in the United States, 1918-1920
THOUSANDS OF GROSS TONS
Peak production in steel came in October, the month before the Armistice. A drop in output, starting in November, lasted until May. In early 1919 Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem stated that no recovery was possible for months. But foreign business he couldn't foresee appeared and recovery lasted nearly a year, interrupted by the coal strike late in 1919. The peak in May, 1920, was within gunshot of the highest war time output rate.

Universal Oil Presented to Chemist Unit

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—Ownership of the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, one of the major American research organizations, will pass to the American Chemical society under a gift announced tonight by Dr. Thomas Midgley Jr., president of the society.

[The fact that Universal Oil Products company would be presented to one or more scientific institutions was announced last Friday by the owner companies as the result of interference by department of justice investigators. They said the company had been under federal anti-trust investigation for several months.]

Developed Powerful Triptane.

The owners making the gift are six of the nation's largest oil companies: Phillips Petroleum corporation, Shell Oil company, the Texas company, and Standard Oil Company of California, Standard of Indiana, and Standard of New Jersey.

Universal Oil has to its credit some of the principal petroleum achievements, including the basic cracking process and the making of triptane, the secret war fuel which is four times more powerful than 100 octane gasoline.

Started by P. D. Armour.

The company was started many years ago by the late P. D. Armour, Chicago packer. He spent 6 million dollars which his friends considered a waste, but when his estate was settled Universal Oil was worth about 15 million. The present value of its products is 10 to 15 million a year.

Giving a research organization of this magnitude to a scientific society is something new in American industry. The chemical society announced that results of the Universal Oil research will be made available to the public without payment.

DUTCH ARRANGE BIG CREDIT THRU PRIVATE BANKS

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Netherlands information bureau and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, announced jointly today that the royal Netherlands government is completing arrangements with a group of 14 New York City banks and trust companies for an interim credit of 100 million dollars for reconstruction.

The credit, to run for three years, will carry an interest rate of 1½ per cent per annum, it was said.

"Fully secured by free assets of the Netherlands government, the 100 million dollars represents the maximum amount under this credit upon which the government may draw for its various reconstruction purposes," said the announcement.

Aldrich said the loan was the first post-war private credit to be extended to a liberated country.

REPORTED DIVIDEND PAYMENTS IN AUGUST DIP FROM YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Publicly reported cash dividends in August amounted to $132,400,000, a decrease of 3.6 per cent from August, 1943, the department of commerce said today. For the first eight months of 1944, the dividend total of 2 billion 113 million dollars was 2.8 per cent above a year ago.

Largest gains were shown in the miscellaneous group, 16.3 per cent; in gas, 8 per cent; in mining, 7.3 per cent, and in trade, 6.4 per cent. Manufacturing and railroads were moderately above and communications moderately below the average, and the electric light and power and finance group payments were below a year ago.

Within manufacturing the automobile division was up 25.2 per cent and oil refining 12.6 per cent in the eight months.

BAR ASKS CONGRESS ACT TO RETAIN STATE INSURANCE CONTROL

The house of delegates of the American Bar association yesterday adopted a resolution recommending that congress enact legislation showing its intent to leave insurance regulation to the states. The association is holding its annual meeting in the Drake hotel.

The United States Supreme court earlier this year ruled that insurance was business in interstate commerce and subject to the Sherman anti-trust act. The Southeastern Underwriters association has asked the court to reconsider its decision.

The resolution said that if the pending petition were denied and congress failed to amend promptly certain existing statutes it would tend to "upset, endanger, and undermine the supervision of insurance by the states and would in a measure subject insurance to federal regulation, which would be inimical to the national welfare."

OLDS CONFIRMED AS HEAD OF FPC BY A VOICE VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Administration senators blocked an attempt to force a record vote in the senate today on confirmation of President Roosevelt's reappointment of Leland Olds as chairman of the federal power commission, and the nomination was approved by a voice vote.

Opposition to Olds' confirmation was led by Sen. Moore [R., Okla.], who charged during a two hour debate in the senate yesterday that Olds was affiliated with such well known Communists as Earl Browder, William Z. Foster, and Carl Haessler before he received President Roosevelt's sponsorship.

When the senate convened today, Moore asked for a record vote on Olds. One-fifth of the senators present must approve, by a show of hands, a motion for a record vote. Enough Democrats and Republicans who favored Olds to override Moore's motion were present, so Sen. Maloney [D., Conn.], presiding, called for a voice vote and ruled Olds' nomination approved.

SWIFT INDICTED ON OPA CHARGES IN MUTTON SALE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP).—Swift & Co., meat packers, and two of its salesmen here were indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of violating OPA regulations.

Asst. United States Atty. James A. Gold said the case against Swift was "the beginning of prosecutions against the real causes of the small men selling over the ceiling prices."

Swift was accused of requiring butchers to buy low grades of mutton along with better grades. An OPA attorney said "as late as six months later the butchers still had the mutton in their iceboxes, being unwilling to sell it to customers."

In Chicago, John Holmes, president of Swift & Co., said he was confident the company had not violated OPA regulations.

Railroad Makes Tickets Thinner to Save Paper

The paper conservation program has reached to railroad tickets, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad said yesterday. By cutting the weight of cardboard tickets from six ply to two ply, the road has reduced its paper ticket consumption by two-thirds and saved weight and storage space, said L. J. Ahlering, purchasing agent.

New Cars Out Quickly, Nash Head Predicts

New automobiles will be delivered much sooner after the war than the public expects and they will contain some pleasing surprises, George W. Mason, president of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, yesterday told a meeting of Nash field representatives in the Stevens hotel.

George W. Mason.

Nash is prepared to go into automobile production, when restrictions are lifted, at a rate three times its pre-war output, Mason said.

"Our post-war car and production are completely set, even to the point of having all initial supplies and parts under order, and much of our machinery is ready," he asserted.

Sets Time at "90 Days Plus."

"Just how soon after reconversion day the public will be able to have new cars depends upon a number of unpredictable factors, but I believe it will be sooner than most people have been led to expect.

"Most car manufacturers can build their first cars in 90 days plus —the plus being for potential delays, such as might occur from the lack of a vital machine or a supply bottleneck."

Mason said that Nash will compete in the two major automobile markets, low and medium priced.

"The motorist is due for surprises after the war," Mason continued. "He will get his new car sooner than he expected and he will be surprised by the sweeping new trend which will mean the end of the 30-year-old automotive battle between horse power and size and economy.

Cuts Weight; Gains Economy.

"The motorist has always wanted more economical operation, but he was willing to sacrifice economy for comfort, as long as he couldn't have both. Building to the buyer's preference, the manufacturer kept turning out bigger and bigger cars which required constantly increased horsepower, and naturally increased operational costs. Some of the best engineers saw little hope for any reconciliation of comfortable size and economy."

Mason said that basic new designs and new construction methods have changed the situation. Application of aircraft methods to auto construction has eliminated hundreds of pounds of dead weight, making it possible to have bigness and safety with increased economy. He told of the success which Nash has had with its internal-strut body in which the body is a welded steel cage of girders, to which are welded the steel sheets making the surface. The saving in weight made it possible to use a lighter, specially designed engine which delivered 25 to 30 miles to the gallon, he said.

COUNCIL GROUP ASKS LAW TO LET CITY BUY BUSES

Having abandoned for the present its plan for complete unification of Chicago's local transit facilities, the city administration yesterday made a tentative approach to a smaller measure of municipal traction ownership.

The council committee on local transportation, after much debating, instructed the corporation counsel to draw an ordinance establishing a transit board and a city transportation department empowered to enter the transportation business and finance itself by issuing revenue certificates.

If adopted and approved by referendum, the city could buy some buses, choose the streets on which it wants to operate and compete with the existing companies. It was hinted without authority that the elevated rail system might be taken over.

WHAT WILL STOCKS DO WHEN PEACE COMES?

• It is a fairly well-known fact that a large proportion of common stock purchases in recent years has been outright on an investment basis.

• It is questionable that the sudden conclusion of the European war will bring deflationary movements in the securities markets, more particularly in common stocks, except those of a purely war industry character and where the problems of reconversion, new products and capital requirements are involved.

• The conversion period for a great many companies is likely to be shorter than is generally anticipated now. Industry seems likely to emerge from conversion in a more favorable position than thought possible.

• This firm continues to recommend the purchase of well-selected common stocks for investment, appreciation and satisfactory return. We will be glad to supply latest available information about all listed and unlisted securities.

COURT TO HEAR CHICAGO SLUM PLEA TUESDAY

Powers of Private Firms at Issue.

Whether Chicago will be able to plunge immediately after the war into the solution of one of its most important and vexing problems, that of slum clearance, will be decided after hearings before the Illinois Supreme court next Tuesday. Attorneys for the city will present arguments in support of the legality of the neighborhood redevelopment corporation act.

Removal of the city's blighted areas hinges on the court's decision. With the end of the war in Europe believed near and with prospects for speedy resumption of home building, the need for slum clearance is regarded as imperative.

The hearing will be on the city's appeal of a decision last December by Circuit Judge Miner which held the redevelopment act unconstitutional.

Result of Years of Effort.

Adopted by the legislature in 1941, the act would extend limited condemnation powers to privately financed development corporations. It was the result of years of search for a satisfactory legal formula to facilitate wide rebuilding of city slums.

In the past only quasi-governmental housing corporations, publicly financed, have been able to acquire land in large enough tracts to carry out slum clearance projects. The limited amount of public funds available for such projects and the removal of the property from taxation led to the adoption of the redevelopment act.

Attorneys representing the city base their hope for a favorable ruling on several court decisions in which application of "public use" in condemnation by private corporations has been upheld. The legislature has decided that slum clearance and rehabilitation by neighborhood redevelopment corporations constitute a public use.

Public Benefits Argued.

Any private gain to be realized by development corporations would be far outweighed by possible public benefits and the private gain would not convert a public use into private use, the city maintains.

A greater danger, it is argued, is that large areas will be set aside in which the government will become the landlord and the inhabitants subsidized tenants.

The plantiff in the case, John F. Zurn, will be represented by Bernard Nath. Zurn, an accountant with a real estate company, sued as a taxpayer to prevent the city from spending $1,000 to establish a municipal supervisory commission under the act.

HAHN SUGGESTS YARDSTICK FOR REMOVING CURBS

Price and other government controls on any commodity should be abandoned as soon after the war as its production reaches the pre-war level, Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods association, said yesterday. He spoke at the war time conference of the controlers' congress of the association in the La Salle hotel.

He said that long negotiations have been carried on between OPA and the Central Council of Retail Associations for a new price control plan, but had not been as fruitful as retailers had hoped.

Hull Plans Parley on Cartels; German Curb on Diesels Told

May Be Outlawed

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Secretary Hull, further unfolding state department plans for post-war world organization, today projected an allied nations trade conference at which one purpose will be to outlaw international cartels.

Hull disclosed his tentative plans in a letter to President Roosevelt, who had written Hull last week asking that he keep an eye on the whole subject of cartels. The President's letter was broad enough to include not only cartels which Nazi Germany used as weapons of economic warfare, but those which friendly nations such as Britain have used as instruments of commercial policy.

Policy to Be Set Soon.

In a reply released at Quebec where Mr. Roosevelt is conferring with Prime Minister Churchill, Hull said that "the tentative policy proposals" for controling cartels to promote trade and peace would soon be drafted.

Hull said plans already have been drafted and are ready for the President's consideration "for discussions with other united nations in respect to the whole subject of commercial policy."

The basis for a world trade agreement already has been laid in the lend-lease compacts signed by the United States with allied nations. These provide that lend-lease will be liquidated in such a way as to avoid burdening international commerce and that the signatory nations would meet as soon as possible to work out means of stimulating trade, production, and employment.

Expect Fight on Barriers.

The fact that the American attitude toward arrangements for "liberal" world trade policies is based on lend-lease agreements is taken by officials in Washington to mean that this government will use its enormous economic sources toward breaking down trade restrictions.

In dealing with other countries on cartels, chief discussions are expected to be with the British who have thus far avoided making any official commitments against cartels and have indicated that perhaps the cartel system would work under proper government regulation. The conviction of some of the advisers of the President and Secretary Hull is that such regulation would lead to direct government intervention in cartelized trade and would cause bitter trade fights among governments.

On the other hand, they privately concede that if their plans unfold fully they will involve tough domestic issues in this country—among them being drastic modification of protective tariffs.

Output Hamstrung

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13 [Special].—Germany's check-rein on American industry thru the exercise of patent rights was sufficiently powerful to have throttled the United States navy in its efforts to obtain diesel engines for various types of vessels at the height of the submarine warfare, the senate military affairs subcommittee on war mobilization was told today by James B. Adams, of the economic warfare section of the department of justice.

All testimony offered disclosed that American and English firms who scrupulously observed their reciprocal contracts with the German firms found themselves exploited in numerous ways, especially by refusals to exchange their diagrams and blueprints on tools, processes, and new equipment.

Repeated excuses were made that the German government would not permit the transmission of such details.

German Methods Detailed.

Adams recited at length the methods employed by Robert Bosch of Stuttgart, to hamstring American manufacture of diesel engines, thru directions to its American branch.

Despite recognition by American Bosch that the high United States prices of pumps and nozzles, because of royalties demanded by the German company, was retarding American use of diesel engines, a flat refusal to alter policies was the only result of a 1939 appeal to Stuttgart.

James S. Martin, chief of the economic warfare section of the department of justice, presented evidence concerning the tactics encountered by Sperry Gyroscope company and Bendix Aviation corporation from German firms, respectively Askania and Siemens Apparate und Maschinen. After years of one sided contributions of plans, drawings, and details of processes, Martin said, the department of justice took action leading to the sequestration of the Askania patents with the alien property custodian.

MINERS ORDERED BACK TO JOBS AT FIVE MORE PITS

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 13 (AP).—Miners in a dozen newly seized coal mines in West Virginia started back to work tonight as the war labor board ordered strikers at five additional pits to be on the job tomorrow morning.

Roving bands of pickets from mines already struck by the United Mine Workers' Supervisors' union forced three of the new shutdowns and new walkouts of foremen occurred at the two mines.

In Pennsylvania, where 27 mines are operating under government control as a result of the supervisors' strikes, two more walkouts due to local disputes occurred.

STOCKS SLUMP AGAIN ON EARLY PEACE OUTLOOK

Trading Increases to 880,420 Shares.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The stock market declined today with a moderately fast sell-off in the final hour chipping prices of numerous favorites fractions to about 2 points. Observers suggested the selling reflected confusion and anxiety over reconversion, again brought to the fore by reports from London that the United States war planning chiefs had fixed Oct. 31 as the tentative "outside" date for the collapse of organized resistance in Germany.

Trading increased to 880,420 shares against yesterday's 546,560. The Associated Press 60 stock index fell 0.5 point to 53.3 and thereby erased most of the gain of the two preceding sessions.

The stock exchange reported that the short interest at the end of August totaled 1,283,555 shares, compared with 1,327,641 shares on July 31. It marked the first decrease after a long period of expansion to the highest totals in recent years.

RAIL BONDS SLIP.

Prices tended to stiffen early, but preoccupation by numerous financial houses in selling the Great Northern bonds and Indiana and Michigan preferred stock diverted attention from the market.

CHICAGO LIST WEAKENS.

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, in smaller turnover of 28,000 shares. Aro Equipment reached a new 1944 high of 19, but closed at 18¾, up 1⅛, in heavy trading.

2 CHIEFS CHOSEN IN LYONS; 1 HAS NO COPS, NO GUN

The five policemen in the village of Lyons who resigned Tuesday night in protest against the appointment of a new chief went back to work at 5 p. m. yesterday under a plan of Village President Theofil Bulat to keep his former chief.

Bulat, who fought the appointment of Joseph C. Duffek as chief, said that he has power to appoint his policemen, including the chief, on a 30 day basis without confirmation of the village board. He entered the order late yesterday returning the policemen to duty with Ralph White as chief of the department.

Village Has Two Chiefs.

His move apparently leaves the village with two police chiefs. Duffek was appointed by the board Tuesday night in a coup in which the four Democratic members of the board elected a president pro tem and named Duffek chief. Duffek, who is president of the Lyons Democratic club and a precinct captain, had been police chief in the suburb for three years until last June, when it was revealed he once had served a prison term for burglary and he was ousted from the job.

"Under my rights as president," Bulat said, "I can keep reappointing my police staff at the end of each 30 day period. I have been told that the group that put Duffek in office wants to have this town wide open and I am not going to permit it. This has been a clean town and I am going to keep it that way."

Police Station Locked.

Duffek's first day in his job yesterday was not a success. Bulat had locked the police station and the two police cars. He also issued an order to the county highway police, who patroled the village while it was without policemen, to arrest Duffek on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon if they found him with a gun.

Sgt. John Cappelletti of the Willow Springs county highway station encountered Duffek in the village hall in the morning and asked him whether he was armed.

"That's my business," Duffek replied.

When the policeman threatened to take him to the county highway station, however, he submitted to a search which showed he was not armed, and he was not taken into custody.

The next step in the controversy appeared late yesterday to be up to Bulat's opponents.

Convicted on Minor Count After Making Restitution

Joseph Sergei, 29, of 1542 N. Wood st., was found guilty of petty larceny in Felony court yesterday by Judge William V. Daly and was sentenced to five days in Bridewell. Sergei was accused by Miss Betty Small of 1877 Winnebago av. of taking a purse containing $25 and a ring valued at $65 while she sat with him and James Henning, 23, of 1944 Winnebago av., in a tavern. A charge of robbery was reduced by the court after Miss Small said restitution had been made.

600 WILL MEET TOMORROW FOR BIG FUND DRIVE

Six hundred district chairmen and captains of the city division of the Community and War fund will meet at 6:15 p. m. tomorrow in Hotel Sherman with Owen L. Coon, division chairman, to hear plans for the $12,980,000 campaign to start Oct. 2.

Clarence B. Randall, general campaign chairman; Elmer T. Stevens, president of the fund; Robert E. Coburn, executive head, and Carl Anderson, secretary of the division, will be among the speakers.

MILITIA STARTS TRAINING OF 750 FOR PROMOTION

More than 750 noncommissioned officers of the Illinois Reserve militia yesterday were undergoing at Fort Sheridan training which will prepare them for promotion to commissioned officers in the militia, Col. George H. Cushman, the post commander, said.

The instruction, being given by reserve militia officers, started Tuesday and will be completed on Sept. 17. Subjects include chemical gases, rifle marksmanship, sanitation, tent pitching, military courtesy, guard duty, and first aid.

SEND US BLOOD, BEGS CHAPLAIN FROM FRANCE

A plea by an army chaplain now in France for continued donations to blood banks was made public here yesterday by Ralph A. Baier, director of the Red Cross blood bank at 5 N. Wabash av. At the same time Baier said that donations here had declined to only 300 pints a day. Chicago's daily quota is 500 pints.

The plea was in a letter written by the Rev. Frank M. Arnold Jr., 29, formerly associate pastor of Bellwood Baptist church, Bellwood, to his wife, Mrs. Florence Arnold, 3032 Washington blvd.

After telling of the apparent miracles wrought by administration of blood plasma on the battlefield, the letter concludes: "And please keep it up. Tell every one to give and give again."

$1,500,000 TIMBER FIRE.

Vancouver, Wash., Sept. 13 [AP].—Damage estimated at $1,500,000 was caused yesterday when a forest fire near Youbou, B. C., on Vancouver Island destroyed large piles of logs and quantities of standing timber.

SOLD GARBAGE AS FOOD, 2 ARE FINED, JAILED

Benjamin Weinberg and Giles A. Vaccaro, former operators of the Garden Fruit Glaze company, 955 Schubert av., pleaded guilty yesterday to an indictment charging them with 19 violations of the federal food and drug act. Each was fined $100 on each count and also sentenced to one day in jail on each count by Judge John P. Barnes. The company was ordered closed by state food inspectors recently.

Asst. U. S. Atty. William J. McCormack told the court that the company had contracted with the government to remove garbage from the Great Lakes Training center. The company then extracted the fruit rinds, candied, and sold them. Inspection revealed the fruit rinds contained rodent hair, cat hair, eggs, cinders, wood splinters and other foreign matter, McCormack said. "These men were buying garbage," McCormack declared, "and selling it as food."

Atty. Martin Gerber, representing the defendants, said that the men had done everything possible to keep the rinds clean and edible, but the shortage of help made it difficult. "I have always thought that anything left over after a man has eaten was considered garbage," commented the court.

FAKE DEPUTIES TAKE CLUB'S FIVE SLOT MACHINES

Two men who displayed what Thomas Clark, manager of the Midlothian Country club, thought were deputy sheriffs' badges carried off five slot machines from the club's barroom yesterday morning, he told Homewood county highway police.

Later, he said, after making inquiries, he learned the two men were not deputy sheriffs.

Clark told county highway police he was instructed by the club's board of directors to place the machines in the barroom a week ago.
